A NEW EXPERIENCE FOR HEALTH'S SAKE

Laird Silent About More Liberation Raids In North

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird declined today to indicate whether additional commando raids are being considered in an effort to liberate American prisoners in North Vietnam.

Laird, after testifying at a closed meeting of the Senate Armed Services Committee, told newsmen that U.S. military authorities know the location of other Communist POW camps but added they are located "in areas where it is difficult to make (helicopter) landings."

The first American liberation attempt was disclosed by Laird Monday. He reported that while the raid just outside Hanoi was successfully executed, no American prisoners were found at the site.

Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., chairman of the Armed Services committee, said the effort demonstrated U.S. ability to conduct such forays. Stennis did not rule out further raids.

"I don't rule them out in my mind but that's another matter for the determination of the secretary and the President," he commented. "We really didn't go into it much."

The White House pointedly warned North Vietnam against any retaliations against American prisoners in their hands.

Acrimonious debate flared anew today in the Senate over President Nixon's latest Vietnam war tactics—both the raid 20 miles west of Hanoi and bombing forays against the north last weekend.

Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield questioned the reliability of U.S. intelligence in

Ky Says Talks At Paris Are Senseless

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky., of South Vietnam said today the Paris peace talks were a waste of time because of Communist insincerity, but that Saigon would continue to attend.

Ky, describing himself as a dove, said that while the United States and South Vietnam "have made many, many concessions at the peace talks, the Communists are more intransigent."

Ky told members of the National Press club "the Communists are not sincere in the peace talks."

—Ky—a strong backer of the U.S. "win the war" movement —said the Communists had hoped to use the Paris peace

A Setback To Curbing Inflation

WASHINGTON (UPI)— President Nixon's hopes of curbing inflation took a heavy blow today when the government reported living costs jumped by six-tenths of 1 per cent in October.

The increase—due mainly to higher prices for cars, clothing, gasoline and consumer services —was the highest since April and put consumer prices 5.9 per cent higher than a year ago.

The October jump compared with a 0.4 increase in September and 0.2 per cent in August, cited by administration officials at that time as a sign that Nixon's anti-inflation policies were working.

On a seasonally adjusted basis, the consumer price rise in October was 0.5 per cent, the same as in September but larger than the 0.3 per cent increase in August.

The higher consumer prices combined with a drop in weekly earnings of rank and file production workers to drop their real earning power 0.8 per cent below the September level and 2.0 per cent under a year ago.

Gross weekly earnings dropped 33 cents to $121.03 because of a 0.1-hour reduction in the average work week. Real spendable earnings—takehome pay expressed in 1957-59 dollars to reflect consumer price changes—averaged 64 cents lower for a worker with three dependents, falling to $77.04.

Turn-Of-Century Plan For Transit Revealed

Would Link Marin To San Francisco

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

Rapid transit linking Marin and San Francisco would cost at least $495 million just for a system of buses running on an exclusive right-of-way from Novato to downtown Market Street.

Rail rapid transit would cost up to $987 million.

These price tags were unveiled today by Golden Gate Bridge District consultants in a $690,000 plan for transit through the year 2015.

Paying for rapid transit, they said, even with the federal government kicking in two-thirds of the capital, would require a bond issue up to $277 million to be approved by the voters in the six-county district.

The property tax take to finance the bonds would go up from 2 to 5 per cent, depending on the system selected, the consultants told district directors as they presented the results of their 10-month study.

Kaiser Engineers of Oakland did the engineering and economic work on the plan, and its impact on the environment was analyzed by Okamoto-Liskamm of San Francisco. Their report today was distilled from a mass of material they compiled, but copies of this material will not be available until next month.

The consultants detailed five possible systems of rapid transit, with varying combinations of an underwater tube between Sausalito and Aquatic Park, a second deck on the bridge for transit and a new bridge to carry rail rapid transit from San Rafael to Richmond. All five generally depend on using existing railroad rights-of-way within Marin.

None goes farther north than Novato, on the ground that patronage north into Sonoma County will be too low during the 45-year planning period to justify anything more elaborate than a system of feeder buses to the Novato terminal.

The length of the planning period was determined by the assumptions that 1975 was the earliest year in which bonds could be sold, and that 40 years was the normal bond repayment period for such mammoth projects.

The district has scheduled 20 public hearings on the five choices, after which the directors will select one, or a combination of elements from several of them, for submission to the Legislature by the end of March.

The plan was ordered by the 1969 Legislature when it empowered the district to get into all forms of transit. The 1969 law did not require that the plan be approved by the 1971 Legislature, but the implied threat was that the district would be dissolved unless its plan met with general favor among the state legislators.

Gifford Randall, who headed the work by Kaiser Engineers, said that the cost estimates

Payroll Records Of Thurber Introduced

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — The defense for Frank J. Thurber, on trial for the murder of Independent-Journal employee Allan W. Daly, introduced payroll records today to show that Thurber had worked later than the prosecution contends on the night Daly was fatally wounded.

The payroll records of the San Francisco Newspaper Printing Co., employer of the accused Mailers Union member, had been filled in by someone else to show Thurber working until 5:15 p.m.

The records conflicted with testimony by a 17-year-old San Bruno youth, who has confessed his part in the fatal shooting of Daly and been sentenced to the California Youth Authority. The youth, Richard A. Wamsley, has testified that he and another 17-year-old youth, who actually pulled the trigger, met Thurber about 4 p.m. that night at the latter's home, where the attack on Daly was planned.

The payroll records, subpoenaed by defense attorney Nathan Cohn, were explained to the jury of eight women and four men by Lee Lynch of Mill Valley, accountant in charge of payroll with the Newspaper Printing Co.

Three other employees of the Newspaper Printing Co. testified today that they worked July 4, but none could say that he remembered Thurber being at work that day.

Under cross examination by Asst. Dist. Atty. Pierre F. V. Merle, Lynch said the times in-

Witness At Calley Trial Tells Of Viet Civilian Shot In Ditch

FT. BENNING, Ga. (UPI)—A U.S. Army aviator testified in the Calley murder court-martial today that he saw an American non-commissioned officer fire a rifle shot into the body of a Vietnamese civilian in a ditch during an infantry assault on the village of My Lai.

Lt. William L. Calley Jr., 27, leader of a platoon in that company-strength sweep on March 16, 1968, is charged with the premeditated murder of 102 civilians there.

The witness, Dan Richard Millians, 23, of Fort Worth, Tex., was the 20th witness in the sixth day of testimony in the trial. None has connected Calley with any shooting at My Lai.

Millians also testified that he fired at what appeared to be a Viet Cong with a weapon as he piloted his helicopter on reconnaissance over the village. Another helicopter fired at "a couple of young males" on a highway south of the village, Millians recalled.

Millians said one of the features that "stands out in my mind" in the village terrain "was a north-south drainage ditch southeast of the village with 50 to 75 bodies in it. The bodies appeared to be noncombatants," he said.

The government charges Cal-

GOP Wins Stiff Battle For Veto

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate has upheld a presidential veto for the first time since 1965, in a victory for President Nixon that killed a proposed limit on political broadcast campaign spending.

Democrats fell four votes short of the needed two-thirds majority Monday as the move to override Nixon's veto lost 58 to 34. But there remained a possibility the Democrats might try to revive the proposal in another form before adjournment this year.

Assistant Senate Democratic Leader Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., said he suggested to Sen. John O. Pastore, D-R.I, floor manager of the bill, that the measure be attached as a rider to other legislation. Pastore was considering the move.

"The clear majority indicates it would have the support," Kennedy said. "That's one opportunity that exists."

Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott conceded the administration and Senate Republicans worked hard to kill the bill. He said the effort was even greater than the one to confirm the nominations of two Supreme Court nominees who were rejected.

As it turned out, the victory margin was larger than Scott anticipated. Nine Republicans broke ranks but their defections were offset by six Democrats, all but one from the South, who voted with Nixon.

The bill would have limited television and radio spending in general elections to seven cents per vote or $20,000 whichever was higher. Half that much could have been spent on primaries.

Presidential and vice presidential candidates would have been covered only in general elections. Candidates for Senate, House, governor and lieutenant governor would have been covered in the general elections and primaries.

Democratic National Chairman Lawrence O'Brien called the Senate's decision "a severe blow to reform of the incredibly expensive and exclusive campaign process in this country." But Vincent T. Wasilewski, president of the National Association of Broadcasters, applauded the vote and promised his organization's support for meaningful legislation in the future.

Fiery Debate Over Relief In Pakistan

DACCA (UPI)—Heated debates over whether the government was doing enough for survivors of a massive cyclone-tidal wave disaster overshadowed relief flights today by helicopters and cargo planes to remote areas of East Pakisan.

One militant leftist leader, Maulana Bashani, in a speech to 50,000 cheering Pakistanis lashed out at the government and called for the resignation of President Yahya Khan.

"Bengalis (East Pakistanis) should remember this until doomsday," he shouted to a crowd at the Dacca Sports Stadium. "President Yahya might be a good soldier but he is a total failure as an administrator."

Vice Adm. S. M. Ahsan, governor of East Pakistan, answered the charges by saying the President and the armed forces had done all that was possible in the wake of the tragedy which threatens to become history's greatest natural calamity.

The governor said the official death toll so far was more than 150,000 but "I emphasize that is not the final figure."

Israel In Second Thoughts To Talks

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Israeli officials said today new Egyptian violations of the cease-fire agreement were giving Israel second thoughts about resuming Middle East peace talks but the government hoped to make its decision within three weeks on whether to join the talks.

Israel said Monday there had been Egyptian reconnaissance flights over Israeli-held territory Sunday and Monday in violation of the agreement. Egypt denied the charges.

Israeli newspapers said today mounting concern that the new cease-fire may break down and American pressure on Israel to return to the conference table have speeded up Prime Minister Golda Meir's deliberations on the matter.

The semiofficial Cairo newspaper Al Ahram reported today that United Nations mediator Gunnar V. Jarring also had sent an appeal to Israeli Foreign Minister Abba Eban urging him to resume the talks.

Defense Minister Moshe Dayan, reported in a behind-the-scenes battle with Eban and deputy Prime Minister Yigal Allon over Israel's terms for resuming talks, called on his government Monday night to make a "supreme effort" to get the talks started before mounting tensions cause the cease-fire to collapse.

'67 Missile Takeover Plan Comes To Light

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Greek troops surrounded two U.S. nuclear missile sites in Greece at the time of the 1967 military coup in that country, and could have captured them, it has been learned.

Unofficial but reliable sources said Monday the colonels who overthrew the Greek government ordered troops loyal to the coup quietly to surround the sites using a NATO contingency plan — called "Operation Prometheus" — originally drawn up to protect the missiles against Communist subversion.

The apparent reason for the Greek move, however, was not protection but to deter he United States from opposing the military coup, the sources said.

The small band of American troops assigned to the missile site could not have prevented a takeover. However, the U.S. Embassy in Athens learned of the plan, eliminating the element of surprise for the Greek troops and raising the likelihood the sites could not be seized without a fight.

The coup was successful, and the Greek troops were removed from the missile sites without incident.

Elias P. Demetracopoulos, who was a newspaper editor in Greece at the time of the reported incident, confirmed that "extremely reliable reports" reached the U.S. Embassy that led military officials to believe the sites "could probably be overwhelmed by Greek troops without firing a shot if they moved fast enough."

Demetracopoulos, now a Greek exile leader living in Washington, said his information indicated their fears were "completely justified."

Cory Swings To Moretti

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Democratic Assemblyman Ken Cory has withdrawn from the race for Assembly speaker and thrown his support to Assemblyman Bob Moretti.

Cory, of Garden Grove, sent letters to 42 other Assembly Democrats Monday urging them also to support Moretti.

"The arithmetic of the situation is that the combined Cory votes and Moretti votes add up to the kind of clear majority which the next speaker will need," said Cory.

Moretti, of Van Nuys, predicted he would be victorious over the other four Democratic contenders when the caucus meets for a vote Wednesday.

Long-Haired Cockney Squires Anne To Film

LONDON (UPI)—Squired by the long-haired Cockney son of a dockworker and a cleaning woman, Princess Anne went to the movies Monday night in the tough East End.

"She's just the same as any other bird (girl)—she's human, ain't she?" said her date, Sam Shepherd, 19. He quaffed two beers and a rum and coke in the nearby Pearly Queen pub before meeting his royal companion.

"Nah, of course I'm not nervous. What's a princess?"

Anne smiled. Her lady-in-waiting didn't.

"Thank you very much for coming," Sam said.

"Oh, you're welcome. Thank you for asking me," Anne replied.

They they took their 96-cent seats in the front row of the balcony to watch "Bronco Bullfrog."

Sam, an out-of-work furrier's assistant who is collecting unemployment, stars in the film about a bunch of young toughs in the East End.

Sam led a demonstration when the shoestring-budget movie he and friends scripted and filmed was dropped from a posh West End movie house to make way for the royal premier of Sir Laurence Olivier's film of Chekhov's "Three Sisters."

Anne attended that premier. Sam later wrote her a letter inviting her to see "Bronco Bullfrog" at his neighborhood theater. Anne accepted.

Economist For U.S. Sales Tax

DETROIT (UPI)—Economist Eliot Janeway said Monday the nation needs a 3-per-cent federal sales tax to help halt inflation.

"Our busted government needs a major new source of tax revenue," Janeway said during an address to the Economic Club of Detroit, "and there's only one source—out at the retail level."

Janeway said a 3-per-cent federal sales tax would raise $20 million annually. He said the money could be used to eliminate the need for federal borrowing, which he blamed for feeding inflation.

Buildings Dating To First Century Found

ROME (UPI)—Remains of a Roman street with buildings dating from the First to the Third Century after Christ have been discovered under an old convent off the central Via Del Tritone, city officials said today.

The street was found when contractors were digging to build an underground garage. Excavators have uncovered the remains of houses, shops and taverns, including marble columns, wall decorations and mosaics.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Resignation Rumors

Cunningham's resignation, revealed in an unusual Sunday announcement by the exchange, had been rumored for some days. Although it followed the turmoil over the exchange president's speech advocating negotiated commission rates and other reforms, Haack said Cunningham actually submitted his resignation the day before the speech.

Spy In The Kitchen

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Soviet newspaper Izvestia stirred up a somewhat sticky metaphorical attack against the "Khrushchev Memoirs" today, claiming it was a propaganda dish cooked up in the kitchens of the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency (CIA).

The government newspaper described the memoirs as "another CIA fraud." The article also quoted former Premier Nikita Khrushchev as saying the memoirs were a "fraud."

"No matter how hard the cooks in foreign kitchens of ideological subversive activities and falsifications try to prepare such a memoir dish which would be credulously taken by the Western consumer without much thinking, their products, as a rule, give rise to great doubts even among those who themselves specialize on anti-Soviet concoctions," it said.

Third Invasion Try

ABIDJAN, Ivory Coast (UPI) —Guinea's "voice of the revolution" radio at Conakry said toray "Portuguese fascists and their mercenaries" tried a third invasion during the night but were "successfully beaten back."

The attempted landing on Guinean shores to try to overthrow President Ahmed Sekou Toure was the third in three successive nights reported by the radio of the left-leaning West African nations.

Portugal has denied having anything to do with the coup attempt.

SALT Talks

HELSINKI (UPI)—The United States and Soviet Union today began the fourth week of the resumed Strategic Arms Limitation Talks (SALT) with no agreement in sight but hopeful their twice weekly meetings would lead to nearing of attitudes.

Conference sources said the two delegations, led by Gerard C. Smith for the United States and Vladimir S. Semenov for the Soviet Union, were prepared to continue the current third SALT round well into December and towards Christmas.

Chicago 7 Denial

CHICAGO (UPI—A deputy U.S. marshal has denied charges he told the jury deliberating the "Chicago Seven" case that the presiding judge could "keep you here as long as he wants" or otherwise pressured them to reach a verdict.

The testimony contradicted that given by several members of the jury.

The marshal, Ronald Dobroski, appeared Monday at a hearing to determine whether outside communication prompted the jury to reach a compromise verdict after it had deadlocked, as the defense has charged.

Dobroski told the hearing he took two notes from the jury to U.S. District Court Judge Julius J. Hoffman. Each time, he said, the judge told him to tell the jury to "continue deliberating."

FAA Testimony

OKLAHOMA CITY (UPI)—A Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) official testified Monday he advised Golden Eagle Aviation Co. not to associate its name with large aircraft—such as the Martin 404 that crashed in the Colorado Rockies Oct. 2, killing 31 persons—because Golden Eagle was not licensed to operate such aircraft.

Melvin R. Hanson, chief of the Oklahoma City regional office of the FAA, testified on the third day of a National Transportation Safety Board hearing on Golden Eagle's request for reinstatement of its air taxi license. The license was suspended following the Martin 404 crash, in which Wichita State University football players, coaches, and boosters were killed.

$220,000 Robbery Of Armored Car

MIAMI (UPI)—Two men posing as airline employees robbed a Wells Fargo armored truck of $220,000 today and fled through busy Miami International Airport carrying two suitcases filled with money.

The Dade County Sheriff's Office said the two armed men were wearing white coveralls, similar to those worn by airport workers, and took the money from two Wells Fargo guards.

Officers said the bandits stuffed bags of cash into the suitcases and dashed through the airline terminal, shedding the coveralls as they fled. No shots were fired.

Postman Bitten During Robbery

DAGENHAM, England (UPI) —A bandit bit a postman Monday during the robbery of a mail truck.

Police said the postman was bitten on the hands by one of four bandits who pounced on him as he unloaded registered mail from the truck.

The robbers fled with $26,000 worth of mail, police said.

Window Washer Falls 21 Stories

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — One end of a scaffold broke away from its cable Monday and a window-washer plunged 21 floors to his death while another managed to swing to an apartment building terrace.

The victim in the accident at 1200 California St. was Arnold Littlewolf, 31.

Orville Brown, 51, the survivor, told police they were riding the scaffold towards the top of the 28-story building when a motor winch at Littlewolf's side began to whir. Seconds later that end of the scaffold gave way.

Brown clutched the motor winch at his end and then managed to reach a balcony.

Import Of Whale Products Is Hit

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Interior Department has placed eight species of whales on the endangered species list, thereby banning the import of whale products into the United States.

Such whale products are used largely for cat food and as an oil base for numerous products such as soap, margerine, beauty cream and transmission fluids. Interior Secretary Walter J. Hickel said:

"I take this action because I feel it necessary to influence the whaling nations to review their outlook, rebuild whale breeding stocks and institute effective international control to save this priceless resource."

Police Arrest Man Wanted In Murder

A 24-year-old man, whom San Francisco police had traced to San Anselmo, was arrested yesterday at the San Anselmo Hotel on suspicion of murder.

San Anselmo police said four of their men and four from the San Rafael department converged on the hotel at about 5:30 p.m., arresting Jack Lee Bower, of no known address, when he answered an officers knock.

Bower, wanted on suspicion of killing a Vacaville man in San Francisco Friday, had been described as armed and extremely dangerous. He gave up yesterday without a struggle, police said.

A companion, Vickie Lynne Hamilton, 18, of no known address, also was arrested and later released by San Francisco police who said she was not involved in the crime.

According to San Anselmo police, about 20 knives were found in Bower's room but a pistol he allegedly had been carrying was not found.

San Francisco police said Bower was hunted since 2:30 p.m. Friday, following the shooting death of Steven Penrod at 585 Geary Street. Officers said Bowers and Penrod had been involved in an argument over money prior to the shooting.

Police later traced Bower to the El Camino Motel in San Rafael but when they searched the motel yesterday at 1:30 p.m. they discovered Bowers had already checked out. A tip led police to the San Anselmo Hotel.

Bowers, who police said has a "long rap sheet," was booked into Marin County Jail and later transferred to San Francisco. He is being held without bail and will appear tomorrow or Friday in San Francisco Municipal Court.

Applicants For Manager Down To Two

The Corte Madera Town Council, meeting in closed session, last night trimmed to two the list of prospective town managers.

Councilman Robert P. Simmons said today one of the two will be offered the job today and should he decline, the position will be offered to the second m...

...mmons said the council interviewed four finalists at last night's meeting. A fifth man considered a finalist withdrew his application last week to accept another position.

Simmons said all the men considered were from Northern California.

Deadline for acceptance of the position is Friday, he said, but the council expects an answer in the "next couple days."

The position has been vacant since September when former town Mgr. Ronald L. Usher quit to take a similar job in Alaska.

Simmons said the town will pay the next manager between $19,000 and $20,000 per year. Usher was making about $21,500 when he left.

Chain Collision Snarls Traffic

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—A chain-reaction freeway accident involving perhaps as many as 40 cars snarled commuter traffic for about 90 minutes early today.

The Highway Patrol said thick fog on the Long Beach Freeway was the probable cause of the series of accidents.

One ambulance was called to the scene but it was not known how many persons were injured.

The patrol said at least 20 and possibily 40 cars were involved.

Dense fog also hampered traffic in other areas.

Car Loses Wheel, Flips, Injures Four

Four persons were injured yesterday at 2:40 p.m. when their car, westbound on Shoreline Highway two miles east of Muir Beach, lost a wheel, skidded into an embankment and overturned.

Three other persons received minor injuries in separate accidents and said they would see their own doctor, according to the California Highway Patrol.

In the first accident, Alan F. Peterson, 25, of Oakland, the driver of the car, was listed in serious condition today at Marin General Hospital with a fractured pelvis and internal injuries.

Three passengers were treated at the hospital for scrapes and bruises. The highway patrol identified them as Arthur Mattison, 22, and Shelley Mattison, 20, of Gate 6, and Phil Condon, 25, of Oakland.

A 15-year-old Terra Linda girl, Dawn Harrington, of 1012 Las Gamos Road, Apt. C, was to see her own doctor for a complaint of pain suffered when the car in which she was riding struck a parked car in front of 711 Los Colindas Road, Terra Linda.

Driver of the car, Tere L. Cey, 16, of 155 Nova Albion Way, Apt. 12, San Rafael, told officers she swerved to avoid a cat.

Peggy A. Williams, 31, of 141 Drake Avenue, Marin City, was to see her own doctor for minor injuries suffered when her car collided with one driven by Audre Hastings, 46, of San Francisco, officers reported.

The accident occurred in the northbound lanes of Highway 101 in San Rafael at 8:50 a.m., the patrol said.

Also to see her own doctor for minor injuries was Roseann Claverie, 19, of Benecia. Officers said she was a passenger in a car driven by her husband, Ronald J., 21, which collided with an auto driven by Joseph Mariani, 53, of 38 Sandalwood Court, San Rafael, at 4:45 p.m. on Highway 191 in San Rafael.

Bombing Follows Balaguer's Visit

SAN JUAN (UPI)—A bomb wrecked the Dominican Republic consulate Monday night shortly after Dominican President Joaquin Balaguer wound up a brief visit to Puerto Rico.

The explosion blasted out windows and left the inside of the four-room consulate a shambles. A nearby travel agency office was slightly damaged. There were no injuries.

Vice Consul Joaquin M. Arias said he closed the consulate at 1 p.m., an hour earlier than usual and nearly 10 hours before the blast. He said there was no one inside at the time of the explosion.

Two Named To Marin-Sonoma Sewer Planners

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — The Sonoma County Board of Supervisors yesterday named two representatives to the Marin-Sonoma subregional sewer plan study group.

Donald B. Head, public works department director, will represent the county and Talbert W. Bean, former Sonoma Mayor, was appointed for the Sonoma Valley Sanitation District.

The men will join with Petaluma City Engineer David A. Young and engineers from San Rafael, Novato, Hamilton Air Force Base and Las Gallinas Valley Sanitation District in preparing a subregional plan for waste disposal.

The subregional study was required by the regional water quality control board as part of the long range Bay Delta plan for sewage disposal.

Payroll Records Of Thurber Introduced

dicated on the payroll records were filled in by another member of the Mailer's Union at the company and that Thurber could have signed the payroll sheet at any time July 4 and not necessarily when he allegedly left for the day at 5:15 p.m.

Thurber is a member of the Mailer's Union, an affiliate of the typographical union which has been on strike against the I-J since Jan. 7.

Thurber, 45, testified yesterday that he worked until 5:05 p.m. July 4, the day Daly was shot, and arrived at his San Bruno home by bus at about 6:45 or 6:50 p.m.

Daly, who died 12 days later, was attacked, according to Wamsley, by himself and Larry G. Rutherford on the instructions of Thurber.

Also testifying yesterday was Thurber's daughter, Patricia Ledbetter, who attacked other prosecution testimony.

Cohn placed Thurber and Mrs. Ledbetter on the stand yesterday to attack testimony by prosecution witnesses linking Thurber to Wamsley and Rutherford and the shooting of Daly.

He twice charged Merle with "complete misconduct," but Judge Moore overruled Cohn's objections.

The testimony of the slender, blonde Mrs. Ledbetter centered on the whereabouts of her brother, Michael Thurber, now 17, the night of the shooting.

The 21-year-old divorcee remained calm as Merle sought to find flaws in her story. She told the court that at about 6 p.m. July 4 she picked up her brother at their father's San Bruno home. They drove to Pacific, she said, where she and her 3-year-old son shared an apartment with another woman.

Wamsley testified last week that it was Michael Thurber who drove him, Rutherford and the elder Thurber to and from Daly's home the evening of July 4.

Mrs. Ledbetter said yesterday that when she and Michael arrived in Pacifica, he went to visit some friends and returned to her apartment between 7:30 and 8 p.m. and stayed until about 9 p.m. He then went back to his friend's apartment, telling Mrs. Ledbetter that another friend would drive him back to San Bruno.

By the time Michael returned to Mrs. Ledbetter's apartment, she testified the woman with whom she shared the apartment had left for her job as a cocktail waitress and thus did not see Michael in Pacifica that night.

Nor, apparently, did anyone else, Mrs. Ledbetter said.

She said she telephoned the friend Michael allegedly visited, a girl she knew only as Gail, and that Gail replied that she, herself, hadn't been home the evening of July 4, but that her roommate, Valerie, had been.

The roommate, whom Mrs. Ledbetter knew only as Valerie, was not at home when she talked to Gail, Mrs. Ledbetter testified, and she had not been able to reach her.

Under questioning by Merle, and over the objection of Cohn, Mrs. Ledbetter said she had lived for four or five months in 1968 with Wayne Cavelli in Pacifica.

Cavelli, now serving time at Soledad Prison for a forgery conviction, testified Thursday that in May Thurber offered him $300 and paid $100 of it in advance to beat up Daly.

During Merle's cross-examination, Mrs. Ledbetter said she did not know a Steve Russell, although she said she understood he was a friend of Michael Thurber. She denied asking Russell for .45 caliber shells or that he gave them to her.

Daly was killed with a .45-caliber pistol, which Wamsley testified had been given by the elder Thurber to Rutherford the night Daly was fatally wounded.

Rutherford, who used the gun that killed Daly, testified before the San Francisco Grand Jury, according to a transcript introduced in court by the prosecution, that Thurber had given him the murder weapon.

Rutherford, however, has refused in the course of Thurber's trial to answer any questions linking the 45-year-old member of the Mailers Union with the crime.

In earlier testimony earlier, Thurber also denied knowing Steve Russell.

Cohn's examination of Thurber was interrupted several times by Merle's charges of Cohn "leading the witness." Judge Moor, more often than not, agreed with Merle.

Thurber testified that his Oldsmobile which Wamsley said was the vehicle used to drive to and from the Daly home the night of the attack was in poor condition. He said the top speed of the car was 25 miles per hour and that it overheated if driven more than seven or eight blocks. It was only used, he said, to drive to a supermarket several blocks from his home.

The license plates on the car, he told the jury, were never changed.

Lupe Mercado, a deaf mute who lives, as did Wamsley, at the home of Wamsley's girl friend's mother across the street from Thurber, had testified Friday that he saw Michael Thurber switch the plates on Thurber's car July 3.

Thurber said yesterday that Michael had put bolts on the license plates to replace wire that had been holding them to the car.

The defendant also said he had called his union chapel chairman, Bob Ryan, at the San Francisco Newspaper Printing Co. one night in the presence of Wamsley.

Wamsley was at the Thurber home visiting Michael, Thurber said, when he telephoned Ryan to say he had a sore throat and would not be at work the next day.

Wamsley testified last week that after he and another San Bruno youth, Walter Peterson, had firebombed Daly's home June 15 and 16 at Thurber's request, Thurber telephoned a man, whom Wamsley identified only as Bob, and asked Bob to have the firebombings checked out.

Wamsley had further testified that following the shooting, Thurber did not pay him and Rutherford the $300 they had been promised. "He had to talk to the boss, Bob," Wamsley said.

Under corss-examination by Merle yesterday, Thurber said he didn't remember if he called Bob Ryan June 15 or 16, but it would not have been unusual if he had since "we were good friends," he said.

Ryan's position as chairman, Thurber said, is similar to a union shop steward.

Thurber said he had called Ryan, both at work and at home, often because he was trying to get a dog from Ryan to give to his two younger sons who live with Thurber's divorced wife in South San Francisco.

Merle named five specific times and dates, including 11 a.m., June 16, and asked Thurber if he had called Ryan at those times. Thurber said he didn't know, that he had no specific reason to remember any of them.

Mrs. Ledbetter admitted during Merle's cross-examination that following the arrest of her father July 6, she had gone to talk with Ryan.

Thurber denied, under Merle's cross-examination, telling a prisoners at San Francisco County Jail that "Rick Wamsley would never meet his 21st birthday" or that if he didn't get Wamsley, he'd get his girl.

During further questioning by Cohn, Thurber said he smoked Camel cigarettes. A clerk at a liquor store a block-and-a-half away from Daly's home testified last Wednesday that Thurber bought beer and two packs of Pall Malls at the store the night of the fatal shooting.

Patrolman Tells Of Being Jumped

I-J Special Report

FAIRFIELD — A California Highway Patrol officer testified today he was jumped by one demonstrator, then jabbed in the face with a picket sign by another during the Valentine's Day violence outside the Independent-Journal.

Officer John Campion identified Joe Earl Reese, one of seven defendants on trial here in Solano County Superior Court, as the man who wielded the picket sign.

Reese, 32, of Hayward is charged with assaulting Officer Campion and other counts growing out of a demonstration called in support of San Francisco Typographical Union 21's strike against the I-J.

Campion, the 14th prosecution witness in the five-week-old trial, said he was jabbed in the nose and mouth by Reese after being knocked to the ground on Julia Street during a confrontation between pickets and police.

Campion said Reese ran after striking him, but that he caught the demonstrator after a short chase.

The officer said he was part of an arrest team ordered to Julia Street the afternoon of Feb. 14. The team, he said, was confronted by a crowd of chanting demonstrators which refused to disperse after several arrest warnings.

Yesterday, three prosecution witnesses — Inspector Gerald Green of the San Rafael police and officers Allan Barnes and George Gallegos of the California Highway Patrol — said they confiscated a lead-filled hose, a high-powered slingshot and 14 steel nuts from Nimmes H. Shelton, 41, of San Francisco, after they stopped him at B and Julia streets to tell him to leave the scene.

Shelton is another of the seven on trial. The objects taken from him were introduced into evidence.

Pot Case Rejected By Juvenile Court

It was reported yesterday in Marin Municipal Court that the case of Neil George Cuzner, 18, of Novato, was not acceptable to Marin Juvenile Court because he is now living as an adult.

A preliminary hearing was set in municipal court for Dec. 8 for the youth, who is charged with possessing marijuana on Oct. 30.

An 11-year-old Belvedere boy was listed in good condition today with a compound fracture of his right leg suffered yesterday when he was involved in a car-bicycle accident on Lagoon Road in Belvedere.

Police said Harvey Posert III, of 48 Lagoon Road, was riding his bicycle near the intersection of Maybridge Road at 4:21 p.m. when he collided with a car driven by Wallace E. Scott, 80, of 23 Teal Road, Belvedere.

Truck Drivers Claim Deliveries Thwarted

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Two truck drivers testified yesterday they didn't make furniture and meat deliveries in San Rafael because their vehicles were stopped by men claiming to be Teamsters out to "shut the town down."

The drivers, both members of the Teamsters Union, took the stand at the start of the fifth week of a contempt of court case invqlving several unions accused of harassing Independent-Journal advertisers.

The National Labor Relations Board has accused Teamster, Longshoremen and Typographer union locals of criminal and civil contempt for blocking deliveries to San Rafael stores during mid-October. The NLRB charges the actions violated a federal court order issued earlier in the lengthy labor dispute.

Members of San Francisco Typographical Union 21 have been on strike at the paper since January 7.

NLRB attorney Milo Price called the drivers and the manager of a furniture store to testify before U.S. District Judge William T. Sweigert. So far, 34 witnesses and 173 pieces of evidence have been introduced by the prosecution.

Ernest Zito of South San Francisco, a driver for Lachmann Brothers Furniture, said he was sotpped by three men as he drove into San Rafael and was told "85 and 70 are not unloading in this town." He said he refused to deliver the furniture at the firm's San Rafael store. Teamsters Local 70 and 85 are two of the defendants.

George T. Lawrence of Larkspur, manager of the store, testified he went out and talked to three men parked near Lachmann Brothers' outlet. He said one of them told him no deliveries would be allowed at the store as long as the firm advertised in the I-J.

Sam Cohn of San Francisco, a driver for Rath Packing Co., said he was stopped by two men while trying to deliver meat to United Market in San Rafael. He said one man told him they were from Local 85 and that the union would cite him if he delivered the meat to the market or to the store manager outside of town.

Judge Sweigert denied defense motions to strike as hearsay all the testimony involving the unions, but said it would be admitted only as evidence to show what was said by the men blocking the deliveries and not to indicate the truth or falsity of their statements.

The case is expected to continue for several more days.

No Wood To Carve

Items Are Taken From Pool Table

San Rafael police reported today that a jacket, ring, neckerchief and wallet were taken about 8 p.m. Thursday from a pool table in the Funny Farm bar, 813 Fourth Street.

The property belonging to Clark E. Jacobson of 6 Farvue Street, Novato, was valued at $252, police said.

No Charges Filed In Burglary Probe

No charge was filed yesterday in Marin Municipal Court against three Richmond men arrested Friday on suspicion of attempting to burglarize a storage room at the Edgewater Inn in Corte Madera.

Released were Joe D. Lowe, 37; Elishes Cavness, 24, and Robert B. Hassell, 33.

Costs Vary On Survey Of Attitudes

Cost estimates for an attitude survey ranging from $2,100 to $2,800 were presented last night to the Personnel Commission of the Marin County Schools Office.

Towers, Perin, Forester and Crosby and Touche, Roth and Co., both of San Francisco, each estimated the cost of the survey of 140 employees at $2,800, according to Byron Mauzy, assistant superintendent of county schools.

Low estimate was $2,100 by Stever Co. of San Francisco, but that estimate was $600 over the amount budgeted for the study, which is "just to giev all the classified employees a chance to express their opinions" about working conditions.

Since the county school board must approve the additional funds, the commission set a special meeting to polish a proposal to be presented Dec. 2 to the board, Mauzy said.

The group is also planning to ask the board to extend the survey to teachers and to ask for a full-time rather than a half-time personnel director, Mauzy said.

Burglars Rob Cotati Firm

A rear door was pried open to gain entry. The amount of coins taken from the machine owned by the Santa Rosa Cigarette Co. was undetermined.

were based on completion of a transit system by 1980, and assumed an average inflation of 8 per cent a year.

The impact of inflation was clear in the $495 million estimate for bus rapid transit. The bridge district's engineers last year figured the cost then at $313 million.

The consultants, by the terms of their contracts, did not recommend which set of solutions they favored, but they did provide a benefit-cost ratio that strongly favored bus rapid transit over a "fixed guideway transit." The latter, unless there were a marked new development in exotic hardware, translates into rail transit. Benefit in the ratio (the higher the ratio number, the better) was determined by economic development that would result, and by time saved by riders.

The five choices, their total capital cost and benefit-cost ratios were:

ALTERNATIVE 1 — Fixed guideway by subway under Geary and Post to Park Presidio, and north under the Presidio to a transit lower transit deck on the bridge. At the north end of the bridge, it goes underground again, emerging at Marinship to follow the railroad right-of-way to Novato. Cost: $987 million. Ratio: 1.05.

ALTERNATIVE 2 — Fixed guideway by subway under Kearny and Columbus to Aquatic Park, where it enters an underwater tube to Sausalito Point. From the point, the line proceeds north, first in subway, then at grade to Marinship where it joins the alignment of alternative 1 to Novato. Cost: $932 million. Ratio: 1.12.

ALTERNATIVE 3 — Bus rapid transit by subway under Kearny and Columbus, then west under Beach Street, Fort Mason and Marina Boulevard to the Presidio, where it surfaces onto a lower transit deck on the bridge. At the north end of the bridge, it uses an aerial structure up the middle of Highway 101 and a third Waldo tunnel. At the foot of the Waldo Grade, it joins the railroad right-of-way to Novato, with addition of some new tunnels and aerial structures. Cost: $495 million. Ratio: 1.42.

ALTERNATIVE 4 — Fixed guideway following the same alignment from Market Street to Mill Valley as in alternative 2. But between Mill Valley and the Civic Center, the line swings west generally along the old railroad right-of-way through Corte Madera, Larkspur, Kentfield, Ross and San Anselmo. North of San Anselmo, it enters a tunnel to the Civic Center area, then goes north to Novato. Cost: $944 million. Ratio: .86.

ALTERNATIVE 5 — Bus rapid transit from San Rafael to San Francisco, as in alternative 3, but the Bay Area Rapid Transit District line would be extended from Richmond across the bay to Point San Quentin by a new bridge. From San Rafael, the BART line would go north to Novato. Cost: $944 million. Ratio: .72.

Alternative 4 and a variation of alternative 2 assumed addition of a second deck to the bridge for vehicular traffic and expansion of Highway 101 to four lanes in each direction The other alternatives assumed that any second deck would be reserved for transit.

San Francisco adamantly opposes a second deck for vehicular traffic, objecting it would create pressure for another freeway in San Francisco.

The number of stations in the five alternatives varied from 12 to 18, and the lengths of the trunk lines varied from 27 to 30 miles, except for alternative 5, which was 41 miles.

Travel times from San Rafael to downtown San Francisco ranged from 25 to 35 minutes, with one-way fares at $1.20, including 25 cents for a feeder bus connection to the trunk line.

Total weekday patronage forecasts by the year 2015 ranged from 300,700 with alternative 1 to 205,100 with alternative 5.

The federal share of funding ranged from $610 million to $658 million, except for $330 million for alternative 3, the bus rapid transit system. The bridge district's own share in all five was figured at $52 million the maximum amount it can finance from current tolls.

If tolls were doubled — and the consultants did not suggest this— the district's share would go to $102 million.

At current tolls, however, and assuming federal sharing, the balance to be financed from bonds or other sources ranged from $253 million to $277 million, except for bus rapid transit, which left a balance of $113 million to be financed.

The summary of the consultants' reports also detailed annual net operating surpluses, cumulative net operating surpluses, annual debt service charges, travel times and fares from major stations, peak period passenger loads and a host of other infomration.

The consultants warned that without a transit system, the Golden Gate corridor faced an inevitable "automobile stranglehold." The bridge, they said, already was "just about as crowded as it can get."

They praised the district for instituting reversible lanes, a one-way toll system and a joint bus-ferry system, but concluded nevertheless that "it is obvious that population and traffic growth will outpace even the most imaginative part-way measures."

Okamoto-Liskamm, in its analysis of the impact of the various choices, cautioned that all but alternative 4, which looped into the Ross Valley, would create new pressure for development in open space along the bay shoreline and would bypass most present commercial centers.

Alterantive 4, however, would bypass San Rafael and create strong pressures for higher densities and residential and station areas in the Ross Valley.

Alternative 4, however, would enthusiastic support from Okamoto-Liskamm, would relieve Southern Marin in development pressure, focusing this pressure north of San Rafael. Growth in Northern Marin, however, would be slowest with this alternative, the consultants said.

Sonoma County, under alternative 5, would see an improved residential potential and be more attractive to industry, Okamoto-Liskamm said.

Finally, the consultants reported, they had tested — and rejected — the alternative of sticking with the conventional bus and ferry system now being planned for the immediate future. They predicted that this would lead to a "Los Angelesation" of the region, with development and parking facilities sprawling into open spaces. "In short, an expanding kingdom of the automobile with all that implies," they warned.

The public hearings on the plan will open on Dec. 3 in Ukiah, with the first in Marin set for Dec. 10 in San Rafael. A detailed schedule of the 11 hearings to be held in Marin and Sonoma will be released by the district this week.

Millians located the ditch area considerably to the southeast of where other eyewitnesses to the bodies have placed it.

Millians said he saw "one colored NCO (non commissioned officer) in the immediate area of the ditch fire into the ditch one time."

It appeared to be only one round, he said.

"I saw the round impact into one body," he told the chief prosecutor, Capt. Aubrey M. Daniel. He could not describe the body, nor did he make clear whether the victim was alive or dead.

On cross-examination, Millians told defense counsel George W. Latimer he could see the stripes designating rank on the clothing of the NCO. He said the man was stocky, well-built, of average height, and had an M-16 rifle.

Spec. 4 Calvin D. Hodde, 22, a helicopter crew chief in Vietnam, and Brian W. Livingston, 26, a Killeen, Tex. investment management company employee who was in a helicopter at My Lai, preceded Millians to the stand Tuesday and told of seeing bodies so shot up that the area was bathed in brightly, glistening blood.

Hodde was one of many witnesses who said he saw bodies lying on a north-south trail. "Most of them were women and kids, of the ones you could recognize," he said.

The bodies throughout the village, Hodde said, "just looked like a bunch of people lying out in the open with paint or something poured on them— a bright red color."

Hodde said he also saw at least 30 bodies along a ditch.

LAIRD

Vietnam inasmuch as the American prisoners had been removed from the Communist camp prior to the raid.

In a Senate speech, Mansfield said: "I admire the courage of the commandos ... It was a bold stroke. But I raise questions as to the reliability of our intelligence."

Laird said the raid "caught the North Vietnamese completely by surprise."

"Their entire air defense system was caught completely off guard," he told reporters at the Capitol.

Stennis termed the operation "a brilliant military maneuver —the getting in, the getting out, the planning, the exactness of time. It was an amazing performance.

Sen .George D. Aiken, R-Vt., urged both the Senate and the administration to exercise restraint in their discussion of the new events but he questioned Nixon's failure to consult key members of Congress prior to his actions.

"No President in these times can ever hope to fashion foreign policy in the inner sanctum of the White House without risking grave repercussions at home and abroad," the senior Senate Republican said in a speech.

Mansfield said it would have been in the national interest for the President to have briefed congressional leaders in advance of the prison camp raid but added: "I can see reasons why the commando attempt had to be kept under strict secrecy."

Senate Republical leader Hugh Scott rapped back at the President's critics. "All the doves immediately fluttered their feathers and took a nose dive at the President, screaming bloody murder," said Scott.

In disclosing the raid by a combined force of soldiers and airmen, Laird said he proposed the action to the President after receiving reports that some Americans had been dying in prison camps.

A Pentagon spokesman said today that unofficial reports were received early this month that six more U.S. prisoners of war had died.

The spokesman refused to describe the nature of the unofficial sources.

Although the prison camp at San Tay was found to have been vacated, Friedheim refused to acknowledge there had been a "miscalculation."

He said there was "a reasonable expectation that a sizeable number of prisoners" were held there and that the camp had been vacated "was extremely unfortunate."

Herbert R. Rainwater, commander-in-chief of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, said today he was convinced the Vietnamese Communists had "deliberately murdered" some American prisoners.

Rainwater, 51, of San Bernardino, Calif., returned from a 17-nation trip to seek help for the prisoners. He told a news conference in Washington that intelligence sources in Cambodia and Hong Kong told him some Americans had died of beatings and mistreatment in Communist prison camps.

Others, have been allowed to die from wounds through lack of medical treatment, he said.

The weekend air raids had been disclosed soon after they took place. The report of the prisoner rescue effort was not made until three days after it took place.

The daring raid, pulled off by a small band of helicopter-borne volunteers, took place at 2 a.m. Hanoi time Saturday as U.S. warplanes peppered the coastline with diversionary flares.

The Pentagon announced the action Monday, apparently to refute Hanoi's claims that the United States carried out raids on Hanoi and Haiphong 24 hours before the weekend bombing of missile bases began farther South. Laird said the attempted prison camp liberation, which had the backing of President Nixon, was the only action in the Hanoi area during the weekend.

After the raiders shot their way into the camp 20 miles outside Hanoi and broke the locks on cell doors, they found the prisoners were gone. Laird said the camp "had recently been vacated," but one of the raid's leaders, Brig. Gen. Leroy J. Manor, said the deteriorating camp may have been empty for "several weeks."

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., said the attempt jeopardized the prisoners' lives because the Communists "wouldn't have hesitated at shooting them" when the raiders landed. He said the best way to help the prisoners would be to get out of Vietnam, "lock, stock and barrel."

Ky Says Talks At Paris Are Senseless

talks "for their own propaganda."

"They hoped that they could use Paris to impose upon us their law," he said. "But today after two years of wasting time they can see we are stronger, stronger, and they are weaker, weaker. They see they cannot win."

Discussing an earlier breakfast meeting with President Nixon, Ky said: "I told the President that the military situation in Vietnam now is better than in the past, that our armed forces are stronger today and the enemy is weaker."

Ky spent an hour and a half with Nixon.

The meeting took place in a small dining room of the White House. As Ky left, he was not available for questioning by reporters prior to a later speech and question-and-answer session at the National Press Club.

With Nixon at his first meeting with Ky since visiting South Vietnam in July 1969, were the President's national security adviser, Henry A. Kissinger, Undersecretary of State John N. Irwin II and two other Vietnam specialists.

Ky was accompanied by South Vietnam's ambassador to the United States, Bui Diem.

Ky, who canceled a scheduled Oct. 3 appearance at a victory-in-Vietnam rally here at the urging of the White House, arrived in Washington Monday at about the time the Pentagon was disclosing the unsuccessful U.S. attempt to rescue American prisoners in North Vietnam last weekend.

East Berlin: It's Colorless, Completely Different World

(Toronto Telegram News Service)

WEST BERLIN — "Lift your head. I want to see your face." The volks-polizei (people's police) corporal looked at me and my passport, correct but unfriendly, and after a moment of comparing the passport picture with the face he saw before him he waved me on through the Berlin wall at the Heinrich Heine Strasse checkpoint.

I entered another country, another world, even though I was still in Germany. The rigid and time-consuming controls are accepted as normal.

Posters and billboards tell the visitor he just entered the capital of the GDR (German Democratic Republic), the state of workers and farmers. A new world, separated from ours not only by different political and economical systems and ideological barriers, but also exemplified by the people. Though German, the ones in the east are totally different.

"Say, you must be from the West." A Western visitor can be spotted quite easily. He won't be alone for long. On the street, in streetcars, or in restaurants, East Berliners or visitors from Saxonia or Thuringia seek contact with him.

They are friendly, very frank, outspoken, and very critical of their system. Buut all display almost breath-taking pessimism.

Could it be that I only contacted what the Communists would call "saboteurs, enemies of the state, and subversionsts," that I met no one who would praise the virtues and success of the workers' state?

At any rate, no one expects great progress of the political future. And even my purposely optimistic remarks, like "the Bonn-Moscow non-aggression treaty will help improve our relations," or "the beginning inter-German dialogue is bound to bring improvements," could not lift their spirits.

"You don't believe that yourself," was the often-repeated answer. Our generation will not see an end to the division, perhaps our children ... and a man next to me at an Alexanderplatz bar said:

"The only ones to profit from this so-called relaxation will be you in the West — as usual. We here won't get to see any improvement."

On the spectator platform of Berlin's highest building, the newly-constructed television tower, East Germans only looked West into West Berlin — which was just switching on its lights. "How bright it is there," a woman from Erfurt remarked. And another said: "You see over there, behind the church: That is the Wall."

No one would use the Communists's terminology of The Wall being the "GRD's bulwark against fascist aggression, a barrier of peace and security."

The crowded department stores are drab. No eye-catching displays, no attractive decorations, just merchandise thrown carelessly into shelves and display stands. Sales personnel are unattentive and disinterested.

A blaring loudspeaker system repeats perodically what a great state these people live in; it appeals to the national feelings and quotes from speeches by their leaders.

Western advertising methods are taboo. Socialist spots sound like this: "In our modern state, a household without a refrigerator is impossible. Get one now for only 150 marks down."

Not far from the Brandenburg gate is one of the so-called intershops filled with Western luxuries. But they can be obtained only for hard currencies. Since last May, East Germans can buy there, too, and they try hard to get dollars or pounds, marks or francs, at the black-market exchange rate of one mark (West) for four marks (East).

East Berliners won't accept Western praise for the undeniable progress that has been made in the eastern half of this divided city. The relative luxuries, the construction sites, the increasing private traffic, all that is done away with a wave of the hand. "You had that for years and we'll never catch up," they say.

Two Newspapers Raise Prices

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— The San Francisco Chronicle and the San Francisco Examiner announced today that effective Nov. 30 they would increase the price of newsstand and street sales for its daily editions to 15 cents.

The newspaper said the increase from 10 cents was the first in 18 years and was made necessary by rising production and distribution costs.

(Wishard A. Brown, publisher of the Independent-Journal, said there is no plan to increase the newsstand price of the I-J.)

Rock Dance Is Tomorrow Night

A rock dance to benefit San Rafael High School is scheduled for tomorrow from 7:30 p.m. to midnight at the San Rafael High School, according to the manager of one of the groups which will play.

Robert Wilson, manager of Early Morning Fog, said his group and the Geeks, Dog Breath and Coats and Hardings will play.

The admission take is to go to the school, Wilson said.

Drug Case Set For Next Week

Only misdemeanor charges of being under the influence of drugs and having narcotics paraphernalia were filed yesterday in Marin Municipal Court against Michael T. Martin, 24, of Santa Rosa, who was arrested Sunday in Corte Madera.

His case was continued to next Monday for entry of plea.

OBITUARIES

Putnam A. Bates Dies At 63

Putnam Ashbury Bates, former president of the Marin Builders Association, died today after being bedridden by a long illness. He was 63.

Bates came to the Bay Area during World War II to work on defense projects, and settled in Marin County in 1942. In 1946 he became a contractor in Marin and built many homes throughout the county. His offices were in Mill Valley.

He was a member of the Mill Valley Lodge, Free and Accepted Masons, and formerly was active in flying, hunting and fishing.

He is survived by his wife, Katherine, of the family home at Apt. 402, 108 Professional Center Parkway, San Rafael; and three sisters, Mrs. Philip Foster, Mrs. Thomas Emory and Miss Emmaline Bates. He was a native of New Jersey.

Private funeral and inurnment were held today.

ELEANOR ROBINSON

Private funeral has been held for Marion Eleanor Robinson, 63, daughter of Carrie Meyer and sister of Jerome N. Brill of San Rafael, in Orangevale, Sacramento County.

Mrs. Robinson was a native of Iowa. She was a member of the Cancer Research Survey. She died Nov. 15 in Orangevale.

She also is survived by a daughter, Marilyn Sevilla of South Lake Tahoe; another brother, George E. Brill of Oakland, and two grandchildren.

LOUIS ONESTI

Funeral for Louis Onesti of Mill Valley will be tomorrow at 10 a.m. at Russell and Gooch Mortuary, Mill Valley. Onesti, 75, collapsed at his home and died Sunday in a local hospital.

A native of Tavernelle, Italy, he had lived in California 62 years and in Marin County seven years, residing at 5 Plymouth Avenue.He was a retired baker and former owner of the Onesti Bakery in San Francisco.

Onesti is survived by his wife, Edith Onesti of Mill Valley; a son, Roy L. Onesti of Yountville, Napa County, and a grandson, Roy L. Onesti Jr., also of Yountville.

Burial will be in St. Helena Public Cemetery, Napa County.

Onesti's name was misspelled in an obituary in yesterday's Independent-Journal as a result of misinformation furnished by the coroner's office.

LESLIE KINDT

Funeral for Leslie Cullen Kindt of San Rfael was today in San Rafael.

She was found dead at her home Friday, but cause was undetermined pending autopsy, according to Deputy Coroner Richard W. Madigan. Mrs. Kindt was 52.

Born in San Mateo, she lived in the Bay Area most of her life and was a boarder at Dominican Convent in San Rafael from 1923 to 1935.

After four years in Salt Lake City waiting for her husband, James, to return from the war, she moved to San Rafael in 1945 and lived most recently at 37 Palm Avenue.

She was a parishioner of Saint Raphael's Church.

Also surviving are her mother, Mrs. L. B. C. Jones of San Rafael; a brother, Gordon C. Jones of San Rafael; three sons, James Kindt Jr., Jeff Kindt and Jon Kindt, all of San Rafael; two daughters, Kathy Juarez of Santa Rosa and Candy Ehresmann of Los Angeles; and two grandsons.

Burial was to be at Mount Olivet Cemetery in San Rafael.

MARTHA SEIFERT

Private funeral for Mrs. Martha Emily Seifert of Fairfax has been in San Anselmo. Burial was in Mount Tamalpais Cemetery, San Rafael.

Mrs. Seifert, 89, died Saturday in a local hospital after a long illness.

A native of Germany, she had lived in Marin for the past 25 years. She resided with a daughter, Mrs. Dorothy Arena, at 12 Madrone Avenue.

ADA SMITH

Funeral for Ada D. Smith, a Marin resident since 1942, will be Saturday at 1 p.m. at the McFarlane Mortuary, South Lake Tahoe. Burial will follow at the Happy Homestead Cemetery.

Mrs. Smith died Friday in a local hospital after a long illness. She was 73.

Born in Hilex, Ore., she moved to California in 1933. She and her husband, Fred D. Smith, lived at 2000 Redwood Highway, Corte Madera.

Besides her husband, Mrs. Smith is survived by a daughter, Jean E. Burke, of Mill Valley, two granddaughters and one great-granddaughter.

CRYSTAL BRIER

A memorial service for Crystal Brier of San Anselmo will be held Friday at 2 p.m. in the Family Church of Marin, 91 Hawthorne Avenue, San Anselmo.

Mrs. Brier, wife of San Francisco Chronicle columnist Royce Brier, died at a local hospital at the age of 58.

GUS TORRELL

Funeral for Gus Torrell, 85, of Petaluma, will be held at 10 a.m. tomorrow at Parent Funeral Chapel, Petaluma. Private inurnment will be at Cypress Hill Memorial Park.

Torrell died Sunday at a local convalescent hospital after a long illness. A native of Sweden, he served in the Swedish Navy before moving to the United States 50 years ago.

Torrell lived in Petaluma for 30 years and was a retired saw sharpener.

PRICES

prices of commodities other than food rose 0.6 per cent in October, twice the usual rate for that month, but food prices declined 0.2 per cent including a 0.3 per cent decline for food in supermarkets. However, the price of the Thanksgiving Day turkey is up more than nine per cent.

The cost of consumer services went up 0.5 per cent, slightly less than in September and about in line with the monthly average for the last six months.

But the cost of transportation shot up 1.9 per cent during the month. This included a 5.4 per cent increase in new car prices, a 2.3 per cent advance in used car prices and a 1.3 per cent increase in gasoline prices.

The cost of clothing and its upkeep went up 0.9 per cent, including a 1.3 per cent advance for women's and girls' apparel.

The decline in food prices was paced by a 5 per cent decline in egg prices and a 1.3 per cent decrease in prices of fruits and vegetables. Prices for meats, poultry and fish went down 0.8 per cent but dairy products went up 0.5 per cent due mainly to higher prices for fresh milk.

Despite the lower food costs at supermarkets, the cost of eating food at restaurants went up 0.4 per cent.

The problem with flying is getting to a flight.

From Marin County, there's a Freeway, a Bridge, a Freeway, a City and another Freeway between you and that airport on the west side of the Bay. Between you and Oakland Airport on the east side of the Bay, there's a Bridge and a Freeway. Period. So maybe you ought to start thinking of Oakland as your local, neighborhood International Airport. And flights? Just call the Fly Oakland Girl, ENterprise 1-2422. She'll tell you all about them. She'll even book a reservation.

War Protesters Smash 68 Windows

STANFORD, Calif. (UPI)—Youths protesting the renewal of U.S. bombing in North Vietnam stormed through Stanford University's science complex Monday, breaking at least 68 windows in six buildings.

"The whole thing was lightning-like," a university spokesman said while describing the foray.

The group of about 100 walked from an anti-war rally in the old student Union building and then broke up into smaller groups which ran through the science complex throwing railroad spikes, rocks and steel ball-bearings at the glass.

Within five or seven minutes, it was all over, the spokesman added. Because of the speed, there was no arrest made.

Berkeley police said that after a "war crimes trial" a group of 250 youths marched chanting toward the home of Dr. Edward Teller, so-called "Father of the H Bomb."

Of the 250, police said, about 100 reached a corner near the house where they burned a dummy.

Police were on hand as the group broke up.

Probation, Jail Given Youth, 18

Judge E. Warren McGuire of Marin Superior Court yesterday placed William James Hayes, 18, on probation for three years and sentenced him to jail for nine months.

He did order, however, that Hayes be given credit for the time he has already spent in jail since his arrest.

Hayes, described in court as a California Youth Authority parolee with an extensive juvenile record, was also ordered to submit to periodic testing to determine if he is using narcotics.

Hayes had earlier pleaded guilty to charge of concealing stolen property on June 30. At the time of the guilty plea to the felony, a charge of carrying a concealed weapon was dismissed.

Hayes was arrested in the Country Club area near San Rafael with articles reported stolen in a burglary there.

Throw-The-Egg Winner Calls Project Flippant

STANFORD (UPI) — A professor who devised a throw-the-egg contest and a student member of the winning team have differing ideas on the subject.

Richard Martin, associate professor of mechanical engineering, said Monday he was anxious that the contest not be regarded flippantly.

John Bodine, winning team member, declared: "This event today has no relevance to anything and it is typical of Stanford education and it is typical of engineering here at Stanford in particular."

"This is purely just a proliferation of gadgetry. To continue the tinker-toying around that we all did as boys doesn't help. As engineers we should be trained to make socially useful things."

The contest?

Catapult a raw egg some 60 feet in the air and land it on the earth between 50 and 100 feet away without breaking it.

How was it won?

Bodine's team strung rubber tubing in the center of a bicycle rim, attached a frozen egg to the middle of the tubing and a small umbrella to the rim.

When catapulted, the umbrella acted as an air brake and spun out string which induced the rim to roll when it hit the ground.

Superior Court Marijuana Case

The case of Richard Thomas Berry, 18, of Novato, was not acceptable to juvenile court, it was reported yesterday in Marin Superior Court.

A jury trial was set for the week of Jan. 4 in superior court for the youth, who is accused of selling marijuana on Sept. 10.

Probation In Marijuana Case

Judge E. Warren McGuire of Marin Superior Court yesterday placed James William Thomas, 23, former Fairfax resident, on probation for two years and ordered him to pay a $150 fine for a marijuana conviction.

Thomas, who was described win court as now working in a drug rehabilitation center in Sacramento, had earlier pleaded guilty to possessing marijuana, a charge reduced from the original sale count.

He had been accused of selling a small amount of marijuana on May 12, 1969, apparently in exchange for car repairs.

San Rafael Seniors Attend Class In Law And Community

A symposium on "Law and the Community" replaced regular classes for seniors at San Rafael High School yesterday from 9 a.m. to 12:20 p.m.

Sponsored by the Police-Community Relations Project of Marin County, the symposium included sections on "Police and the Community," "Juvenile Law," and "Search, Seizure and Preliminary Court Action."

Students moderated the panel discussions. Attorneys and law enforcement officers were speakers.

Speaking on "Police and the Community" were Chief Joseph J. Brusatori, Sgt. Lewis E. Foster, Lt. James Carlton and Inspector Gerald Green, all of the San Rafael Police Department.

Discussing "Juvenile Law" were Barney Griswold and Frederick M. Latty of the Marin County Probation Department and attorneys James A. Duckworth and Beverly B. Savitt.

Speakers on "Search, Seizure and Preliminary Court Action" were Vernon F. Smith Jr., deputy district attorney; Edward Briggs, deputy public defender, Richard Timan, former deputy public defender, and attorneys John H. Coteaux and Thomas T. Storer.

Student moderators were Paul Oesterman, Michele Hensley, Bob Roumiguiere, Chuck Johnson, George Scott, and Lori Schwartz.

The Police-Community Relations Project hopes to conduct another such seminar next spring, said Mrs. Carroll Leach, its co-ordinator for the public schools.

No Program

The Tamalpais High School Saturday morning recreation program will not be held Saturday because of the Thanksgiving holiday, according to director Edward J. Chavez. The program will resume Dec. 5.

Reagan Plans Industry Aide

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Gov. Ronald Reagan announced today the state soon will hire an economist to advise his administration on problems in the construction industry.

The governor made the announcement in a speech prepared for delivery to his newly appointed "labor-management task force," a group of contractors, labor leaders and other construction industry executives.

"During the months to come, we are going to add an economist to the staff of the director of public works to help us stay abreast of the economic problems in the construction industry," Reagan said.

About $8 Million In Pakistan Aid

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The State Department said Monday the United States has spent almost $8 million so far to aid Pakistan flood victims and considerable additional material has been donated by private American agencies.

Department spokesman John F. King said the tenth commercial transport plane chartered by the U.S. government to carry relief goods to Pakistan will have arrived in Dacca today.

NOTICE TO TELEPHONE CUSTOMERS

For the first time since 1953 we are planning increases in the rates for many out-of-state calls.

AT&T has filed a new schedule of rates with the Federal Communications Commission which increases charges for customer-dialed interstate calls during weekday business hours and for all operator-assisted interstate calls.

All rates for calls you dial yourself without operator assistance in the evenings, at night, on weekends or on holidays will remain unchanged or be reduced.

The new rates are filed to become effective on January 19, 1971.

Here are the specific provisions of the new rates for out-of-state calls:

1. Rates for station-to-station calls you dial yourself without operator assistance from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday, will be increased—up to 10 cents for the first three minutes.
2. Rates for all operator-assisted calls (including person-to-person, credit-card, collect, and coin telephone calls) will be increased in amounts ranging from 5 cents to 30 cents for the first three minutes.
3. Where rates for the first three minutes of a call are increased, the rates for each additional minute will be increased in a range of one cent to five cents.
4. Rates for station-to-station calls you dial yourself without operator assistance during evenings, nights, or weekends will remain the same—or, in a few cases, actually be reduced. For example, the rate for calls dialed coast-to-coast from 8 a.m. to 11 p.m. Saturday, or 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Sunday, will still be 70 cents for the first three minutes.

This will be the first general increase in interstate Long Distance rates in 17 years. During that period, in spite of continuing inflation, interstate Long Distance rates have been reduced repeatedly. Even with the increase, the level of these rates will still be about 14 percent below the 1953 level. Yet in those 17 intervening years, the cost of living has gone up 47 percent.

The new rates recognize the higher labor and equipment costs associated with operator-assisted calls, and are designed to increase total revenues from interstate service by about six percent.

We have filed for the increase so that we can assure adequate earnings to attract investors in a money market which, like everything else, has felt the impact of inflation. This ability to attract new capital is essential if we are to continue to provide high-quality telecommunications service and meet the growing demands for communications services in this country.

ALMANAC

Today is Tuesday, Nov. 24, the 328th day of 1970.

The moon is between its last quarter and new phase. The morning stars are Venus, Mars and Jupiter. The evening stars are Mercury and Saturn.

Those born on this date are under the sign of Sagittarius.

On this day in history:

In 1869 women from 21 states met in Cleveland to draw up plans for the organization of the American Women Suffrage Association.

In 1944 superfortresses of the American Air Force took off from Saipan for the first raids on Tokyo.

In 1961 the U.N. Security Council gave Secretary General Thant permission to use force to settle the Belgium Congo crisis.

In 1963 Lee Harvey Oswald, the accused assassin of President Kennedy, was shot to death by Jack Ruby in a Dallas jail. Millions of people witnessed the shooting on television.

A thought for today: Scottish poet Robert Gilfillan once said, "There's a hope for every woe and a balm for every pain, but the first joys of our heart come never back again."

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Optimists Have More Fun, But Pessimists Win Championships

An optimist is a bridge player who hasn't had much experience. A pessimist knows that finesses aren't going to succeed; that suits aren't going to break favorably; and that the opponents are just as nasty as he would be in their place. The optimist may have more fun, but the pessimist rakes in the shekels and the championships, all of which should warn you to play today's hand pessimistically.

OPTIMIST'S PLAY

The optimist would play dummy's king of spades at the first trick and would be delighted to find it winning the trick. He would get to his hand with the king of clubs to lead the queen of diamonds for a finesse.

End of optimist.

East would take the king of diamonds and return a spade, whereupon West would rattle off five spade tricks. Down two.

Our hero would be downcast for only a few seconds. Then he would remark cheerfully to his partner: "If the finesse had worked we'd have made a million!"

DON'T GRUMBLE

Don't grumble if you have an optimist as a partner. It won't help to point out that he should have made his contract even though the finesse did not work. As one who has played with optimistic partners for over a hundred years (it certainly seems that long), I can assure you that nothing at all will help. Just take two or three deep breaths and go on to the next hand.

PESSIMIST'S PLAY

We pessimists know that South should have played a low spade from each hand at the first trick, allowing West to win the first trick with the jack of spades.

This simple maneuver kills the spades. If West continues with the ace and another spade, South can safely take the diamond finesse. East will win with the king of diamonds but will be unable to get the lead to his partner. The pessimist makes five diamonds, two clubs, one spade and one heart.

But the pessimist also knows that when this kind of hand comes along he will be the dummy — watching his optimistic partner go down.

Jury Trial Is Set In Home Burglary

A jury trial was set yesterday in Marin Superior Court for the week of Jan. 11 for John Martin Green, 20, of San Anselmo, who is accused of burglarizing the home of County Administrator Alan Bruce on Oct. 16.

Green was arrested after a policeman saw him walking down the driveway of the Bruce residence in San Anselmo, carrying stereo equipment and an accordion.

Park Landscape Plan Splits City Council

Proposed landscaping plans for Fairfax Park were presented to the Fairfax City Council last night.

The council immediately disagreed on what to do with them.

Eventually, the council accepted the plans in principle but withheld authorization for drawing working plans pending priority recommendations from the city's park and recreation commission.

The commission accepted the plans in principle last June and recommended priority be given to a proposed fountain and plaza in the east corner of the park. But that recommendation was not sent in writing to the council.

The plans were presented to the council by Alan Ribera of the Oakland landscape architecture firm of Ribera and Sue. In addition to the fountain and plaza, his proposal calls for installation of picnic tables, restrooms, a multiuse deck straddling Manor Creek, a spray pool adjacent to another section of the creek, children's playground apparatus, a tennis practice backstop, improved parking area and a turfed area suitable, Ribera said, for an art festival.

Councilman Frank J. O'Connell's reaction to Ribera's presentation was to say that except for the restrooms "you haven't changed a thing."

Ribera estimated the total cost of the proposal at $121,025. O'Connell said the city would never be able to afford that without a bond issue.

Following discussion of the possibility of federal funds to help finance the park renewal, the council voted 4-1, with Mayor Frank J. Egger dissenting, to take the plan under advisement.

Egger then said that $1,500 was budgeted this year for working plans and he asked the council what should Ribera do next?

While the council pondered whether to accept the park and recreation commission's unofficial priority recommendation or whether to select a new priority area or whether to ask the commission for a new and official recommendation, Ribera said he would give the city a 10 per cent discount on working plans for the plaza and fountain area.

Those plans "are virtually complete," he said, explaining that he had assumed the commission's unofficial recommendation was, or would be, official, and had gone ahead on working plans for the plaza and fountain.

Councilman Robert R. Souza balked at the discount offer, saying that was a poor way to do business with the taxpayers' money.

Following more discussion, the council ignored its first vote to take the plans under advisement and voted unanimously to accept the plans in principle and ask the commission for three priority recommendations.

Only two commissioners, chairman Louis A. Soldavini and Noel Cimino, attended the meeting which was to have been a joint meeting of the commission and council.

Commissioner Leonard J. Wilgenbush arrived later, in time for a discussion of vandalism and security at the Fairfax Pavilion.

The council appointed a committee to come up with recommendations for increased security and to report back to the council Dec. 14.

The Fairfax City Council Also:

MEMORIAL — Agreed to restore plaques, damaged by vandals, in Honor Grove at Fairfax Park. The plaques list the names of Fairfax men who lost their lives during the two world wars. The council voted to try to determine the names and add them to the plaques of men who've died serving during the Korean and Vietnam wars.

EMPLOYEES — Voted not to waive personnel regulations to allow a park and recreation commissioner and a man who falsified information on his application to compete for a job opening for a street maintenance man.

MEETING — Adjourned to a Dec. 10 meeting with the Fairfax Design Review Board to discuss a proposed sign ordinance.

Defendant Gives Rightwing Salute

BERLIN (UPI)—An alleged Nazi sympathizer gave the extreme rightwing salute today at the opening of British military government proceedings against him on charges he shot and wounded a Soviet war memorial sentry.

Ekkehard Weil, 24-year-old hospital orderly, held up three fingers of his right hand to form the letter "W" for "widerstand" — the German word for "resistance" — as he stood in the dock in a courtrom in West Berlin's Moabit courthouse

The "W" has become the salute of extreme rightwingers who contend that German interests have been sold out since the war, particularly by the new Eastern policy of the government of Chancellor Willy Brandt.

Four Drivers Are Sentenced

Four persons have been sentenced in Marin Municipal Court by Judge Alvin H. Goldstein Jr. for drunken driving.

Hayward Lee Barcus, 47, of Santa Rosa, arrested Sept. 20 on Highway 101, was placed on probation for one year and fined $150.

James Rudolph Pacheco, 21, of Hayward, arrested April 12 in Sausalito, was placed on probation for three years and sent to jail for 30 days.

Rosario Anita McSweeney, 42, of 2065 Carolyn Way, Novato, arrested Aug. 2 on Highway 101, was placed on probation for one year and fined $200.

John Joseph Anderson, 41, of 118 Mabry Way, Santa Venetia, arrested Sept. 5 on Highway 101, was placed on probation for six months and sent to jail for two days.

To Juvenile Court

The case of Thomas Neil Marrett, 18, of Novato, yesterday was transferred to juvenile court from Marin Superior Court. The youth is accused of selling marijuana on Sept. 16 and 22 and was indicted recently by the grand jury.

Death Sentence In CHP Slayings

VAN NUYS, Calif. (UPI)—Bobby Augusta Davis, 29, an ex-convict, was sentenced Monday to die in the gas chamber for the murders of four California Highway patrolmen in April.

The death verdict was returned by the same five-man, seven-woman jury which convicted Davis Nov. 13 of shooting the officers in front of a Saugus, Calif., coffee shop.

Davis' partner in the crime, Jack Twinning, 35, shot himself to death when he was trapped by officers in a home in nearby Newhall. Davis was arrested while driving a stolen camper truck.

Fine, Probation In Pot Possession

Robert Gerald Benson, 19, of Novato, has been placed on probation for one year and fined $50 by Judge Alvin H. Goldstein Jr. of Marin Municipal Court for possessing marijuana. He was also given a suspended 30-day jail sentence.

Benson had earlier pleaded guilty to a misdemeanor count of having pot when he was arrested Aug. 1 in a Novato apartment.

Controversial City Clerk Resigns

By C. P. McCARTHY

Frances R. Lestanguet stunned the Fairfax City Council last night by submitting her resignation as city clerk effective Dec. 31.

Mrs. Lestanguet, city clerk since being appointed to the position in 1965, also had served as city administrator since February 1969 when the Council named her to the position to replace David J. Sumbardo who resigned under pressure.

Last August, the council fired her as city administrator effective next Jan. 1 and voted to hire a "full-time professional" administrator by the beginning of the year.

Mrs. Lestanguet's term as city clerk, to which she won election in 1968, expires in 1972.

Her prepared resignation, which she handed silently to each of the five councilmen, followed almost an hour of council discussion on how to screen applications for the position of city administrator.

The council delayed acting on the resignation until its Dec. 14 meeting, but their comments, after a long silence, indicated it would be accepted.

"I wouldn't ask her to stay on, simply because of the abuse we've given her," said Frank J. O'Connell, adding "I think this is a real sad thing. I think we deserve it."

"I don't blame her," Robert R. Souza said. Lee Nelder said his only complaint with Mrs. Lestanguet was "she is too nice a person."

In August, O'Connell and van Vliet voted against firing Mrs. Lestanguet and hiring another administrator.

Between the council's vote Aug. 7 to hire a new administrator and its official firing of Mrs. Lestanguet Aug. 29, she was a central figure in angry charges exchanged by O'Connell and Souza.

O'Connell charged the move to fire her began after she placed a proposed allocation for Souza's telephone credit card —paid at city expense —as a separate item in the proposed budget. O'Connell said the firing was "vindictively schemed and maneuvered."

Souza denied the allegation at a meeting two days later. He said that one reason Mrs. Lestanguet wasn't "working out as city administrator is because Frank O'Connell and company won't let her; and she has let them draw her into their partisanship."

The resignation last night was preceded by prolonged discussion of what to do with the 70 applications, and 40 to 50 more expected, for the post of city administrator.

The council rejected various proposals and voted to meet in closed session to screen the applications.

O'Connell and van Vliet voted against that motion, and the council postponed deciding when they will hold the closed session.

Russian Acrobat Defects To Sweden

STOCKHOLM (UPI)—A Russian acrobat with the Moscow State Circus has defected in Sweden, police sources said today.

Michail Suponitsky, 26, a member of a nine-man acrobatic group, left the circus as it was winding up a three-month tour of Sweden last weekend.

Liberal Element Wins Blessing

BUDAPEst (UPI)—Leonid I. Brezhnev, leader of the Soviet Communist Party, laid an effusive blessing today on Hungary's liberal-minded Communist leaders and the forms they are carryying out.

"The Hungarian party consistently follows the line of developing Socialist democracy," Brezhnev told the Hungarian Party's congress. "This principled attitude . . . meets with the complete understanding and appreciation of the Soviet Communists."

Dlegates to the congress applauded as Brezhnev, reading through gold-rimmed spectacles with a glass of tea at his side, hailed Hungarian party leader Janos Kadar as "the loyal son of the Hungarian people, the outstanding and respected personality of the international Communist movement."

SENTIMENTAL HOBBY

Century-Old Train Depot Taking On Youthful Look

Restoring the youthful appearance of a centenarian country train station has become the sentimental hobby of a group from the San Geronimo Valley Presbyterian Church.

The antiquated station, once the commercial center of the San Geronimo Valley survived the Great Depression only because the church bought it for its sanctuary in 1935.

However, a new church was constructed nearby in 1964 and the historic building became an aging shack in the way of church expansion.

The church governing board doomed it last year because it had been ruled unsound and was crowding the new church social wing.

However, sentimental church members catalyzed by Eldon Halseth of Woodacre and George Shand of San Geronimo promised to move the building to a more convenient site and restore it for a museum.

"I was married in it myself 12 years ago and I had sentimental feelings about it," Halseth said as he prepared to work on the building's new foundaiton Saturday. "George felt the same way I did about it," Halseth said.

Sentiment was blended with a pinch of pity. "Like George says, 'Anything that has stood for 100 years and gone through what this has gone through deserves to be saved."

The brown, shingled structure was a yellow, frame hub of activity when the first North Pacific Coast train steamed over the narrow guage tracks from Sausalito to Tamales in 1875.

The station at the crossroads of Sir Francis Drake Boulevard and San Geronimo-Nicasio Road was also a post office and Western Union telegraph office.

In its days as a depot first for the Pacific and then for the standard gague trains of the Northwestern Pacific Railroad, the two-story building had a combination waiting room and post office with an adjoining baggage room. The station master lived on the second story.

The station was extensively rebuilt for church purposes, Halseth said, but the part-time restorers will return it to its original condition complete with pot-belly stove after moving the building.

Although they saved the San Geronimo landmark a year ago, they only began working in earnest in September, Halseth said.

A concrete foundation has been constructed adjoining the building and it will be slid over on greased boards in December.

All of the materials plus $150 have been donated by businesses and organizations, Halseth said. "The only thing that cost us was $12 for the permit," Shand said.

Moving the building is the easier part of the job. Halseth said the second phase is to learn the original layout of the building and reproduce it complete with the wooden trim and antique furnishings.

"Most of the stuff is going to have to be made. You can't buy any of that stuff," Halseth said.

The group is also looking for original trappings from the station and is raising money for a vintage caboose.

When the museum will be completed is anybody's guess, Halseth said. The group of volunteers has been working Tuesday and Thursday evenings and Saturdays, but, Shand cautioned, "We decided when we started we'd take time off when it stopped being fun."

"However, when the coccoon of shingles is finally removed and the interior restored, the workers envision a significant historical site.

"There are a lot of people who don't even know a railroad used to go through here," Halseth said.

Petaluman Enters Plea To Charge

Lewis Edward Meyers, 59, of Petaluma, pleaded innocent yesterday in Southern Sonoma Municipal Court to felony drunken driving.

Judge Alexander J. McMahon set bail at $6,000 after receiving a recommendation from the probation department that Meyers not be released on his own recognizance because of a long record of offenses linked to drinking.

McMahon said a preliminary hearing date will be set next Monday at 1.30 p.m. Meyers was arrested last Tuesday after Petaluma police said his car struck Dennis Stankalis, 17, of 26 Huntington Drive, Petaluma, severing Stankalis's legs.

McMahon said the hearing may be held at the bedside of Stankalis at Hillcrest Hospital if he is not well enough to be brough. to the courtroom.

A Middle Eastern Tour For Champes

By MOLLY MARIN

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Champe recently returned to Tiburon after three weeks in Lebanon, Syria and Greece. Beirut and Damascus, capitals of the Arab countries, were exciting to the Champes because of military build-up.

In Beirut, they saw deserted hotels and no other tourists. Commandos wearing rifles and tanks were in the streets. Cholera and hepatitis were threats.

"We could not have eaten the food," reports Sally. They stayed in the home of Richard's sister, whose husband is with the American Embassy.

Arab hospitality took the form of friendly children, a barber who noticed them waiting in the square and brought them his chairs and a citizen who insisted on getting in their car to direct them to their far-off destination.

But traveling south toward Israel they passed through several check points where cameras and passports were confiscated.

More pleasant was their two weeks in Greece. On a cruise of Greek islands, a freak storm caused seasickness and prevented them from docking at two of the five islands.

The Champes drove a rented car north from Athens to ancient Orthodox monasteries built on cliffs the height of El Capitan. Until recently tourists were hoisted up the cliffs in baskets, but the Champes were able to drive up the harrowing road.

"I wasn't allowed to go into two of the monasteries," reports Sally, "because my skirt was too short."

They drove to Delphi and made one-day trips out of Athens into the countryside. English-speaking Athenians, proud of their history, courteously gave directions to ruins. In the country, where no English was spoken, friendly people made sign language to direct the tourists to beautiful views.

"They were poor but very willing to share what they had. We were invited to meals. We would like to take the children next time," says Sally, who found Athens anxious for tourism, very clean with good food and transportation. Women can walk there at night unescorted and be safe. She was told by an American resident that a Greek who commits a crime against a tourist receives a punishment twice as severe as if his crime had been against a Greek.

A WEDDING shower and luncheon for Elizabeth Adams Sims, daughter of Justice and Mrs. Richard M. Sims Jr. of Belvedere, will be held at the Belvedere Lagoon home of Mrs. John Hoefer on Dec. 5. Co-hostess is Mrs. Ralph Noah of Tiburon.

LEANNE J. Ceccotti, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Ceccotti of Larkspur, is in Italy, where she is spending her junior year with the California State International Programs.

A student at the University of Florence, Leanne writes, "I find myself most captivated by the beauty and antiquity of my surrounding environment. A walk through the streets of Florence, is like walking through history that still exists; such an experience cannot be felt by reading a history book. Why She's A 'Non-Engineer'

By JOAN LISETOR

Why would a person with a master's degree in engineering work in a restaurant and smoke shop as a bookkeeper and parttime seller of cigars?

"Because I need the money," says 25-year-old Mary Gilbert of Sausalito, who has bachelor of science and a master of engineering degrees from Cornell University.

Mary decided to settle in the Bay Area after attending Stanford University for one quarter. Her family lives in New York, where she was reared in suburbia.

"I SPENT two months going on interviews, mostly on the Peninsula and in the East Bay," she says. "There were few openings, but if I had been a man I am certain it would have been different."

The only job she could find was with an insurance company in a position similar to an efficiency expert. She was bored with the work, having been trained in industrial engineering to work for a heavy manufacturing company.

"My superiors admitted that my advancement was slow because I am a woman, in spite of being well qualified as an engineer," she says.

Finally after two years of working in the financial district, Mary decided she hated the straight business world.

A friend of a friend worked for the State Department of Human Resources Development, so she asked him about using her engineering to work for a group, possibly charitable, doing something she considered worthwhile.

THE EMPLOYMENT counselor told her, "If you want to do something like that you will have to start at the bottom as a clerk and work your way up."

MARY GILBERT sells cigars and works as a bookkeeper in a Sausalito restaurant and smoke shop. Holder of a master of engineering degree from Cornell University, the 25-year-old Sausalitan has found the industrial engineering field impossible to get into. "You will have to start at the bottom as a clerk and work your way up," she was told before she decided to abandon the 9 to 5 business world. (I-J photo)

She found that women were not hired for jobs like that, she says. But women are hired as assistant managers of gift shops, doing some buying and book work, so Mary went to work in a Sausalito gift shop for about six months. Then she took her present job, also in Sausalito. It allows her certain freedoms — to wear what she wants to work and to work the hours she wants.

"I got tired of doing things just for the sake of money," she says.

Mary applied to Cornell as an undergraduate after reading in the engineer school brochure that the school was coeducational. She received a rejection almost immediately from the dean of admissions.

"It said that from the biography that I sent with my application, he did not think I was interested in the profession, but I felt I was being rejected because I was a woman. So I wrote back asking for an interview, which was granted. I pleaded my case and got in," she says.

Cornell's undergraduate engineering school has a quota of 600 men and four women.

"THE REASON for the quota, I was told, is that the university has four beds set aside in the women's dorm for the engineering school," Mary says.

Graduate school, where she was one of three women, was easier to get into, Mary explains, since she already had a foot in the door.

In school, Mary says, she was admired for her "guts in studying for a profession in the male world."

"It got bad when I went through sorority rush," she says. "Everyone asked the same two questions, 'Where are you from?' and 'What are you majoring in?' Engineering surprised everyone so much, at first I was proud, then I got a little sick of it."

She did pledge Kappa Alpha Theta sorority.

"I liked the girls so much, and after being in classes with only men all day, felt a need for female companionship," she says.

"I AM on a physical fitness kick now," Mary says. "It will be my big thing for the next few months."

Mary says she doesn't want to look too far into the future, except for an Hawaiian vacation she has planned for after the first of the year.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

How Can A Young Citizen Make Sure He Chooses The Right Man?

DEAR HELEN:

I voted for the first time this year and I still don't know if I voted right or not. How is an ordinary person to tell, what with all the stuff that comes out for and against every darn candidate?

I read one newspaper, or hear one paid ad on television, and I think "This is the one." Then there's the rebuttal, with nasty slams and I wonder, "Can this be so?"

Most of the candidates supported some of my ideas, and most of them didn't measure up in other areas. Then, after they're elected, they don't measure up at all sometimes.

How can we get unbiased opinions and true facts, especially if we're new at voting? — YOUNG U.S. CITIZEN

DEAR CITIZEN:

Enrolling in a political science class helps, for there you get the history of politics, study philosophies of the various parties, and learn about behind-the-scenes ploys.

We vote wisely or unwisely in proportion to how much time we're willing to spend on research. We aren't always right in our assessments, but we'll come closer if we listen to (and read) all sides, weed out as much puff-stuff as possible, and choose candidates for their integrity as well as their aim. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

Most girls wouldn't think this is a problem, but it is to us. My friend and I are too popular with boys. Both of us have gone steady about seven times since July. So the girls are jealous of us.

We aren't boy crazy, but we don't have any friends except boys. No matter what we do, the guys cheer us on, and that turns the girls off. Neither of us has gone farther than "first base," but rumors are started about us being pregnant, etc.

We aren't pretty, at least we don't think so. We even try to discourage boys but they keep coming back. Helen, what's your advice about getting rid of boy friends and gaining girl friends? — TWO EIGHTH GRADERS

DEAR TWO:

Your biggest problem is — you're eighth graders. I mean you've reached the Age-13 Plateau when most girls are very unsure of themselves, therefore liable to resent those who succeed where they fail.

Perhaps you've matured faster than others. At any rate, you've learned the secret of attracting those cagey junior hi males and, naturally, the girls will be jealous. (And you can't help lording it over them a bit — especially when they put you down.)

Try sharing. When the boys flock around, call a few girls over to join the crowd. Give a party, asking girls who haven't been too snobby. Get the word out that you aren't scalp hunters, but would like to share.

And cheer up. Next year things will be better — or maybe worse, because you'll have lots more competition then. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I was another one who wrote to "The Tigers" and "met" a very fine guy, serving in Vietnam. But I haven't heard fom him in months, though I've written several letters. How can I find out if he's alive? — ANITA

DEAR ANITA:

If your letters weren't returned to you, then assume your Vietnam Tiger is alive and well and has probably found another pussycat. — H.

This column is dedicated to family living, so if you're having kid trouble or just plain trouble, let Helen help you. Address Helen Bottel in care of the Independent-Journal.

PRESS GUIDE IS AVAILABLE

A guide for press chairmen of organizations interested in getting news to the Marin Women's Section of the Independent-Journal is available at the San Rafael main office and the Novato, Mill Valley and Southern Sonoma I-J offices.

The booklet, "Getting News Into Your Newspaper," is issued as a service of the Independent-Journal Women's Section to assist press chairmen for women's organizations.

The guide explains policies of coverage, how to prepare news stories and meeting notices, and the special stories and features emphasized by the section.

The booklets at the San Rafael office may be obtained from the switchboard on the main floor.

Patricia Lee Morrison Is Married In Larkspur

Patricia Lee Morrison of Burlingame became the bride of William Michael Connolly of Colma Saturday in a ceremony at Redwoods Presbyterian Church in Larkspur. A reception at the church followed.

Maid of honor for her sister was Diana Lynn Morrison of San Francisco. Another sister of the bride, Mrs. J. Edward McGuigan of Palo Alto, the bridegroom's sister, Patricia Connolly of Colma, and Judy Vacek of Mill Valley were bridesmaids.

Michael Sullivan was best man, and guests were ushered to their seats by Geoff Johnson of Fairfax, Robert Garland of San Mateo and the bridegroom's brother, Andrew Connolly of Colma.

Patricia was graduated from Redwood High School and College of Marin. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Morrison of Corte Madera. The bride is employed by Bird and Son of Massachusetts in San Mateo.

William, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Connolly of Colma, was graduated from Westmoor High School in Daly City and attended College of San Mateo. He is employed by Frank and Bill's Phillips 66 Service Station in San Francisco. Mrs. Frank Payton of Burlingame is his grandmother.

The couple will live in Burlingame when they return from a wedding trip to Acapulco and Mexico City.

LIVING IN San Rafael following a wedding trip to Lake Tahoe are Mr. and Mrs. Claude Bishop, who were married at St. Raphael's Church in San Rafael. The bride, the former Gail Richardson, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Richardson of San Rafael, and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Bishop, also of San Rafael. (Novato photo)

NEW X-RAY UNIT AT ROSS

Dr. J. J. Parkers positions X-ray technician Judy Alt through use of a television monitoring system during a demonstration of Ross General Hospital's new General Electric Telegem X-ray unit. The unit, installed a week ago at a cost of $85,000, permits exact patient positioning, thus eliminating needless repeat filming because of incorrect positioning. It is the first remote control unit installed in Marin County.

TEACHER SPEAKS OUT

Junior First Grade Needed For Reading

By PAT ANGLE

A veteran teacher in the Sausalito School District last night discussed the dilemma of children who can't read, then pointed out some problems and possible solutions to district trustees.

The teacher, Frances Evergettis, who has taught reading in Sausalito since 1963, warned, however, that no simple, miraculous improvement is possible.

One problem, according to Mrs. Evergettis, is that colleges cannot show teachers how to teach children to read. "Most teachers are not prepared for this; they have to dig and find the ability," she said, "and, if they are not motivated, they may never find it."

She urged the board to provide materials and textbooks on the teaching of reading, coupled with intensive in-service training programs for teachers.

Last year, Mrs. Evergettis began a reading skills development program at Central School in which children are tested extensively, then placed in classes where their particular problems can be dealt with. "By the end of last year, we had not gotten very far," she admitted, "but we did notice many children were attacking words for the first time. it's going to take a lot more grinding, a lot more digging."

A recent discovery which Mrs. Evergettis made was the inadequacies in the state's basic reader, which she said teaches youngsters to read by sight, rather than by sound of words.

By using the state books, the teacher said children learn the 44 sounds of the English language over a period of three years. "The children are reading words, but have not learned to put sounds together, so they can carry this ability over to any new words they want to read," she explained.

Mrs. Evergettis said she has found a set of books which show youngsters how to sound out words, but added such books are just beginning to come out and it will take some searching to find them for all grades.

"What this district needs is a junior first grade," she told the board, "because there are some children who could benefit by not going into first grade from kindergarten and you can spot them."

Board Chairman Nathaniel Johnson, who recently attended a national conference on the education of young children in Boston, agreed with Mrs. Evergettis' idea of an extra school year, between kindergarten and first grade. "The feeling among many educators is that all children are being pushed too far, that all could benefit from a junior first grade," Johnson said.

Black children have additional reading problems, according to Mrs. Evergettis, because the black community "has a language of its own and some of the sounds in that language are not quite like the sounds in business English."

She said many black children have the same difficulties in learning to read that an adult has in learning a foreign language where the sounds of words may be unfamiliar. She is preparing to begin a program to rectify this auditory problem and said "more time must be given to allow children to learn the new sounds."

Mrs. Evergettis called for a systematic, planned program of reading instruction, something, she said, the district has never had. "Over the years, my frustration and anger has grown," she said, "and there were times when I felt I could not go on in public school teaching."

She is convinced that reading can be taught; but it must be taught properly, from kindergarten on. "Two weeks ago the board was presented with a set of demands from a group of parents who were very concerned — and they were right," Mrs. Evergettis said.

"I think we're taking steps in the right direction," she conceded, "but I just wish we could move faster. I wish the necessary changes could take place overnight."

Plea Today In Burglary Case

David Thomas Kircher, 19, of 131½ Reservoir Road, San Rafael was arraigned yesterday in Marin Municipal Court on a charge of burglarizing a Bolinas apartment Sunday.

His case was continued today for entry of plea.

Kircher was arrested about 9 p.m. after Sheri Bradley, who lives in an apartment above Shirley's Tavern, said she discovered him opening her refrigerator.

She said Kircher ran downstairs and first mingled with a crowd in the bar and then ran outside where her husband, David, and attorney Thomas Barfield held him until police arrived.

An Offense To Courting Couples

ELLESMERE, England (UPI)—Councilman Levi Jones, a 71-year-old bachelor, told colleagues the town's plan to install a street lamp opposite a bus shelter would offend courting couples.

"I know my courting days are over," Jones said. "But I don't see why the youngsters should have theirs interfered with. I think the council are being spoilsports.

"When the youngsters hear their kissing and cuddling will have to stop, they will raise a howl of protest. I will support them."

Man Falls Into Vat, Rescued By Firemen

Raymond Quackenbush, 54, of Santa Rosa, was treated at Hillcrest Hospital for back injuries yesterday after falling 15 feet from a ladder.

Quackenbush fell at noon into a grain vat and machinery at R. O. Shelling Co., Magnolia Avenue, where he is a foreman. A rescue team from the Petaluma Fire Department entered the vat to prevent him from being buried and lifted him out by basket.

New District

Establishment of an assessment district for the improvement of Woodward Avenue will be considered by the Sausalito City Council today at 8 p.m. in city hall. The council will meet to consider agenda items not completed at its regular meeting of Nov. 17.

Hearing Set For Preserve Cutback

Owners of land within Marin's agricultural preserve area, which is recommended for a big cutback, will get a public hearing before the Marin County Planning Commission on Dec. 7 at the Civic Center.

Commissioners yesterday set the public hearing by 4 to 2 vote, with Jack G. Nixon absent.

TWO DISSENTERS

The two dissenters, Walter F. Freitas and Eugene R. Trombley, said that a discussion on Dec. 7 would be sufficient because the county counsel has ruled that a formal "public hearing" would not be needed. They argued that a public hearing would require notices to be sent to each landowner within the agriculture preserve area, which covers two-thirds of the entire county.

On a motion by Hugh Dougherty and a second by Margaret B. Azevedo, the commissioners set the public hearing for Dec. 7, with notices to be sent to 49 landowners whose lands will be taken out of the agricultural preserve contract. The rest will be notified by advertisements in newspapers.

Of Marin's land mass of 333,440 acres, 213,264 acres are designated as agricultural preserve land which can qualify for lower taxes if the owners sign a preserve contract with the county. Only 92,000 acres are under agricultural preserve contract.

FOUR MONTH STUDY

After a four-month study, the Marin Land Conservation Advisory Committee recommended that the agricultural preserve area be cut back to 92,000 acres, the area already under preserve contract. The Land Conservation Advisory Committee also recommended that 49 smaller parcels (less than 100 acres each) that are under preserve contract should have their contracts revoked because they are not bona fide agricultural land.

Marin County Board of Supervisors will make the final decision.

Superior Court Due Theft Case

It was reported yesterday in Marin Superior Court that the case of Richard Anthony Alonzo, 18, of no known address, was not acceptable to juvenile court because of his long juvenile criminal record.

Alonzo is accused of burglarizing and possessing stolen property from the Planned Parenthood Association office in San Rafael on Aug. 30.

He pleaded innocent to the charges yesterday, and a jury trial was set for the week of Jan. 4 in Marin Superior Court.

Kentfield Objects To Toussin Development

Several Kentfield residents charged yesterday that traffic along Sir Francis Drake Boulevard near Ross General Hospital is already congested, and any dense apartment development on Toussin Avenue would make life unbearable.

A half-dozen residents appeared before the Marin County Planning Commission to oppose a planned apartment zoning sought by Gus Niederholzer of 30 Toussin Avenue on his three-acre property on the north side of Geary Avenue at Toussin.

County Planning Director Werner von Gundell said the area is now zoned for garden apartments with a density of 28 units per acre. "We are at a loss as to why it was zoned for such density in the first place because the hills are very steep and the streets narrow," said Von Gundell. He asked for a continuance until Dec. 21 so that his staff can study the area in more detail.

Planning Commissioners decided they would make a field trip to the area at noon on Dec. 7 and continue the discussion on Dec. 21.

Niederholzer's application for rezoning asked for a density of 30 units per acre, but his architect, Robert Goetz, said the 30 unit density is a mistake. "We're now allowed 28 units per acre, but we have no intent to get that type of density. We thought 15 to 20 units per acre would be feasible."

Residents protested that traffic is impossible now along Toussin and Geary Avenues, and any added apartment units would be tragic. Even now, cars trying to get onto Sir Francis Drake Boulevard must wait 10 minutes at a time to pull out, they declared.

The Marin County Planning Commission Also:

LAND DIVISION — Approved a lot split on 1.4 acres of land owned by the estate of Marie L. Silveira at the end of Manana Way north of Point Reyes Station. A portion of Manana Way must be paved. The planning director also recommended that a fire hydrant be installed, but planning commissioners tossed out that requirement.

ENGLISH PUB — Decided by a 4-to-3 vote that resort-commercial zoning is justified at the entrance to Muir Beach, where Charles R. Felix wants to build an English pub and inn. The motion, by Eugene R. Trombley, got support from Jack G. Nixon, Edward Hageman, and Walter F. Freitas. Dissenting were Margaret B. Azevedo, Hugh Dougherty, and John F. West. The majority finding will go to the county supervisors for rezoning approval.

SUBDIVISION — Unanimously approved the tentative map of a subdivision on four acres near the corner of Hicks Valley Road and Eucalyptus Avenue west of Novato for Marinways Inc.

Action Is Asked In Genocide Bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Foreign Relations Committee voted 10 to 2 Monday to recommend Senate ratification of a 21-year-old treaty to outlaw genocide.

However, Senate action this session appeared unlikely, and there was some doubt that the treaty against systematic extermination of races of people will be put to a vote next year.

President Nixon has called for ratification of the treaty but it is opposed by the American Bar Association and some other groups which contend it has legal flaws.

Brandt In Italy

ROME (UPI) —West German Chancellor Willy Brandt began a two-day official visit to Italy today and scheduled two long meetings with Premier Emilio Colombo for talks on European security and matters of mutual interest.

Jail Term For Rock Throwing

SAN JOSE (UPI)—Gregory Bloom, 30, a San Jose State College psychology major, was sentenced Monday to 60 days in jail for leading a rock-throwing demonstration against the invasion of Cambodia last May 30.

The student and his brother, Randall Bloom, 25, were identified as leaders of a demonstration march which became a rock-throwing melee in which a number of windows were smashed.

Randall Bloom has not been caught.

Influence Peddler Fined $10,000

NEW YORK (UPI)—Admitted influence peddler Nathan Voloshen, broken in health and in financial difficulty, was fined $10,000 today in federal court on his plea of guilty to a charge of misusing the office of House Speaker John McCormack for his personal gain.

U.S. District Judge Marvin Frankel suspended imposition of a jail sentence because of the 72-year-old Voloshen's ill health but placed him on probation for one year.

Future Use Of Buildings Is Outlined

A report on future use of School District was presented to school buildings in the Sausalito trustees last night by member Robert R. Lyon, chairman of the board's facilities committee.

Although Lyon stressed no final decision has been reached on which schools will remain in use and which will be closed, he said two plans are being considered at the present time.

One proposal calls for keeping Manzanita School in Marin City as a kindergarten and putting grades 1-3 at Bayside and grades 4-8 at Martin Luther King. The second plan would also leave kindergarten at Manzanita, but located all other grades at King, a plan similar to that proposed last year by former principal Sidney F. Walton Jr., who called for a one-campus school (at King) for all eight grades.

Making final determination of facilities, Lyon said the committee will consider how the use would affect the efficiency of school programs. Another important factor would be cost, he added.

The Sausalito School District board also:

ADVISORY COUNCIL — Authorized Supt. Lawrence A. Lindberg to select parents, teachers and students to form a superintendent's advisory council to meet regularly to hear concerns, ideas, suggestions and problems and to attempt to find solutions.

INTERDISTRICT TRANSFER — Postponed action until Dec. 14 on a request from Mrs. Hans A. Burg to allow her two children to attend school in another district.

DOCUMENTS — Authorized Lindberg to sign certain documents, including employment contracts, payroll and purchase orders, warrants and voucher requests, in behalf of the board.

YOUTH CORPS — Agreed to hire a clerical aide and maintenance aid from the Neighborhood Youth Corps which will pay the salaries of the two aides.

ADMINISTRATIVE ASSISTANT — Designated Robert Thompson as administrative assistant to the superintendent.

NEW AIDES — Authorized Lindberg to hire three new Title I aides, two for kindergarten and one for first grade and four playground supervisor aides. The Title I aides will work 20 hours a week at $2.80 an hour and the playground aides five hours a week at the same salary.

Lockup At Folsom Prison Is Ended

FOLSOM, Calif. (UPI) —The 19-day-old general lockup of more than 2,000 inmates at Folsom prison ended Monday with 80 to 90 per cent of the prisoners returning to their normal work assignments.

Huel Morphis, program administrator at the prison, said officials were "very optimistic" that all the convicts would be back on their jobs today.

'SON OF FLUBBER' OPENING TOMORROW

Plans On Tiburon Trails Are Delayed

The Tiburon City Council, after holding a two-hour public hearing on the Tiburon trails plan last night, decided it did not have enough information to act.

Although all councilmen said they favored the plan, three wanted to delay its adoption so the council's lands and development committee could study other proposals.

Primary among these was a plan advanced last night by Neill Smith, of 3825 Paradise Drive, which would substitute a cross-peninsula trail system and extensive open land along Tiburon's Ridgeland for the ridge trail.

Smith, who said he spoke for five other persons owning about 240 acres of land in the trail's path, opposed adoption of the plan, which envisions a hiking path from the Keil Cove area on the southeastern tip of the Tiburon Peninsula to Highway 101 in the hills of Alto Grade.

He instead asked the council to consider a trail parallel to Paradise Drive on the northeastern side of the Peninsula. In exchange, he offered "scenic easements" on a large portion of the ridgeland.

Such easements, he explained, would be similar to agricultural preserves, and would run for a minimum of 10 years. During that time no development would be allowed, though the land would remain in private ownership and not be dedicated as a public park.

Robert H. Wayne, of 180 Hacienda Drive, one of the property owners Smith spoke of, complained that "nobody's asked the property owners what they think of the plan.

"Views from the proposed trail would be only toward the East Bay," he said. He contended that the need for a path along the Paradise Drive shoreline already exists and outweighs the need for a ridge trail.

He was disputed, however, by former Tiburon Mayor Gordon W. Strawbridge, who said that both trails are necessary.

Rupet Jernigan, of 25 North Terrace Court, urged the council to "stick with the subject at hand and not be distracted by alternate plans."

But councilmen clearly were interested in Smith's offer. "The first hearing on the trails plan was only held two weeks ago," said Mayor Denis T. Rice, "and I think we could afford to study this new proposal and any others."

Two councilmen, Anne L. Ellinwood and M. Carlisle Becker, said they wanted to see the plan approved last night, but when it became evident that the other three council members favored a delay, they agreed to a continuance.

The matter will come up again for possible adoption Dec. 7. The council's lands and development committee will in the meantime work with Smith and any other persons with alternate proposiitons.

The Tiburon City Council Also:

EOC — Ratified Rice's appointment of Edward Parnell, 8 Felipa Court, as Tiburon's representative to the Marin County Economic Opportunity Council.

ROSE — Voted a resolution of appreciation and presented a plaque to City Mgr. Lawrence D. Rose, who leaves Tiburon Dec. 1 to become city manager of Newport Beach in Orange County.

NUISANCE — Instructed its staff to prepare a resolution ordering Ralph C. Noah to abate a nuisance at 6 Rolling Hills Road, a house that the city contends violates the height restriction.

PARKS AND RECREATION — Approved on second reading an ordinance establishing the city's parks and recreation commission.

NEXT MEETING — Adjourned to Monday at 7:30 p.m. at city hall to finish items from last night's agenda.

Ferry Rate Hike Angers Councilmen

Harbor Carriers, which provides ferry service between Tiburon and San Francisco, better shape up or ship out, the Tiburon City Council warned last night.

Councilmen were angered by the company's recent rate increase, which raised commute fares from 50 to 67.5 cents per ride.

"I cannot in any way see that it (the increase) was justified," said Councilman Branwell D. Fanning.

Both he and Councilman Albert H. Sennett said the city was considering "overtures" to the Golden Gate Bridge District to run the service, although Fanning said the council and Harbor Carriers both knew that the district could not do so "at this time."

Mayor Denis T. Rice said the council would discuss the matter at its next meeting Monday.

3 Burglaries In San Rafael

Three burglaries of businesses in San Rafael were reported by police today.

Tools valued at $136 were taken from the auto shop at San Rafael High School between 12:30 p.m. Saturday and 8:25 a.m. Sunday, police said.

A thief who kicked in the rear door of Hyams-Dressling Insurance Company at 305 Mission Avenue, Apt. 1, took a $150 typewriter, according to police.

A gasoline motor valued at $205 was taken between Friday and yesterday from the Marin Sign Company, 350 Fourth Street, police said.

Ban On Soccer

CAIRO (UPI) — Cairo's youngsters will no longer be allowed to play soccer in the streets under a new city law.

Petaluma Discusses New Revenue Ideas

New sources of revenue through new taxes and fee increases were considered informally last night by the Petaluma City Council with an eye toward supporting a larger 1971-72 budget.

The council considered recommendations made by the citywide finance committee and came up with a few proposals of its own, but said more study would be needed with no final decision to be made until early next year.

The finance committee had recommended that the monthly sewer charge of $2 by increased to $2.46 to cover both maintenance and operation of the sewer plant and debt service on outstanding bonds.

The council rounded off the proposed increase to $2.50 and agreed that sewer connection fees, recently doubled from $300 to $600 for residences, should be reserved for capital improvement rather than plant operation.

City Mgr. Robert H. Meyer said an alternative plan would be to increase the basic property tax rate of $1.50 per $100 assessed valuation by 20 cents. He said the increase would bring an additional $90,000.

The finance committee had recommended the property tax rate increase, saying it would be logical because property taxes are deductible from state and federal income taxes whereas other taxes would not be.

The council also considered a utility tax on telephone, cable television, gas and electricity. Meyer said a 5 per cent tax would bring a minimum of $190,760, based on population two years ago.

Meyer said he would also prepare a plan for a utility tax on the city water charges that may delay the necessity of taxing other utilities.

Councilman Robert A. Brunner asked Meyer to prepare a plan to institute a fee for annexations, using the theory that new developments should pay their share of additional city services required.

In finances, Meyer asked the council to give some thought to setting a policy on the number of policemen and firefighters needed. He suggested a ratio of one officer per 1,000 new residents.

Meyer also asked the council to consider setting a policy on methods of financing capital improvements. He said some might be placed on a pay-as-you-go basis, while others might be set for bond issues, including parks, new equipment, streets, civic buildings drainage, parking and special studies.

Girl Injured In Bike-Auto Mishap

An 18-year-old San Anselmo woman was injured at 11:20 a.m. yesterday in a bicycle-auto accident on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard and Lagunitas Drive, Ross, police reported.

Arilenne Grace Werbelow of 36 Sequoia Drive, was treated for multiple scrapes at Marin General Hospital.

She was riding a bicycle southbound on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard and collided with a car driven by Steven L. Blair of 752 of 752 Penny Royal Lane, San Rafael, police reported.

Philip Looks At Industrial Strife

LONDON (UPI)—Prince Philip thinks British workers who threaten to strike may be frustrated by their jobs rather than after more money.

Addressing an industrial society conference dinner Monday night, Queen Elizabeth's husband said more money and better employment conditions were not enough to satisfy men and women doing boring jobs.

ART REVIEW

A Closer Look At Two Artists' Work

By LAURA DEVENDORF

SAN FRANCISCO — Two Marin painters, Alton Raible and Martin Stoelzel, are among a small group exhibiting through Dec. 5 at the Jason Aver Gallery, 157 Maiden Lane. And while much of their work has been seen piecemeal in shows before, it helps seeing a group of their things all at once.

Otherwise, Raible might be thought to be four different people. He breaks up his product into four distinct things, bird paintings, portraits, drawings, and abstracts of enamel and water, all of which only loosely relate to each other.

His most familiar pieces are probably his bird paintings. It is hard to forget a thing which moves you to laughter. And these cynical satires show the gamut of human frailties through outrageous, expressive birds which are very, very funny. "The First, Most Enduring Love" is particularly choice. It shows a bird devotedly ogling his reflection in the water.

As unresolved as the bird messages are pointed, are the artist's abstract floats of color which happen through the admixture of enamel and water. As accidents, they pass. But there is little of the artist in them unlike his other very personal work including his wistful, innocent children's portraits.

But of all the things he tries, Raible's pencil drawings seem the most important. Precise and technically flawless, their concepts also seem the deepest and most clear. A gentle child "Adrift in Time," and the male-female conflict of the "Intimate Enemies" he so adroitly symbolizes, are his smoothest blend of idea and design, of the artist and art.

Stoelzel reaches this state in most of his paintings. A superb draughtsman, he combines elusive segments of the human form with hard shapes, with atmospheric drapery, with mist and stripes and color.

Sometimes the images burn white or furnace red. At others, figures seem bound in some dark, violent purgatory. And at others, they seem parts of dreams where things blend and bleed in and out of each other — where hair flows into streaks ending finally, in a zebra's stripes.

All Stoelzel's paintings are surreal as are his equally suggestive drawings. The drawings again combine parts of nudes with a sort of vaporous symbolism. And they underscore Eoelzel's exquisite draughtsmanship while emphasizing his special finesse in joining literal segments of reality with the deep subconscious, so that they have a heightened total reality about them.

Showing with Raible and Stoelzel are Tom Brittain, Martin Schmidt and Albert Dolmans. Brittain's handsome watercolors have the same structure and vastness as Eric Obach's. While his spattered grasses in winter-wet browns have Andrew Wyeth's touch.

Dolmans paints the rural scene with realistic warmth. While Schmidt selects still lifes and such, paints tiny pictures of them in an extraordinarily literal way and then blows it with colors so poisonous and so grossly overdone that an orange has the same shocked hue as those safety vests worn by highway workmen.

Robes To Monks

BANGKOK (UPI) — The government's religious affairs department plans to send 100 robes to buddhist monks living in East Pakistan areas damaged by the Nov. 12 cyclone and tidal waves. Officials said there are about 1,000 Buddhist temples in Pakistan, a predominantly Muslim country.

Pope To Stop In East Pakistan

VATICAN CITY (UPI)—Pope Paul VI will stop over for one hour in disaster-stricken East Pakistan Friday on his way to Manila, the Vatican announced today.

It said he will arrive in Dacca at 1:15 a.m. Friday and fly on to Manila after one hour.

The pope's scheduled departure from Rome Thursday was advanced two hours and 25 minutes to fit in the Decca stop. The arrival in Manila was set for 9 a.m. Friday.

Sentencing Set In Pot Possession

Bernardo Morales Sanchez, 27, of Sausalito, pleaded guilty yesterday in Marin Superior Court to a charge of possessing marijuana last December.

Sentencing was set for Dec. 18.

Sanchez was arrested when he was a passenger in a car driven by a man who had reportedly hit the manager of Disco in San Rafael with a gun butt.

Cigarette Health Warning Under Study

LONDON (UPI)—The House of Commons was told Monday the government is considering making a printed health warning compulsory on all cigarette packets in Britain.

Soviet Crewman's Defection Try

BOSTON (UPI)—A Soviet crewman tried to defect to the United States Monday by seeking political asylum aboard a U.S. Coast Guard cutter which was tied up to a Russian fishing "mothership" at sea.

However, at the request of the Soviet captain, the crewman was returned to his ship, a spokesman at Coast Guard Search and Rescue Headquarters here said today.

Details of the incident off Martha's Vineyard were sketchy but the try for asylum took place Monday afternoon as the cutter Vigilant, a 210-foot craft out of New Bedford, was tied to the mothership. U.S. and Russian officials were conferring on board the Soviet vessel about fishing rights in he North Atlantic.

Window Vandalized

A vandal shattered a $90 window in a door at the Marin Boat House, 115 Third Street, between 10 p.m. Friday and 8 a.m. yesterday, according to San Rafael police.

King Holiday Backers In Plea

NEW YORK (UPI)—A group that wants the birthday of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. recognized as a national holiday said Monday opposition to its goal would crumble if the slain Negro rights leader had been "of another hue."

Making King's birthday—Jan. 15—a holiday "is the least that the nation can do," the National Citizens Committee for Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. holiday said in a statement.

The Most Exciting Headache News In Years!

Doctors' Tests In Treating Nervous Tension Headaches Now Made Public

Non-Narcotic Tablet (that needs no prescription) Proves Just As Effective As The Expensive, Leading Pain-Relief Prescription Of Doctors.

In recent medical tests doctors proved a famous tablet that needs no prescription gives the same complete headache relief as the expensive, leading prescription of doctors.

These doctors' tests proved, beyond a doubt, that Anacin is just as effective to relieve tension headaches, yet Anacin needs no prescription and is far more economical.

With Anacin, headache pain and its nervous tension vanish in minutes. Despite its strength, Anacin is not narcotic. You can take it without getting dizzy or an upset stomach.

Next time take powerful, fast-acting Anacin®. Anacin Tablets give the same complete headache pain relief as the leading prescription product for which doctors wrote 21 million prescriptions last year.

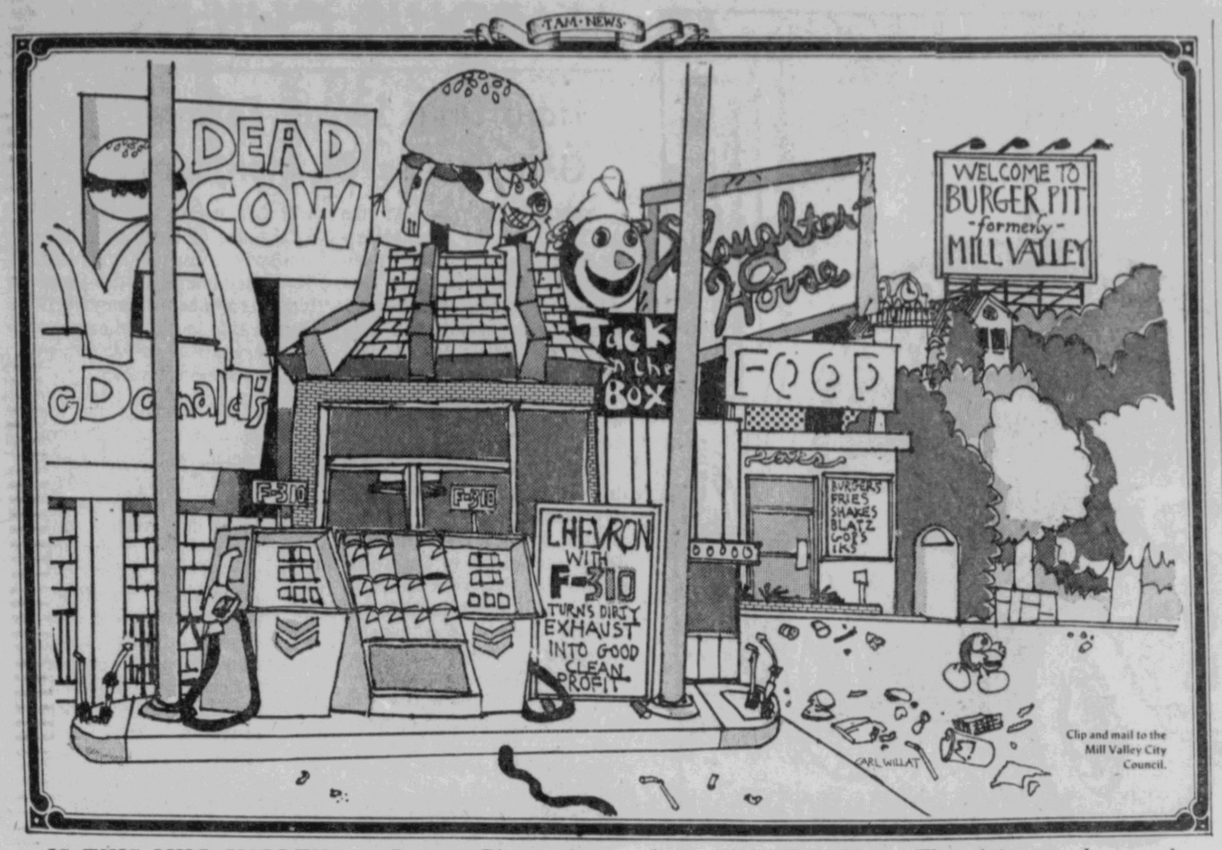
SERVING ALL OF MARIN COUNTY
THIRD SECTION SAN RAFAEL, CALIFORNIA, TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 24, 1970 17



IS THIS MILL VALLEY? — Burger Pit, a city crammed with service stations and chain hamburger stands is the gloomy vision of the future Mill Valley by Carl Willat, a junior at Tamalpais High School, whose work appears in this week's issue of the Tam News. The picture and a number of articles chastising the city for allowing more drive-in restaurants, were compiled for the issue by Tamalpais journalism students.

ODE TO ILL VALLEY

Students Chide Council On Development Policy

A group of Tamalpais High School students, concerned about the stampede of developers building hamburger stands and gas stations in Mill Valley, has chided the city fathers in the latest issue of the Tam News.

The special section devoted to "Burger Pit, formerly Mill Valley," makes satirical comments about the city's newest eat-and-run and fill-and-run establishment. It includes such articles as "Mill Valley Fights Back – or – Does This Ring a Taco Bell?", "Welcome to Los Angeles North," and "What's Your Beef — 100 Per Cent?"

Student writer Ben Alvord traces the reasons for the Mill Valley City Council's recent refusal to permit a restaurant-bar, with live entertainment, on Miller Avenue.

If Mill Valley residents pay high taxes so they do not have to put up with businesses they don't want in their town, why all the burger palaces and service stations, Alvord wants to know. "Is this what you pay for and is this what you want?" he asks. "If so, keep paying."

Carl Willat, another student, notes that Mill Valley will have 14 service stations when the new Gulf service station, at the corner of Camino Alto and East Blithedale Avenue, is completed and he complains of the resultant garishness.

Calling Miller Avenue, where the school is located, "Hamburger Alley," Willat blames the upsurge in hamburger stands on high school students who "seem to enjoy pretending that typical drive-in fare is food and gobble it up at every opportunity."

He also notes that "the smaller, less ostentatious ones (restaurants) that were here before Mill Valley became a mecca for developers are experiencing a decline in business."

A highlight of the special section as a parody of the city's official song, "Mill Valley," to be sung to the same tune. Written by Nathan Herrell, "Ill Valley," describes the plight of the town:

"It's really easy to be found
Because there's litter all around
And the neon lights shine just as bright as the sun
Ill Valley, talkin about Ill Valley, nausea's home.
. . . You can even have an imitation shake
Just remember that the burger meat is fake
And the french fries taste even worse than they look.
. . . So by the time you start to heave
You may think it's time to leave
But the traffic's so bad your stay has just begun . . ."

To insure that their complaints to Mill Valley's "new look" reach the right people, the section includes a small notice: clip and mail to the Mill Valley City Council.

Blaine Resigns Post As Juvenile Referee

Marin Juvenile Court referee Jack L. Blaine resigned yesterday and retired Superior Court Judge Jordan L. Martinelli has agreed to fill the position temporarily, Juvenile Court Judge Samuel W. Gardiner said today.

Judge Gardiner said that Blaine, who has heard juvenile cases for the past two years as a volunteer, gave business pressure and health problems as the reasons he was no longer able to serve as a referee.

Judge Gardiner said that Judge Martinelli agreed to serve for 90 days while Referee James D. Adams is on a vacation in the South Pacific.

The other juvenile court referee is Harold G. King, who was appointed about a month ago because of the heavy case load in juvenile court.

The referees serve without pay, handling juvenile criminal cases as appointed by Judge Gardiner, who is usually involved in adult trials.

Sanitary District To Join Study

Directors of the Sausalito-Marin City Saniatry District last night voted to enter into an improvement district being formed by the Marin Municipal Water District, chairman Cyril G. Hansen reported.

The improvement district, which the water district hopes will include all sanitary districts in southern Marin, will finance a study of sewage disposal in that area, Hensen said.

The board also agreed to hold its next meeting on Dec. 21, instead of Dec. 28, because of the Christmas holidays.

Meeting Postponed

A neighborhood study session on alignment of Tiburon Boulevard from the Belvedere Tennis Club to downtown Tiburon, scheduled for tomorrow, has been postponed to next Tuesday at 8 p.m. at city hall because of the Thanksgiving holiday, according to Planning Director Wayne E. Moody.

Sixth Army Summons Supervisors

The commanding general of the Sixth Army, who made a "gentleman's agreement" with Mayor Joseph L. Alioto to build housing in Marin rather than at the Presidio of San Francisco, has invited Marin County Board of Supervisors to discuss use of Army land on the Marin side of the bridge.

County Planning Director Werner Von Gundell announced late yesterday that Lt. General Stanley R. Larsen had invited Marin supervisors to a luncheon at the Presidio tomorrow from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. Von Gundell said he was also invited to sit in on the discussion.

He said the general wants to dsicuss "the use of Army lands in Marin." The planning director told the commissioners he believes the discussion will have to do with construction of housing units on Army land on the Marin side of Golden Gate Bridge.

Last week, General Larsen assured San Francisco that any housing needed for personnel working at the Presidio should be built at Fort Baker. This alarmed Marin conservationists, who fear that construction at Fort Baker would jeopardize the Golden Gate Headlands State Park along the Marin headlands.

Slim Summer School Funds Pose Threat

Mill Valley's summer school program, which last year cost the district $40,000, may not be held next year because of a lack of funds, the director of business services warned last night.

Carroll D. Killingsworth said he told the district board that a slim budget and rising costs may force cancellation of the program. Some 1,200 students enrolled in the four-week course last year.

The board referred the report to the Mill Valley Parent-Teacher Association council for its study and recommendation, Killingsworth said.

The Mill Valley School District Board also:

AUDIO-VISUAL — Confirmed Supt. James A. Collins' signing of a $6,300 contract with the Marin County Schools Department for audio-visual services.

HIRING — Employed Heidi Schmitz as an art teacher at Edna Maguire school at a $5,932 salary for the balance of the year.

CONSTRUCTION — Heard a report that construction of the Middle School is proceeding on schedule.

SKELTON — Expressed grief at the death of Dr. Glenn Skelton, Middle School principal, and adjourned the meeting in his memory.

Guilty Plea In Burglaries

Floyd Kermit Ware, 19, of San Francisco, pleaded guilty yesterday in Marin Superior Court to three charges stemming from burglary arrests.

He admitted burglaring a Tamalpais Valley house June 4, attempting to burglarize one in Belevedere on May 16 and possessing stolen property from a Kent Woodlands house on July 21.

The first two crimes were felonies and the third one a misdemeanor.

Split Over Tree Cutting Ordinance

The Corte Madera Board of Design and the town staff split last night over interpretation of a town ordinance governing the cutting of trees.

Arthur N. Morrison, town engineer, said today the board told Albert E. Quinto of 9 Privateer Drive he did not need board approval to remove trees on private property.

Morrison said he earlier required Quinto to file an application since the ordinance states removal of trees overthree inches in diameter requires board action.

"The town council will have to look into this one," Morrison said.

The design board also approved landscaping and additions to the building at 601 Tamalpais Drive which Nicholas Daphne of San Francisco proposes to use as a mortuary.

In its final action, the board set Friday at 9 a.m. at the town park for a special meeting to consider selection of a circular slide for the children's playground.

Tam High Board Selects Firm

The Tamalpais High School District board yesterday selected a Santa Rosa construction firm for storm drainage improvements at Sir Francis Drake High School.

Selected was Argonut Construction with a low bid of $29,684. Five other bids were received ranging to a high of $49,962 submitted by William R. Cole Co., of Berkeley.

In other action yesterday, the board approved the hiring of Myron Max Poppers as an instructor at the district's continuation school. He will be paid $10,200 per year.

Rohnert Park Recreation Chief Named

The Rohnert Park Recreation Commission learned last night that James Pekkain of Newark has been hired as the city's first full-time recreation director.

City Mgr. Peter M. Callinan told the commission that Pekkain will start work on Jan. 4. Thomas West, who has been director on a part-time basis while attending Sonoma State College, will continue on the staff as head of the acquatics program.

Pekkain, 33, has been employed with the Newark Parks and Recreation Department since 1964. He has a degree in recreation from San Jose State College and also has recreation experience in Pacifica and Sunnyvale.

Pekkain, who was selected from a total of 115 applicants, is married and the father of three children. His starting salary will be $930 per month.

Judge Orders Examination

Judge E. Warren McGuire of Marin Superior Court yesterday appointed two doctors to examine Ronald Paul Rowell, 23, to determine if he is a mentally disordered sex offender.

Rowell had earlier pleaded guilty to a charge of molesting several small girls in Novato in the period December 1969 and March 1970.

Head Sets Stolen

Four $12 head sets for deaf pupils were stolen from Gallinas School in Santa Venetia during the weekend, sheriff's officers said today.

Over 5,000 Rubella Shots Given So Far

The total stood at 4,942 after 774 were immunized at three schools yesterday, but 290 more were given shots at Henry C. Hall and St. Patrick's schools in Larkspur this morning, according to Dr. Carolyn Albrecht, the county health officer.

Dr. Albrecht said only a small number of those vaccinated this morning were pre-school children and urged that parents of pre-school youngsters bring their young to future clinics in the remaining three weeks of the campaign.

Dr. Albrecht said she hopes that 80 per cent of the county's 47,000 children between 1 and 11 will be vaccinated.

Rubella, when contracted by pregnant women, may cause crippling deformities and deaths to unborn babies. A major outbreak of the disease has been predicted for coming months.

The clinic was to move later today to Larkspur-Corte Madera School and Ross School.

The schedule the rest of this week is:

TOMORROW — Glenwood School at 9 a.m.; San Pedro School at 10:30 a.m., Santa Venetia School at 1 p.m.; 3-R School at 2 p.m.

No clinic is scheduled Thursday or Friday, but the schedule through Dec. 15 is as follows:

Nov. 30 — 9 a.m. John MacPhail, 10 a.m. Gallinas, 11 a.m. Blessed Sacrament, 1 p.m. West End, 2 p.m. Sun Valley.

Dec. 1 — 9 a.m. Oliver Hartnell, 10 a.m. Nova Albion, 11 a.m. Den Timoteo, 1 p.m. St. Isabella, 2 p.m. Bernard Hoffman.

Dec. 2 — 9 a.m. Santa Margarita, 10:30 a.m. Oak View, 12:30 p.m. Dixie, 2 P.M. Lucas Valley.

Dec. 3 — 9:30 a.m. Tomales, 11 a.m. West Marin, 12:30 p.m. Inverness, 2 p.m. Bolinas.

Dec. 4 — 8:45 a.m. St. Anselms, 9:45 a.m. Wade Thomas, 10:45 a.m. Isabel Cook, 1 p.m. Yolansdale, 1:45 p.m. Sleepy Hollow.

Dec. 7 — 9 a.m. Brookside, 10:15 a.m. Deer Park, 11 a.m. Central, 1 p.m. Manor, 2 p.m. St. Rita's.

Dec. 8 — 9 a.m. Lagunitas, 10:30 a.m. Nicasio, 1:30 p.m. Mary Silveira.

Dec. 9 — 9 a.m. Central, 10:15 a.m. Manzanita, 11 a.m. Bayside, 12:15 p.m. Martin Luther King, 1:30 p.m. Loma Verde.

Dec. 10 — 8:45 a.m. Olive, 10:15 a.m. Marion, 11:30 a.m. Our Lady of Loretto, 1 p.m. Lu Sutton.

Dec. 11 — 8:45 a.m. Lynwood, 10:15 a.m. Rancho, 1 p.m. San Ramon.

Dec. 14 — 8:45 a.m. Pleasant Valley, 10:15 West Novato, 1:45 p.m. St. Hilary's.

Dec. 15 — 8:30 a.m. Meadow Park, 1 p.m. Pacheco.

Hearing Set For Snyder Lane District

The Rohnert Park City Council last night approved minor changes in the proposed Snyder Lane Assessment District and set a public hearing for Dec. 14 at 7 p.m.

The proposed district to widen and improve Snyder Lane was expanded to include an additional parcel and also split some large parcels into smaller assessment pieces.

The council also tentatively approved a proposal from Stern, Brenner and C.o to purchase 88 per cent of the bonds. City Mgr. Peter M. Callinan said it had been expected the top offer would have been for 80 per cent of the bonds.

The Rohnert Park City Council also:

SOUTHWEST BOULEVARD — Heard that work on the new portion of Southwest Boulevard is complete with the exception of installation of street lights. Dedication ceremonies were set for Dec. 3 at 1 p.m.

SEWER PLANT — Approved a change order in construction of the waste water treatment plant that reduces the area to be paved.

Cascade Park Sewer Line Complaints

Complaints about construction of a sewer line through Mill Valley's Cascade Park were aired last night by the city's parks and recreation commission.

Members voted to notify the city council that they disapprove of the damage done to a pathway in the park as a result of the installation of the line, according to Don L. Dimitratos, parks and recreation director.

A list of recommendations on how the damage may be corrected also was sent to the city council, and the commission requested that any future work undertaken in city parks be subject to review by the panel.

The commission also heard that a newly initiated trial reservation program at the municipal tennis courts at Boyle Park appears not to be working.

Dimitratos said that players are ignoring the signup boards and playing on the courts without reserving them. Commissioner Robert Jenkins suggested placing a large sign on the courts listing the rules for the use, and commissioners agreed to discuss the proposal at their next meeting.

Corte Madera Firm Robbed

J and B Ford of Corte Madera yesterday reported two thefts of equipment including an air wrench and auto parts, police said today.

Officers said the air wrench, valued at $174 was taken Nov. 9 from the back of a pickup.

In a second report, J and B Ford said a battery, bracket and radiator cap were stolen sometime during the last three weeks from a new car parked behind the dealership at 5860 Paradise Drive.

Meet your Bell Savings Counselor

Mrs. Lila M. Haberman

What is a Bell Savings Counselor?

She's a person who represents Bell Savings and Loan Association here in Marin County. What's more she's a resident of Marin County and has been for 25 years. She's been deeply involved in the Savings and Loan business for 15 years. Before Marin County Savings and Loan merged to become Bell Savings, she was an important member of the Marin County Savings family.

What does a Bell Savings Counselor do?

Now, as a Bell Savings Counselor, she's in an important position to help you and your family. In private, she'll be happy to sit down, discuss your personal savings and financial goals – confidentially – and help you to establish a program of saving. She'll see that you receive the highest, guaranteed daily interest available on insured savings, and that's not all. After your account has been opened she and the rest of the members of the Bell Savings family will watch over your savings and when they reach a point where the amount you have saved is eligible for a higher rate, she'll help you convert your account to the higher yield. Call Mrs. Haberman now and set up an appointment, or just drop in at our office. There's no obligation, of course.

It's Important To Save Environment—Some Places

"Consistency, thou art a jewel," says an old proverb.

Mayor Joseph Alioto of San Francisco obviously is no believer in this proverb. He doubtless would subscribe instead to Ralph Waldo Emerson's: "A foolish consistency is the hobgoblin of little minds."

Last week, Mayor Alioto and Lt. Gen. Stanley R. Larsen, Sixth Army commander, ceremoniously signed a three-page memorandum in which the Army, via General Larsen, promised not to build more housing at the Presidio of San Francisco, and to provide the city with information on all "master planning, construction and real estate utilization" within the series of forts on the San Francisco side of the Golden Gate that make up the Presidio.

THE ARMY WAS agreeing to do this, said Mayor Alioto, to preserve the wooded beauty and open space of the Presidio. The Army and the city (as represented by its mayor) are sensitive to the necessity of preserving such open space as part of San Francisco's environment, he explained.

As to where the housing would be put if the Army needed any more, General Larsen took care of that very simply: Put it across the Golden Gate, at Fort Baker in Marin County.

There was no mention whatever of any agreement with Marin County to share master-planning for Forts Baker, Barry and Cronkite, which are under Presidio jurisdiction. Nobody even suggested such a thing.

It was quite a feather in the hatband of Mayor Alioto. He appeared in the role of preserver of San Francisco's beauty and environment — even at the cost of maybe playing hob with a planned scenic park in neighboring Marin County.

AT THE SAME TIME the mayor was taking his bows for signing up the Army to such an agreement, however, there was a lot of pulling and hauling going on in the San Francisco City Hall about another Alioto project: a proposed 550-foot building to be erected by United States Steel Co. on pilings to be driven into the Bay on city port property.

This is the port property, you may recall, which for many, many years was controlled by the state. The people in the statehouse over in Sacramento wouldn't let San Francisco control its own port because, quite frankly, they didn't trust the San Francisco politicians.

Last year, however, San Francisco legislators succeeded in getting a bill through to give the port back to the city. And not long after that, a series of proposals for development of port lands — not for shipping, but for real estate projects — started coming out of the San Francisco City Hall. Most controversial so far is the proposed U.S. Steel tower.

NOW, SOME MORE barracks or other housing on the Presidio would not make much difference to most San Franciscans. It could be concealed by all those trees that Mayor Alioto praised General Larsen for planting.

But a 550-foot tower on the waterfront — over the water itself, in fact — would wreck one of San Francisco's most prized vistas. It would, indeed, affect the environment — and not for the better.

But Mayor Alioto is all for the tower.

Yes, he obviously follows Emerson, who said also: "Speak what you think today in words as hard as cannon-balls, and tomorrow speak what tomorrow thinks in hard words again, though it contradict everything you said today."

"With the GM strike settlement, who can afford an American compact?"

Hard Drug Spread Follows Growing Use Of Marijuana

WASHINGTON — At the height of the Rockefeller-Goldberg governorship campaign in New York, each candidate made extravagant promises of money and help for heroin addicts. In the judgment of observers with expert knowledge, these promises were not only unrealistic but deceptive.

One thing is certain — the drug culture is spreading rapidly. It is spreading from the ghettos, where it has long been deeply embedded, to the white suburbs. In New York the estimate is 100,000 heroin addicts; in other cities — Washington, Cleveland, Chicago — from 10,000 to 20,000. A startling statistic is the estimate that 60 per cent of the inmates of New York City jails are addicts who committed crimes to get their daily fix.

While the use of hard stuff —heroin, LSD — is increasing, the big spread is in marijuana. Almost everyone concerned agrees that more and more young are smoking grass, which is readily available from pushers. This being true, a great many people — specialists, doctors, parents — are asking whether the present effort to punish those who sell and use marijuana is the correct one.

SO LITTLE is known from scientific research about the use of marijuana that authorities immediately concerned are flying blind.

A study two years ago by Drs. William McGlothlin and Jolvon West, psychiatrists at the University of Oklahoma, noted the hazards of continuing use of the drug, one being the role it plays in encouraging the hard stuff.

But they pointed to several reasons to believe that marijuana is less dangerous than alcohol. They said that "society is going ot have to take a more tolerant attitude toward marijuana."

Sensational reports turn the young smokers off when the dire consequences are not confirmed by their own experience. The danger is that they will then believe that the perils in the use of hard stuff have similarly been exaggerated. The resemblance to the prohibition era, when a massive illegal traffic in alcohol corrupted every aspect of American life, has some relevance.

A STUDY of drugs and the young by a distinguished woman physician, which will come out early next year, will advocate legalization of marijuana. It would be done with a government agency controlling the non-profit sale under carefully standardized conditions and with strict penalties protecting minors. This would presumably eliminate one of the worst abuses, which is marijuana laced with other more dangerous drugs, and the variations from the mildest and relatively nontoxic marijuana to a form brought in from Mexico close to hashish in potency.

The arguments on the other side are many. Even though marijuana may be proved hardly more harmful than alcohol, why legalize another drug when an estimated 7 per cent of present users of alcohol are alcoholics, sick human beings? That's several million people. And would not the legalization of marijuana open the way to, say, 7 per cent of more of all marijuana users becoming pot heads — a pot head being a chronic user as sodden with the stuff as an alcoholic with booze?

But the present situation, even with the federal law modified to make the use of marijuana a misdemeanor rather than a felony, is intolerable. A young college student who provided marijuana to his roommates at a small profit was sentenced recently to 25 years in prison. Laws vary in the 50 states, and conviction on a misdemeanor can mean a year in an overcrowded city jail or house of detention.

The facts, given all the rhetoric about "permissiveness," are hard to face up to. But they cannot be swept out of sight.

Two New Signs 'Painful Display'

Two new signs now dwarf the old Greenbrae Co. building. The free-standing one is larger and more garish than any sign in the neighborhood during daylight hours, however, this unsightliness does not compare to the painful display of commercialism of both signs at night. The direct brightness and brightness contrast of these signs are tremendously distracting to drivers, and worse, they are disturbing to the residential environment.

Ordinance Study Committee Needed

I attended the San Anselmo City Council meeting on Oct. 27 when the abatement of two non-conforming units was to be acted upon.

I heard Mrs. Gay Cagy's plea for some answer to her situation: that of living in a residence that the city law determined illegal. When the council voted 4-1 to continue action on non-conforming units until a volunteer citizen advisory committe had studied the matter for 120 days, I was gratified to see San Anselmo taking into account the total concept of the law, both its legal and its human side.

On Nov. 10, the original decision of the council was reversed, apparently due to the city attorney's opinion on the illegality of delay in abatement proceedings on Mrs. Cagy.

In his statement to them, Mr. Buresh also questioned the advisibility of the council appointing a citizen advisory committee to study the nonconforming ordinance as it relates to single family zoning.

This committee has not been formed yet, but speaking as one who has applied to serve on it, my understanding of Councilman (Lewis W.) Stewart's motion was that this committee would be appointed to determine if there is a need to revise or supplement the existing law . . . I would suggest that Mr. Buresh stop giving political advice under the guise of legal opinion.

I would also hope that the San Anselmo City Council will take another look at this matter. . .

San Anselmo Council Defended

Many thanks for your very informative news article in the Nov. 17 I-J in regard to low and moderate income housing which was the subject of a public hearing at Marinwood Community Center. The reporter who covered the meeting did an excellent job concerning a topic of vital importance at this point in time.

In your article you state that Sarah Nome of San Anselmo "complained that the trend in San Anselmo is in the other direction with the city council ordering the abatement of about 200 or 300 second units that exist in one-family areas." As a former member of the San Anselmo City Council and presently as a member of the San Anselmo Planning Commission, I feel that Mrs. Nome's statement does our present city council an injustice and places the reputation and intent of our city government in jeopardy. In all fairness to our community I feel that Mrs. Nome should either (1) offer clearcut proof that our city council has, in fact, ordered the abatement of "about 200 or 300 second units" or (2) cease and desist from making such statements. I can assure your readers that our present city council is well aware of the critical housing problem and fully realizes that there is much hard work ahead before an intelligent and equitable solution is reached.

Brodnik Murder Acquittal Decried

The tragic news of the acquittal of the six Latinos accused of Officer (Joseph) Brodnik's murder was a sickening thing to read.

Officer Brodnik died in vain. I feel the judicial system is a disgrace. Officer Brodnik's partner saw him shot down by one of the six Latinos. I believe him when he said this. He himself was beaten up, his jaw broken and face bloodied. Yet the six Latinos went free!

I say abolish the jury system. I'll never have faith in it again.

Those Rainbows Are Backwards

For whatever it may be worth, I should like the Highway Department painter to know that the very lovely rainbows painted around the twin Waldo tunnels are upside down. Red is the shortest color span in the spectrum and therefore should be at the inner curve and not at the top. However, any way they are painted, they brighten up my trip to Marin County.

Merrydale Road 'Speedway' Tragedy

Today it happened. The very thing that I have been anticipating would happen ever since I moved to Merrydale Road and wrote you a letter several years ago. As I was leaving for work this morning between 6:45 and 7 some idiot driver (that is the only nice name I can think of), speeding up Merrydale Road to Highway 101 hit a young deer on the side of the road and did not even stop. This could have been a child or someone's pet as well. Unfortunately, I was not able to catch the driver's license number but when he sees this he will realize who he is. This is a 25 mile per hour speed zone but most of the time you would think it is the warm-up track for the Indianapolis Speedway. Would the general public who uses Merrydale Road for an access road to Highway 101, please drive with a little caution and try to obey the speed laws and give all humans, and animals a chance to live?

WINDOW ON THE WORLD

China's Almost-Admission Puts U.N. In Quandary

By PHIL NEWSOM, UPI Foreign News Analyst

As the United Nations completed its annual ritual of turning down Red China for U.N. membership and Red China's supporters retired from the field, they did so with that old rallying cry of sports, "wait 'til next year."

In Washington and at United Nations headquarters in New York, the United States took note and declared it a "new situation."

It was indeed, and it also was apparent that the United States, for 20 years Nationalist China's foremost supporter in the U.N., would have to review its position between the Nationalists on Formosa and the Reds on the mainland.

BY 51 TO 49, the U.N. General Assembly for the first time had given a majority vote to a resolution giving a seat for Red China in the world body. The same vote would have ousted the Nationalists.

That it did not happen was due to a U.S.-sponsored resolution which declared it an "important" question, thus requiring a two-thirds majority.

It was a situation which had more than its share of ridiculous aspects.

An important one was that although more than half the U.N. membership clearly supported Red China's membership, the admission of a nation advocating violent revolution just as clearly would violate the U.N. Charter limiting membership to those nations willing to support a peaceful solution to all disputes.

RED CHINA'S Ninth Party Congress in Peking in April, 1969, adopted a hard-line revolutionary action plan as its basic program at home and abroad.

However, this could be overlooked since, under the same conditions, approximately a third of the membership, including the United States, also could be denied U.N. membership.

There were these other details:

As a permanent member of the Security Council, Nationalist China presumably could veto any action threatening its seat.

This would leave Red China as a member of the General Assembly but not of the Security Council.

There also was the point that both Red China and Nationalist China have rejected the idea of a two-China possibility as advocated by the United States and many others.

The idea that 800 million mainland Chinese should be deprived of U.N. representation is in itself ridiculous. But, numbers aside, it seems equally ridiculous to oust 14 million others to reach such a goal. Some other solution should be possible.

AFFAIRS OF STATE

Signs Begin To Warn Citizens Of Bigger Tax Bite By State

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO (CNS)—One by. one, almost unnoticed warning signs are coming up concerning the financial situation of the state for the next fiscal year.

Assembly Speaker Robert T. Monagan, R-Tracy, has announced there "probably will be a slight tax increase" at the next session of the legislature.

But more to the point, A. Alan Post, legislative analyst, has stated California is facing a serious financial crisis, which threatens to become worse.

Post's statement was made to the state Senate Finance Committee, which met earlier to go over the situation in a preliminary way. And the situation doesn't look good, from the taxpayer's standpoint.

This situation has repeated itself virtually annually for more years than we care to remember. The program will be to find ways of raising more money from an already imposed-upon public, which virtually for the past generation, or at least since World War II, has known no surcease from the need for more money to operate an expensive government.

Post points out that the state's fiscal picture is at about the same status as it was last May. This means about $300 million in added taxes will be required to maintain government in California in the plush style to which it is accustomed.

As a result, the tax experts will be working overtime to determine what they can do to increase the ante in the most vulnerable spots.

It's a good bet that the "sin" taxes, on liquor and tobacco, will escape increase, for the simple reason they are now so high as to be almost confiscatory.

This leaves the property tax as probably the best situated for increase, despite the hullabaloo over tax reform and the necessity for relieving the property taxpayer. This is because there just isn't any other place to go for increases.

Even with the admonition from analyst Post that "this is a bad year to talk about any cost-expanding programs" there will be plenty of talk about them, and effort will be made by liberal legislators to further commit taxpayers to unneeded programs.

Unfortunately, there has been no concerted effort to decrease expenditures, and probably won't be.

REMEMBER WHEN?

10 YEARS AGO

Nov. 24, 1960

Two hundred and twenty-two persons were killed in Thanksgiving Day accidents in the United States, according to an Associated Press compilation.

20 YEARS AGO

Nov. 24, 1950

A 100,000-man United Nations army launched an offensive which Gen. Douglas MacArthur said was geared to end the Korean War by Christmas.

San Rafael Chamber of Commerce announced it would send a delegation to endorse the proposed Richmond-San Rafael Bridge at a hearing at the Marin County Courthouse Dec. 14.

Want To Start Fight In Novato? Just Mention Diablo Triangle

If you want to start a fight in Novato, the magic words are "Diablo Triangle."

That's the tag that's been hung on a sleepy stretch of land that lends a semi-rural view to passersby, but gives the city council a headache.

Bounded by Center Road, South Novato Boulevard and Diablo Avenue, the triangular parcel represents a large chunk of downtown land, 21 3 acres, mostly vacant and largely undeveloped.

This open acreage, a rarity in a downtown area, has become a battleground for the traditional clash of property owners and planners.

SEDWAY AND COOKE, the city's planning consultants, recommended that the undeveloped area be developed into a "garden apartment complex clustered around a central open space focused on Warner Creek."

Triangle property owners, 14 in all, have battled to retain commercial zoning for their lands, and have called the consultant's recommendation a dream that isn't feasible.

They are facing public sentiment that Novato, with an ample supply of shopping centers, doesn't need another supermarket and chain drug store located at the site.

When debates heat up, there are charges that Sedway and Cooke designated the triangle area for apartments so commercial development could be channeled to the regional shopping center they have proposed for the Pinheiro Ranch property, north of the present downtown.

THE CITY planning staff has labeled the idea of having apartments close to the downtown area as sound, and feels it would enhance Warner Creek which runs through the triangle.

Property owners contended that the integrated plan for the proposed apartment development, requiring cooperation of all property owners, is impossible to achieve.

"It's hard enough to get two property owners together," Frank Perachiotti, a property owner, told the city council last week.

To achieve the apartment plan, the council would not only have to rezone property, but also revoke a use permit granted earlier this year for a supermarket and a drive-in restaurant, a situation loaded with legal problems and possibilities of law suits.

THE DECISION on the triangle undoubtedly will have an impact on the community and the entire downtown development.

There are many facets to the problem and the city council will need the wisdom of a Solomon, the heart of a lion and a couple of Superman capes to come out of the maze alive.

Small Infant Is 'Towed Away'

The mother found a note on the car saying her child was at the West End Central police station. Officers there told her traffic wardens had watched the car for 2-1-2 hours, then decided to remove the baby.

The mother got a parking ticket.

ART BUCHWALD

Answer To 'No Knock' Problem: Replace It With 'No Flush' Law.

WASHINGTON — There was a shoot-out in Phoenixt last week which has national implications.

The police, taking advantage of a "no-knock" law, raided a house where they suspected hippies had narcotics. Unfortunately, at the time of the raid the hippies had moved out and a married couple had moved in. Since the raid took place at 1:30 in the morning, the husband refused to believe the men were police and shot one. He in turn was shot. The police sergeant said after the raid, "It was a misunderstanding. The couple probably felt they were defending their home against some hippies, and the officers thought they were fighting some criminals."

NOW, OPPONENTS of the "no knock" law have always claimed the big danger of it was that if the police enter someone's home without knocking they could get shot.

Since the Constitution permits you to defend your own home, it is possible that more policemen will be shot than narcotics will be found.

This will make the cops uptight, and so, to protect themselves, they'll start shooting first, and before you know it there will be blood baths all over the country.

The reason law enforcement officials say they need the "no knock" law is that, if they knock first, the suspects inside the house will flush narcotic evidence down the toilet. only a strong "no knock" law, they claim, can prevent anyone from dashing to the bathroom.

This sounds reasonable but, as we have seen in Phoenix, it can only lead to a shoot-out, because the people inside the house can never be certain that the people crashing into their home are policemen.

THERE IS a solution to this problem which we think could satisfy the law-and-order people, as well as the innocent home owner.

I am proposing that the "no knock" law be stricken from the books and replaced with a "no flush" law.

This is how it would work: The police would still have to get a warrant to enter someone's home. They would also have to knock before entering. But if it were a narcotics or gambling raid, they would have to shout at the top of their voices, "This is a raid. Anyone who flushes the toilet will be arrested."

One policeman would be stationed by the water meter nearest the house or apartment to monitor any fluctuation in water pressure during the raid.

WHEN THE POLICE enter the apartment, they will have the authority to check the bathrooms. If anyone flushes during the raid, he will be assumed to have committed a crime, and this evidence will be accepted by the court as prima-facie evidence of guilt.

The "no flush" law may be considered by civil libertarians as an invasion of privacy, but it is certainly more acceptable than a "no knock" law, and safer, too. I made this suggestion at the annual meeting of the American Bar Association in St. Louis in a speech last summer, but they only laughed at me.

So I've decided to take my case to the public. Would you rather have the police crash in on you at 1 o'clock in the morning without warning? Or would you rather first hear a knock on the door and give up your bathroom privileges while they're searching through your home?

Chiropractors Win Big Round

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Senate Finance Committee has voted to include chiropractors' services as among those medical services covered by Medicare.

The services will be offered under the voluntary portion of Medicare under which costs are shared by the government and those who take the insurance and pay a monthly fee for it.

Including chiropractic services would cost an estimated $65 million to $75 million a year. Only manipulation of body structures will be covered; other practices of chiropractors will not be insured.

The extended coverages was written into a social security-medicare bill which goes before the Senate next month.

Bead, Hamilton Are Bound Over In Robbery Case

Two Marin City men, Brian V Beard and Richard Charles Hamilton, have been bound over to Marin Superior Court on a charge of robbing two men in Sausalito Oct. 22.

They are to be arraigned next Monday.

Beard and Hamilton were charged after two Ohio men said that the Marin City men had offered to drive them to a restaurant when they couldn't find a taxi.

One of the men said that Beard grabbed his walle when he took it out to pay him. The out-of-town men said they grabbed and held Hamilton until police came, but Beard fled and later was identified from pictures.

'Welfare' Teacher Hasn't Been Paid

OAKLAND (UPI) — An $11,000-a-year school teacher, who was approved for welfare payments for the two months she did not work, has not yet been paid.

Welfare officials have protested the ruling which granted the unidentified woman welfare rights.

Robert Martin, director of the state department of social welfare said he reluctantly ratified a hearing officer's recommendation in the case. Attorneys are attempting to get the decision overruled and meanwhile the woman has not been paid.

The hearing officer had said the woman qualified under welfare rules during the two months. She took her teacher's pay over a 10-month period as is permitted for most teachers.

The woman is a mother of two, separated from her husband.

Commenting on the affair, Gov. Ronald Reagan said it was "incredible" that the school teacher should get welfare.

"He will not stand for this kind of abuse which is the kind of thing he has been trying to prevent," a spokesman said.

Dutch elm tree disease was discovered in the U. S. in the early 1930s.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Lungs Have Remarkable System To Filter Pollution From Air

Van Dellen

Most of us probably feel almost helpless when it comes to doing something about air pollution. However, can't something be done about our polluted lungs? I understand there is a therapeutic procedure in which the lungs are cleansed by flushing with saline solutions. Is this advisable? If so, what is the procedure called, and what medical specialist is qualified to perform this technique?"

Several years ago we described an unusual remedy in which saline was used to wash out the bronchi. This method, called broncholavage, was designed to help victims of chronic asthma who continued to wheeze despite conventional treatment. The technique was done in a hospital by a chest specialist. It is a procedure that requires anesthesia.

IT INVOLVED passing a bronchoscope through the mouth and into the lungs. Saline solution was then injected into each main bronchus and aspirated immediately. Alternate injections and aspirations were continued until the fluid was clear.

Broncholavage was done in this piecemeal fashion to avoid drowning. The saline not only washed away large amounts of mucus but loosened the hardened crusts (casts) that obstructed the smaller bronchi. Not everyone was helped, but some respiratory cripples benefitted to the extent that they were able to lead a useful and active life.

BY THIS TIME L.H.H. realizes that washing out the lungs (broncholavage) is a time-consuming, major procedure that is serious and expensive. Furthermore, after two or three washings, the membranes of the throat would have "had it."

In addition, the bad effects of ordinary air pollution on the lungs are not serious enough to warrant broncholavage. The air passageways from the tip of the nose to the tiny air sacs do a good job of housecleaning. As a last resort we could wear masks.

(Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the Independent-Journal.)

TYPHOID CARRIERS

H. R. writes: I read that a man had been a typhoid carrier until his gallbladder was removed. Could this report have been based on scientific fact?

REPLY

Yes, in 90 per cent of the cases, removal of the gallbladder cures a carrier. Typhoid bacilli set up housekeeping in the organ and surgery is the only way to break their lease. Occassionally, ampicillin is used for this purpose.

ARTERIES AND STRAIN

H. E. writes: Does working under emotional pressure cause hardening of the arteries?

REPLY

This is a moot question, because we do not know the exact cause of hardening of the arteries. Emotional strain could contribute, however, if the added tension raises the blood pressure and blood cholesterol levels. Frequently these conditions coexist with arteriosclerosis. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for our leaflet on hardening of the arteries.

HIS TOES THROB

L.S. writes: I am 75 and my toes throb constantly. A doctor prescribed nerve pills but these have not helped. Please let me know what causes this condition.

REPLY

Aside from nervousness, a circulatory disorder and neuritis are also possibilities. But your physician has had the opportunity of examining your feet so why not ask him?

Today's Health Hint—Replace electric cords and appliances when they show signs of wear.

Big Suit Filed On Wrong Charge

SAN DIGEO, Calif. (UPI) — Roger G. Linder, 33, a carpenter wrongfully charged with murder and imprisoned for six days, Monday filed a $2.75 million damage suit against the county of San Diego.

Linder, of nearby Lakeside, said in the suit he was arrested, imprisoned falsely and defamed. Also named as defendants were Sheriff Joseph O'Connor, District Attorney Don Keller and other sheriff's personnel.

Linder was arrested Sept. 11 in connection with the Labor Day stabbing death of Mrs. Mary Bonaventura, 32, Lakeside.

Mrs. Schlesinger Gets Divorce

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (UPI)—Mrs. Marian C. Schlesinger, wife of historian and former presidential aide Arthur M. Schlesinger Jr., was granted a divorce Monday in Middlesex Probate Court on grounds of cruel and abusive treatment.

The decree was awarded by Probate Judge J. John Fox. Mrs. Schlesinger was awarded $4,700 a month in alimony.

Schlesinger, who lives in New York City, was an aide to President John F. Kennedy and won two Pulitzer prizes. He is a former professor at Harvard University and authored the book, "A Thousand Days: John F. Kennedy in the White House."

The couple was married Aug. 12, 1940 at Franklin, N.H., and had three children.

Plant Closed To Avoid Violence

MILAN, Italy (UPI)—Management officials closed the Alfa Romeo automobile manufacturing works for 48 hours today to protest acts of violence by strikers.

They said the strikers are endangering company property and threatening the safety of company officials and employes.

Workers have staged a series of strikes in the Alfa Romeo works at Milan and Arese in recent weeks to back demands for a new labor contract and revision of rules governing bonus payments and promotions.

50 Injured In Two Explosions

CHARLOTTE AMALIE, St. Thomas, V.I. (UPI)—At least 54 persons were injured in two major explosions at a natural gas company plant Monday. Flames shot 400 feet in the air.

The hospital was jammed with casualties of the blast that knocked out all electricity on the island and crippled communications.

Comic Book On The Adult Side

BRADFORD, England (UPI) —The department store Santa Claus gave Gerald Stockwell, 5, a gift package containing a yo-yo without a string and a comic book titled "Intimate Confessions."

Gerald's mother, who paid 12 cents for the package, complained. "I don't like children being robbed in this way," she said. "The book was quite unsuitable for little children."

It included comic strip love stories called "too young to love" and "two wayward girls."

Said the embarrassed department store manager: "This kind of thing should never happen."

Bike Registration Stickers At Store

Bicycle registration stickers for Mill Valley residents, formerly available only from the Mill Valley Police Department, now may be obtained at Mill Valley Cyclery, 369 Miller Avenue.

The stickers, which cost 75 cents, and are valid until the bicycle changes ownership, may be bought during store hours, 9 a.m.-6 p.m. Tuesday through Friday, 9 a.m.-5 p.m. Saturday. The store is closed Sunday and Monday.

White House Holiday

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon and his family plan to spend the Thanksgiving holiday weekend in the White House, with no plans for trips or visits elsewhere.

NOTICE OF HEARING
FOR CONSIDERATION OF PETITION FOR FORMATION OF THE PARADISE ESTATES PERMANENT ROAD DIVISION

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that on TUESDAY, the 8th day of DECEMBER 1970, at 1:45 PM in the Chambers of the Board of Supervisors of the County of Marin, the Board will consider a petition for the formation of the PARADISE ESTATES PERMANENT ROAD DIVISION.

The petition provides as follows:

TO THE HONORABLE BOARD OF SUPERVISORS OF THE COUNTY OF MARIN STATE OF CALIFORNIA:

WE, the undersigned, comprising a majority of the landowners within the proposed division and equal to more than 50% of the assessed valuation within such proposed division, propose the formation of a permanent road division to be known as Paradise Estates Road Division. The area to be included within said road division is more particularly described in EXHIBIT "A", which is attached hereto and included herein.

The boundaries of the proposed division are more particularly set forth in EXHIBIT "A" and contains approximately 315 Acres, with an assessed valuation of $362,634.00 or more.

The value of improvements on the real estate, and the personal property within the porposed division on the latest equalized assessment rolls is $201,541.00.

The number of inhabitants, as of now, has been ascertained to be ninety-seven (97).

The legal description of the highways and roads upon which construction, improvement, or maintenance is to be performed is more particularly set forth in EXHIBIT "B" and is included as though fully stated herein.

The proposed division contains 200 parcels averaging approximately one acre or more each.

I/WE Have read the petition and we agree to the proposals set forth therein:

Six Seeking Dismissal Of Attorneys

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Six convicts at racially-troubled Soledad State Prison asked the California Court of Appeal on Monday to drop attorneys appointed to defend them against charges of killing a guard.

Joining in the appeal were the six Monterey County lawyers appointed to defend them and six San Francisco lawyers who want to represent them.

Their petition also asked the appellate court to delay the start of their Dec. 7 trial.

Judge Gordon Campbell in Monterey County Superior Court had appointed attorneys for all seven Negro men accused of killing William Shull, a white guard, on July 23.

One of the convicts accepted the public defender as his lawyer. Those filing the petition for changes are O. C. Allen, Jesse Phillips, James Wagner, Walter Watson, Alfred Dunn and Roosevelt Williams Jr.

In arguing the petition, attorney Patrick Hallinan of San Francisco asserted that court-appointed lawyers who live and work in Salinas would be inhibited because of local prejudice against the convicts.

Shull was the second white guard to be slain at the prison this year. The three so-called "Soledad Brothers" are accused of murdering the other guard and are awaiting trial.

BEST SHOWS FOR TONIGHT

KGO (7), KNTV (11), 10 p.m. — John Considine stars in "Aura to a New Tomorrow," an episode in the "Marcus Welby, M.D." series with regular Robert Young. It is the story of an epileptic who tries to hide his affliction.

Couples Divorce, Swap Each Other

LONDON (UPI) — Mr. and Mrs. Norman Goodwin got a divorce in a London Court. So did Mr. and Mrs. Michael Knights. After the hearing, Goodwin walked out with the former Mrs. Knights on his arm, and Knights with the former Mrs. Goodwin. A judge granted them divorces on grounds of adultry with each other.

TELEVISION REVIEW

Networks' Prime Time Change Plan

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Notes to watch television by:

The headliners: Dick Van Dyke's new CBS-TV series which debuts next September, will offer him as the host of a local television variety-talk show . . . Hope Lange, formerly of "The Ghost and Mrs. Muir," will play his wife . . . Rock Hudson visits Dinah Shore's NBC-TV morning series next Tuesday and sings some Christmas songs with her.

Buck Henry, who wrote the scripts for the films "The Graduate," "Catch 22" and "The Owl and the Pussycat," will be the substitute host for ABC-TV's vacationing Dick Cavett the week of Dec. 8-11 . . . Bill Russell, former coach and star of pro basketball's Boston Celtics, is Cavett's sub Dec. 4.

Sir Ralph Richardson and Sir John Gielgud, of the recently-opened Broadway play "Home," discuss the theatre on CBS-TV's "Camera Three" Sunday . . . ABC-TV, which failed in its attempt to make video stars of Britain's Engelbert Humperdinck and Tom Jones, has gone back to the Isles for yet another singer—someone named Val Doonican—and will give him a variety series next summer.

The programs: NBC-TV's "First Tuesday" next week offers a feature on "The New Look at the University of Notre Dame," focusing on such matters as the life style of the students . . . an American Jewish family that moved to Israel—husband, wife and four daughters—is the subject of ABC-TV's "Directions" series Sunday.

With the evaporation of NBC-TV's "Prudential's on Stage" specials, the announced plans for Elizabeth Taylor to make her video drama debut this season in an original play have fallen through . . . same network's two-part, four-hour adaptation of the bestselling novel "Vanished," about the disappearance of the top advisor to the President of the United States, is expected to air around March or April.

Blueprint: All three commercial networks now have either announced or indicated how they will comply with an FCC ruling limiting each of them to three nightly hours of prime time as of Sept. 1, 1971 ... and unless plans change for competitive reasons, televiewers will be getting most of their prime time show starting at 8 p.m. EST next season—half an hour later than they do now . . . Here is the setup:

NBC-TV has announced it will broadcast shows from 8 to 11 p.m. EST each day but Sundays, when the hours will be 7:30 to 10:30 p.m. EST . . . ABC-TV, meanwhile, has indicated rather clearly it also will present its shows from 8 to 11 p.m. EST—every day—next fall . . . and CBS-TV has announced it will employ the 7:30 to 10:30 p.m. EST period nightly.

First Car, A Vega, Rolls Off G.M. Production Line

DETROIT (UPI)—A lime green 1971 Chevrolet Vega with an automatic transmission rolled off an assembly line at 7:40 a.m. today, signalling General Motors' return to he business of building cars following a 10-week strike by the United Auto Workers.

The minicar, purchased by Mrs. Ann DeSalvo, Bloomington, Ill., whose husband is a Chevrolet dealer, passed inspection at G.M.'s Lordstown, Ohio, facility without any trouble.

The new auto, however, may not have been the most fitting symbol of a return to production—it was one of the few G.M. models that will not cost more.

G.M. announced Monday it was increasing prices an average 6.9 per cent, of $232 per car, on its new models.

The nation's largest automobile manufacturer announced the price hike as 75,000 UAW members returned to their jobs Monday for the first time since Sept. 14. More were back at their posts today.

At the same time, UAW leaders took the contract G.M. signed Friday —a pact that will cost the company at least $2.4 billion in wages over a three-year period — to Ford Motor Co. and Chrysler Corp., which were not affected by the G.M. walkout.

A Dec. 7 strike deadline faced Ford, but both UAW President Leonard Woodcock and Ford Vice President Malcolm Denise expressed confidence an agreement could be reached before then.

But Denise also said there was "no guarantee we won't fall apart. We've got considerable work to do."

Chrysler, where no deadline was set, had a wildcat strike on its hands which idled 1,400 workers Monday at a forge plant in Detroit. But the strikers' grievances had nothing to do with the contract negotiations, a spokesman for UAW Local 47 said.

The G.M. list price increases —about $24 or .7 per cent higher than the $208 increase over 1970 models tentatively announced two months ago — went into effect immediately.

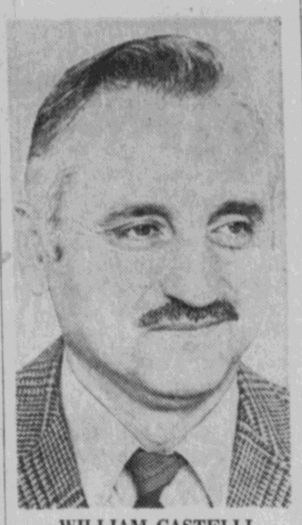
TEACHER OF THE WEEK

He Found A 'Home' In Fifth Grade

William Castelli started his career as a high school teacher, found a "home" in fifth and sixth grades, and is best known to many people as a musician.

Castelli is starting his third year as fifth grade teacher at Park School in Mill Valley, the same school where he taught five years before transferring to Tamalpais Valley, Old Mill and Marin Terrace Schools in the Mill Valley district, teaching fifth and sixth grades. But before his first stint at Park — as sixth grade teacher — he taught for four years in both high school and elementary school in Tomales.



WILLIAM CASTELLI
Teacher of the week

There, he followed what had been his career before becoming a teacher: music. He taught music and dramatics at Tomales High School and music at Tomales Elementary School, being employed by both high and elementary school districts.

He had been an Army Air Forces band leader during World War II, before returning to college to get his degree and teaching credential.

Becoming an elementary school teacher has not dimmed Castelli's interest in music. He plays violin in both the Marin Symphony and College of Marin Symphony.

He has found many other interests in the elementary grades, though. He taught remedial reading in Mill Valley schools when the district introduced its own program before the advent of the state-supported Miller-Unruh reading program — and at the same time conducted a special class for gifted pupils.

And just to prove how wide a fifth grade teacher's interests can be, he also manages the fifth grade softball team.

Two Plead Guilty In Burglaries

Stephen Robert Carrino, 22, of San Rafael, pleaded guilty yesterday in Marin Superior Court to second degree burglaries of a San Anselmo house in July and one in San Rafael in September.

Judge E. Warren McGuire set sentencing for Dec. 28, and asked the probation department to make an investigation as to whether Carrino is a narcotics addict.

Also pleading guilty to the burglary of the San Anselmo residence on July 5 was Dolores Marie Burke, 27, of Fairfax.

Judge McGuire set sentencing for her on Dec. 28, also.

The pair was arrested after police found Mrs. Burke in a car outside a house at 37 Indian Rock Road and watched Carrino emerge from the second story.

Carrino's codefendant in the San Rafael burglary, where they were found under a bed inside a house at 90 Irwin Street, is being sought by authorities after failing to make court appearances.

He is Robert Dean Allen, 26, of Fairfax.

Noise From Jets Cut 90 Per Cent

ALAMEDA (UPI) —Noise from jet planes being repaired at Alameda Naval Air Station has been cut up to 90 per cent, the Navy declared Monday.

Hickel Firm: Won't Quit Cabinet Post

NEW YORK (UPI) — Walter J. Hickel says he won't quit his job as interior secretary, "But if I go away, I'm going away with an arrow in my heart, not a bullet in my back."

Hickel, the former governor of Alaska, admitted Monday, however, Attorney General John N. Mitchell, one of the more influential figures in the Nixon administration, spoke to him last week about his future in the cabinet.

"He never mentioned a resignation as such," Hickel said. "He didn't do that at all. He was conveying to me his thoughts, I think, probably from an administrnation standpoint. We talked about the problems of my going out and literally setting policy sometimes."

Hickel made his comments on the CBS-TV "60 Minutes" show with Mike Wallace. The show was titled, "What Have I Done Wrong?"

Hickel raised eyebrows last spring when he criticized Nixon for ignoring youthful dissent which reached a high point after the U.S. incursion into Cambodia and the slaying of four students by National Guardsmen at Kent State University.

Since then, there has been considerable speculation the interior secretary would resign or be replaced. The printed speculation about his leaving the cabinet one way or the other has grown intense since the Nov. 3 elections.

Hickel, who said he thought Nixon would be reelected in 1972, said he had "set policy" during oil spills at Santa Barbara, Calif., and in the Gulf of Mexico off Louisiana. Further, he said his decision to initiate grand jury proceedings was "unprecedented."

The secretary said he "didn't come here to change. I came here to change Washington." But asked if he thought Nixon got more than he bargained for when he appointed him, Hickel said, "I thought that was what they wanted and probably that was a mistake."

Johnny Carson's Brother To Rival

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Dick Carson, former director of his brother Johnny's "Tonight Show" on NBC, has been signed to direct the rival "Merv Griffin Show" on CBS.

CBS also announced Monday that the Griffin production picked up its option on producer Walter Kemply for the next 26 weeks. Kemply formerly was Johnny Carson's head writer for five years.

'Walk For Park' Pledges At $754

More than 100 Novato students participated in a "walk for parks" Saturday and gained pledges totaling $754, hiking eight miles to raise park funds.

Almost everyone completed the hike, according to Carol Childs, president of the San Marin High School Ecology Action Club, which sponsored the walk.

Sponsors pledged to contribute a certain amount for each mile a student walked, and $50 in pledge money was in by yesterday, Miss Childs reported.

The funds were to be used for purchase of city park land or to promote park acquisition.

Sacramento Firemen Win Pay Increase

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The City Council late Monday approved a $950-a-month pay package for city firemen who staged a two-week strike in October to back salary demands.

The pay scale was $25 less than the figure sought by Sacramento Fire Fighters Local 522, AFL-CIO. It was also $10 less than the amount recommended by the city civil service board.

Louisiana Tribunal Boots Clay Shaw Trial Judge

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) —The Louisiana Supreme Court accused Judge Edward Haggerty Jr. of heavy drinking, gambling, absenteeism and associating with underworld characters and ordered him removed from the Orleans Criminal District Court Bench Monday.

Haggerty presided at the conspiracy trial of Clay Shaw, the New Orleans businessman accused of taking part in a plot to kill President John F. Kennedy.

The high court voted 6-1 to remove Haggerty. The ruling said he engaged in "willful and intentional" misconduct which brought disgrace on the judiciary. Haggerty's attorneys have 13 days to apply for a rehearing on the order.

The judge was arrested Dec. 17 at a motel stag party and charged with obscenity, soliciting for prostitution and resisting arrest. Haggerty was acquitted of the charges.

46 More Quakes

MIGNANO MONTELUNGO, Italy (UPI)—Authorities reported today 46 light to medium earth tremors have been recorded in the past 24 hours in this small village, which has suffered more than 500 such quakes since Sept. 1.

49er Sees Silver Lining On Dark Cloud

By RALPH CHATOIAN

Very bad describes the play of the San Francisco 49ers last Sunday against the Detroit Lions, the Prospectors losing 28-7 in Detroit.

Kwalick, reserve tight end for the 49ers, told the members of the 49er Goal Rushers booster club yesterday:

"That loss probably did us good. Going into that game we were up in the clouds and some of us might have been looking ahead to the Rams or thinking about the playoffs. Now we'll have to take the games one at a time."

Kwalick, speaking at the Goal Rushers' luncheon meeting at Holiday Inn, Terra Linda, said he expected it to be "a long day" at the team's session with the films, going over the mistakes — and there were many — in the Lion game. He said there would be hard work ahead getting ready for the Los Angeles Rams game Sunday in Kezar Stadium. The 49ers, with a record of 7-2-1, are one game ahead of the Rams in the Western Division of the National Football Conference.

When one of the club members asked what he thought about other teams in the league, St. Louis Cardinals in particular (a possible foe in possible playoffs), Kwalick neatly said: "I don't want to look that far ahead. Right now I'm thinking about the Rams. We have to beat the Rams Sunday. That comes first."

The handsome, 219-pound Kwalick, a No. 1 draft pick by the 49ers two years ago out of Penn State, confided to the boosters group he was expecting to have a red face and $100 less in his wallet when the team spent a good part of today studying the horror films of Sunday's game in Detroit.

"When the Lions scored their last touchdown I was so mad I slammed my helmet down and just started walking up and down in front of the bench. It was only AFTER the extra point kick that I remembered I was supposed to be out on the field on the special team. For a mental error like that, it's an automatic $100 fine. Nobody noticed it, but when the coaches study the film and see that wide space on the line and only 10 players out there, well. . ."

One of the club members asked Kwalick what he thought about the idea that players be fined for fumbles.

"I would be strongly against it," he said. "Fines for mental errors are all right, they're excusable. But fumbles, missed blocks, things like that are physical errors. You just can't fine players for those things."

When someone asked how he managed to get stuck with the nickname "Bullwinkle," Kwalick explained that his father, when negotiating his contract, was quoted in papers saying his son was "fast as a deer and strong as a bull." When he reported to the 49ers, veteran Charley Krueger said, "So you're strong as a bull. We'll just have to call you Bullwinkle."

Another club member said he had seen Detroit's tough defensive tackle Alex Karras on television and noted his great sense of humor. "He's not a very humorous man during the game, I can tell you that'" answered Kwalick.

Talking about the windy conditions of the game, Kwalick said that Sunday's contest in Detroit was the first NFL game this season in which no field goals were attempted. "With that wind, it would be sheer luck if a ball went through."

Like the 49ers before him at the meetings, Kwalick praised Bruce Taylor, the rookie cornerback for the San Francisco team. He also heaped praise on quarterback John Brodie, saying "he is one of the greatest competitors I have ever seen."

Married and the father of two daughters, 2 and 1, the 23-year-old Kwalick plans to keep his family in the Bay Area in the off season instead of going back to Pennsylvania and substitute teach as he did last year.

Stanford's Plunkett Wins Heisman Trophy

He Easily Beats Notre Dame Star

By FRED McMANE
UPI Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UPI) — Jim Plunkett, the Stanford quarterback who set NCAA marks in passing and total offense this season, was named winner of the 1970 Heisman Trophy as the nation's outstanding college football player.

Plunkett received 510 first-place votes and 2,229 points from the 1,059 electors to easily outdistance runnerup oe Theismann of Notre Dame. Theismann had 242 first-place votes and 1,410 points.

Archie Manning of Mississippi finished third in the balloting, followed by Steve Worster of Texas and Rex Kern of Ohio State. Pat Sullivan of Auburn was sixth, with Jack Tatum of Ohio State, Ernie Jennings of Air Force, Don McCauley of North Carolina and Lynn Dickey of Kansas State completing the top 10.

OTHER VOTES

Others receiving votes were, in order: Ed Marinaro of Cornell, Tom Gatewood of Notre Dame, Joe Spagnola of Arizona State and Dennis Dummitt of UCLA.

Plunkett has rewritten the NCAA passing and total offense record book during his three-year varsity career. He completed 530 of 962 passes for 7,544 yards and 52 touchdowns during the span from 1968-70. He completed better than 55 per cent of his passes during that time.

BEST EVER

The native of San Jose, Calif., also rushed 212 times, gaining 343 yards and scoring 10 touchdowns. His total offense figure of 7,887 yards eclipsed the former record held by Steve Ramsey of North Texas State and made him the first college player to surpass the 7,000-yard total offense figure.

He led Stanford to a Rose Bowl berth for the first time in 19 years this season and helped the club record upset victories over Arkansas and Southern California.

Plunkett finished second in total offense this season behind Sullivan, compiling 2,898 yards, a national high, in 11 games for an average of 263.5 yards per game.

He ranked fifth in passing with 191 completions in 338 attempts for 2,715 yards and 18 touchdowns. Plunkett completed .534 of his passes last season and averaged 17.4 completions a game.

One of the secrets to Plunkett's success has been his durability. He hasn't missed a game in three years.

Plunkett was eligible for the pro football draft last season since he had "red-shirted" or sat out his sophomore year. But he decided to return to school to finish his degree requirements and help the team gain a Rose Bowl berth.

It Sounds Like A Fun Trip To Miami

IF YOU'RE dreaming of a 49er-Raider Super Bowl meeting — hevvins, what a dream — I know a guy who has 25 ducats to the January classic in Miami. He's Mike Dolan of San Rafael's GTS Travel Service who annually conducts a tour to the Super Footballer with the side trips for funsies. This year the junket will include 40-yard-line Super Bowl seats, accommodations at resorts at Key Biscayne and Paradise Island for other fun and games, indoors and out. Even if the Niners and Raiders don't make it, the trip sounds like fun.

AND ON the subject of the 49ers, yes, they have fair weather fans. After Sunday's S.F. loss at Detroit, attendance at yesterday's 49er Goal Rushers luncheon at Terra Linda dropped about 25 per cent from previous weeks.

The son of Dr. and Mrs. Hazeltine of Kentfield retired from the Niners after the 1968 season but, like the old firehorse, came out roaring this year by joining the New York Giants and has played first team right linebacker for the surprisingly resurgent Giants.

Looked Better Than Cossell

JIM TROPPMANN, the former Redwood High School all-star quarterback now with the U.S. Marine Corps, helped coach the Quantico, Va. Leathernecks football team this season. One game, when all the squad's quarterbacks were on the injured list, Coach Troppmannn was activated and went out and played a whale of a game, just like the old days down at Redwood.

That's another good thing about the Marines: Even the coaches can practice what they preach.

Fastest Card In The West

IT'S NO wonder Mickey Thompson of Southern Cal holds so many auto speed records. Last week I received his annual Christmas card — first of the season and more than a month ahead of schedule.

As Master Mick's Christmissive noted: "Racing to be first to wish you a wonderful holiday season." Even the ZIP code was correct.

ALSO GETTING an early jump is my old pal Tom Rooney of Kenwood in Sonoma County, the managing director and originator of the San Francisco National Sports and Boat Show. Next Tuesday Tom — certainly you remember his famous boxing kangaroo — will hold a party in San Francisco to tell plans for the 29th annual Sports and Boat Show which is scheduled Jan. 8-17 at the old Moo Mansion or Gurnsey Gym, if you please. I'm just not in the moo'd to call it the Cow Palace anymore. (Oh, cud it out, Shamus!)

PRIDE AND POISE FOR THE COWBOYS

HIGH SCHOOL SOCCER

The Unheralded Sport

By DAVID EINSTEIN

In order to play soccer in the Marin County Athletic League, you have to be willing to undergo certain rigid tests of faith. First, you have to play only between the end of football season and the start of basketball, which makes your season about half as long as for either of those major sports.

Since it will undoubtedly be raining all season long, you'll have to play the majority of your games on fields that could pass for swamps. And you'll play dressed in a short sleeved shirt and shorts. The temperature at game time will be between 50 and 60 degrees.

Obviously, soccer players, at least in Marin, are a dedicated lot. They enjoy almost no publicity, and play to bus-stop sized crowds.

The lack of spectators is understandable. Few people know the rules, and almost everyone agrees that the most popular sport in the world outside the U.S. cannot compete in favor with the violence and sophistication of American sports.

Yet against all the odds, soccer is growing in this country, and in Marin. Four years ago aTmalpais High School in Mill Valley fielded the county's first team, and began encouraging other schools to take up soccer.

Last year, with five of eight schools competing, the MCAL officially embraced the sport. This year all schools have teams, and soccer is here to stay.

"The reason soccer came to Marin was student demand," says Bill Monti, coach of the San Rafael Bulldogs. "Because there was so much soccer in physical education, the students began to demand it on a higher level. It was a natural evolution."

As interest in the sport grows, there is a move underway to move the season back into the fall, and into direct competition with football. The advantages of playing in the early months of the school year are many. Not only would it mean a drier season, it would mean a longer one — a double round robin as opposed to the round and a half season. Under the current arrangement, four teams from the North-San Marin, Novato, Terra Linda and San Rafael, play each other twice and each team from the South once. The South consisting of Drake, Tam, Redwood and Marin Catholic, follows the same theme.

More importantly, an earlier season would give students an alternative to football, as participants — "We have some great soccer players who are 110 to 130 pounds," says Monti. "In many cases they are not successful in football. They can't compete with the big man." And as spectators — "There's more interest coming. I think the change in season will contribute to that. Wet weather discourages fans."

So far school administrations have done their best to discourage the sport. They made it a between-season orphan because they maintained there was a conflict of use of fields with the football program. But almost all the schools have facilities apart from their football fields that can be adapted to soccer. So that's a pointless issue.

And last summer the Novato school district temporarily got rid of soccer as a political pressure move to gain public support for a tax hike. That didn't help.

All this is unfortunate by itself, but far more so since Marin has some excellent players and teams (not to mention a World Cup referee, Henry Landauer of San Rafael, who has

NORM SNEAD IS HERO OF THE DAY

Eagles Snap Giant Victory Streak At Six

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—If Norm Snead can't remember, who can?

The Philadelphia quarterback, who has absorbed the jibes of Franklin Field fans these many years, found himself the hero of the hour Monday night when he scored two touchdowns, passed for another and wrecked the New York Giants six-game winning streak by leading the Eagles to a 23-20 victory.

He couldn't remember when, if ever, he scored two touchdowns in one game, but he put that vital statistic in the secondary category when he said, "we haven't lost in three weeks."

BALL CONTROL

The scoring was one thing, but his great exhibition of ball control gave Philadelphia the victory after his fourth period touchdown put the club in front.

Those 9:24 minutes without the ball buried the Giants, and an illegal player downfield on a 10-yard pass which carried to the Eagles 42 nullified the gain and set the Giants back to their own 35.

'AIN'T NO PLAY'

As Giant quarterback Fran Tarkenton said, "There just ain't no play when you're 70 yards from home with two seconds left."

Coach Jerry Williams, voted the game ball by the Eagles, said this was the best he saw Snead in the two years Williams has been here. No one else, including Snead, of course, could remember a better show. He has had some other fine games—and lost.

Williams, in a salute to Snead, also paid justifiable tribute to rookie Billy Walik from Villanova who had two long punt returns to set up a field goal and the winning touchdown, and to the stout eagles defense which limited the Giants' Ron Johnson to 35 yards in 16 carries.

"Walik's returns (57 and 45 yards) were major factors, and our containing Johnson," Williams said. "We concentrated on the strong side where he runs most of his plays. It was a great job by the defense."

ONE-YARDER

Snead scored his first touchdown on a one-yard sneak over center in the first quarter after the Eagles recovered a fumble on the Giants' two-yard line on a bad pass from center. New York led 3-0 at the time on Pete Gogolak's first period 29-yard field goal.

But New York went ahead 10-6 after recovering an Eagles fumble on the 13, with Johnson scoring from the two, and Gogolak's second field goal made it 13-6 with 36 seconds left in the first half.

Walik's return of 57 yards on the kickoff set up a Mark Moseley field goal to cut the Giants lead to 13-9 at halftime.

The Eagles came back on a 64-yard drive with Snead passing one yard to Fred Hill for the touchdown and the Giants promptly got back the lead with a Tarkenton-led drive and his one-yard sneak for the score.

THE WINNER

The Eagles put together the winning touchdown scored by Snead after Walik returned the kickoff 45 yards to the Giants 46. Snead tossed a 31-yard pass to Ben Hawkins and Pinder lunged for two gains. Snead went over center from the one for the big score and after that, his ball control nailed it down.

There's Not Much Time For Raiders

OAKLAND (UPI) —A turn in the whirlpool, a rub down and some liniment are about all the time the Oakland Raiders have to prepare for their next encounter.

The Raiders, fresh from another George Blanda producton victory over San Diego Sunday, travel to Detroit to meet the Lions on Thanksgiving Day.

"There's not a lot of time," said coach John Madden of the division-leading Raiders Monday. "We stayed up to about 1 a.m. this morning, studying films for Detroit.

"The basic problem in getting ready for a game on Thursday is a lack of time and preparation. You have to condense things.

FISH AND GAME

Pheasant Hunters Having Things Tough

By AL GIDDINGS

Pheasant hunting? The boys from the Woodacre Fire Dept. all returned completely beat Sunday afternoon after a two day hunt in the valley for pheasant. Ten of them went, returning with seven birds. They said it was tough going — few birds and ploughed fields. Norm and Tony Quadros of Tamalpais Valley got shooting at just one bird in the Vacaville area. If you hunted and got more than two birds for the weekend, you did better than the average. All of the hunters checked seemed to average about one third.

The duck hunters had it pretty rough too. Dick Clarke and Jim De La Montanya even had trouble taking birds skulling. They took just three birds and I heard they were Butterballs, working Tomales Bay. Things must have been tough!

I talked to some of the hunters in the Santa Venetia — San Pablo area. A few cans (canvasbacks) were taken, but generally thing were pretty slow.

DOWN AT LOCH LOMOND

Down at Loch Lomond, I checked 47 fishermen with 16 stripers. Most of the fish were between 12 and 18 pounds with some smaller, and one tipping the scales at 25 pounds. Generally bullheads were the best baits, using the sliding sinker method. The area fished was between the pumphouse and the S.P. buoy in the channel area. Three trollers took eight smaller fish using spreader leaders with a buckeye and a pet spoon at the Richmond Bridge area.

The anglers out of Buck's Landing seemed to average about the same, fishing the same pumphouse areas. I did not check any sturgeon. Some boats fishing out of Sausalito, Saturday took fish from the Red Rock area using live bait and drifting. The fish were smaller than those taken by the bullhead anglers, but the action and average was better. Ten fish for the twelve anglers checked.

Joe Mello, of Santa Venetia tookan eight-pound steelhead from the Austin Creek area above Brown's Pool on the Russian River this past week. Joe was all fired up because four king salmon were taken in the same area that day.

PAPERMILL NEEDS RAIN

Papermill has been reported slow all this week. This little creek located near Pt. Reyes Station can be exceptionally good at times, but I think a rain is badly needed here. Don Ameral, one of the rangers from Tomales Bay State Park, says he has tried trolling several times this week in Tomales Bay off Millerton Pt., but he hasn't even seen a fish roll! If the silvers are in the area, they usually advertise their presence with lots of jumping and rolling especially during the tide changes.

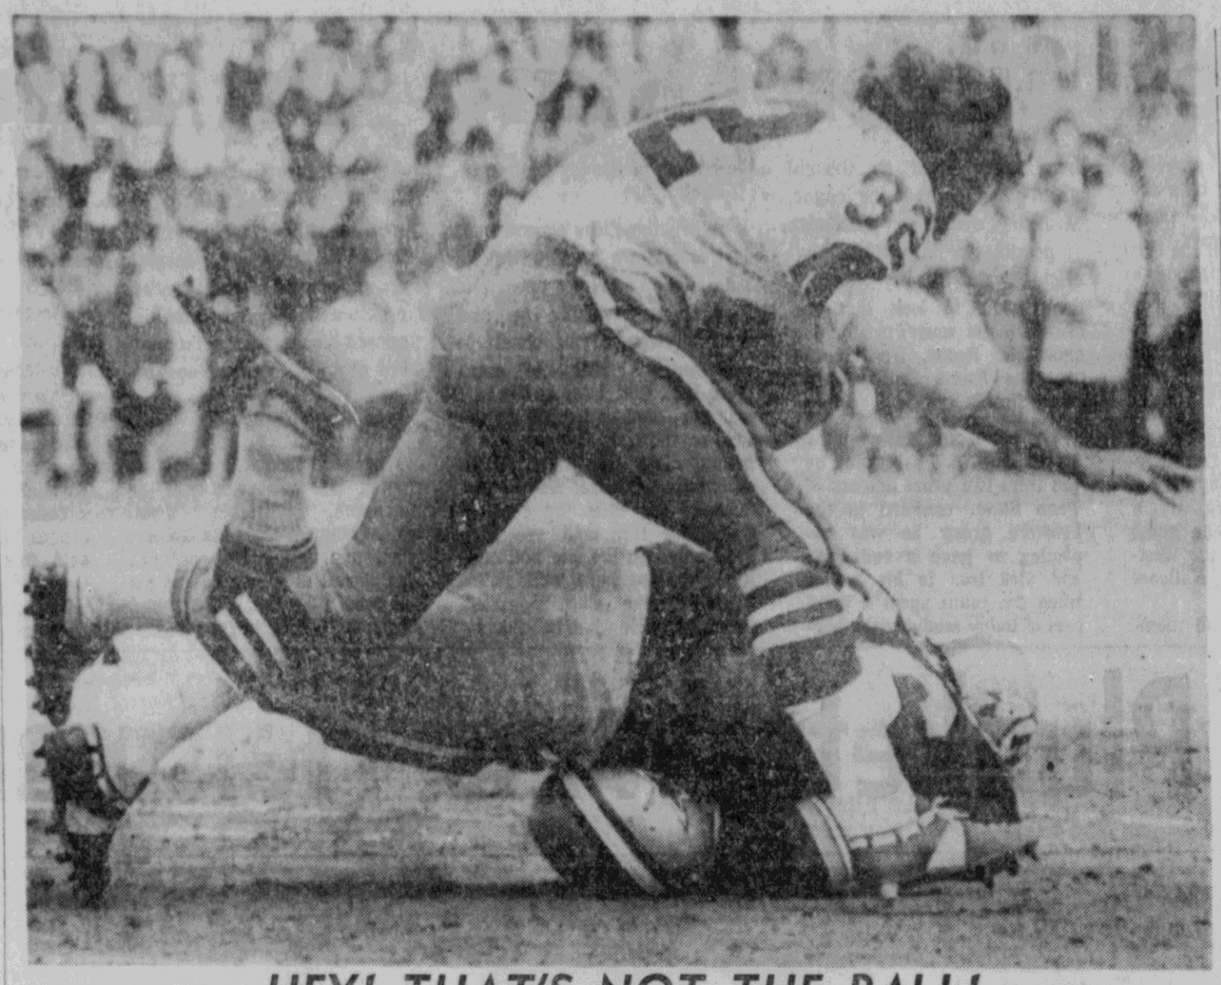
The tides all through this week are excellent moving tides. High in the morning with those five foot runouts. This should be an excellent fishing week for bass in San Pablo; and both salmon and bass in Tomales, though fishing Tomales at the low and incoming is most productive. So its San Pablo in the mornings and Tomales in the afternoons and evenings, for best results.

NEW STATION WAGON

A few columns ago I mentioned I was in the market for a four-wheel drive station wagon. Lou Robinette, who used to be one of Novato's finest and now sells cars there for Schuman Chevrolet, called me almost before the print was dry. He said he had what I wanted. So Mary and I went up to take a look. You know what we drove home?

Yep, a new Chevy Suburban, four-wheel drive, carpeted floors and a $600 air-conditioning unit. The whole deal cost more than the first house and lot I bought in Marin County 20 years ago.

In this column, I'll keep you posted on how it runs, and it better be good! It's strictly a fish and games car.



HEY! THAT'S NOT THE BALL!

Washington's Marlin McKeever (on ground) may think he's recovering a fumble but that's just a helmet, and not a ball. Dallas back Walt Garrison lost the headpiece in a rushing play during their Sunday National Football League game in Washington. Garrison lost his helmet and Dallas won the game, 45-21.

A Setback For Plans Of Merger

The truce between the two leagues was broken last Friday when NBA Commissioner Walter Kennedy, irritated that the ABA's Carolina team had signed Joe Caldwell away from the NBA's Atlanta team, said the NBA no longer wants a merger with the ABA.

However, ABA Commissioner Jack Dolph warned on Monday that Kennedy's statement was "ill advised and unnecessary."

Dolph added, "The ABA has offered to sit down with the NBA to resolve the common problems of the two leagues and we expect sensible men on both sides can and will ultimately agree. If they don't, we can go our mutually destructive ways until the survivors come to their senses."

He blamed the "misunderstandings" between the leagues on a "breakdown in communications."

The two leagues informally agreed to a merger earlier this year but the NBA Players Association filed a court suit to block it. A merger between the two leagues would need congressional approval, which pro football received four years ago when the NFL and AFL merged.

"The ABA reiterates its desire to discuss all pertinent subjects with the NBA at the earliest possible time so that the two leagues can proceed to seek enabling legislation from Congress," Dolph said.

'FOR MR. AVERAGE'

Clay Wants 90-Mile TV Blackout Lifted For Bout

MIAMI BEACH (UPI)—Cassius Clay wants the 90-mile television blackout lifted for his Dec. 7 fight with Oscar Bonavena so that "Mr. Average" who can't afford admission to Madison Square Garden still can see the bout.

"All of these people are waiting to see me fight," Clay told newsmen Monday. "This fight's going to be the greatest fight in the history of the world."

CLOSED CIRCUIT

Clay, flanked by manager Angelo Dundee, trainer Drew (Bundini) Brown, and his father, Cassius Clay Sr., said he wants the fight broadcast over closed circuit television and shown in New York theaters. Asked if he would refuse to fight if the usual blackout on closed circuit theater telecasts is not rescinded for the Bonavena bout, Clay replied, "I'm seriously thinking about it, I'm considering it."

He said the cheapest seats, $10 each, are already sold out and that most low-income New Yorkers will miss the fight unless it is shown in theaters for $3 to $4 per seat.

"The Bonavena fight's going to be a complete sellout, the $10 seats are already gone and they're the cheapest," said Clay. A victory in his bout with the Argentinian would undoubtedly set up a heavyweight title fight with champion Joe Frazier early next year.

The former champion, looking trim at about 213 pounds, called the news conference at his 5th St. gym training headquarters. He plans to leave for New York Sunday to finish training there.

"You know what I'm naming this fight, and the Frazier fight, too?" Clay asked. "I'm calling them the 'for Mr. Average' fights—the average fellow, the truck driver's helper, the guys who push carts in New York, the blacks and the Puerto Ricans, the just plain little guys who have 12 kids and don't have $10 to go to the Garden and see the fight—and there aren't any $10 seats left anyways."

Clay said about 1,500 persons had stopped him on New York streets during a recent visit, urging him to resist the blackout because they could not afford admission to the Garden. He said that if there is a legally binding reason for the 90-mile ban on television, "they're going to really have to show me that.

LETTERS

"We're getting letters and phone calls—my manager Angelo Dundee and trainer Brew Brown and me—from all over, from kids and old ladies, from the people who can't afford $10," said Clay. "They're asking us to help them see the fight in theaters where they live—in Harlem and Spanish Harlem and the Bronx."

Clay said the poor could afford admission if the fight is telecast "in the Manhattan Center, and in all the theaters available in New York."

"Man, when I was in New York not long ago, people were stopping me on the street and asking me to do something so they could see the fight—I mean little people, cart pushers and wineheads, guys on dope, all kinds of people who want to see me fight," said Clay.

Small Colleges In Shrine Game

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Grambling College and Tennessee A&I, two small college powerhouses, will be represented for the first time in the annual Shrine East-West football game, Jan. 2

Willie Armstrong, a 6-3, 235-pound fullback, will represent Grambling and Tennessee A&I's choice will be Vernon Holland, a 275-pound tackle.

Two Teams Undefeated In Soccer

San Rafael and Terra Linda high schools both remained undefeated yesterday as the Marin County Athletic League soccer season began its second week. The Bulldogs downed Redwood, 6-1, and Terra Linda shutout Drake, 2-0.

Bill Mejia continued as the hottest scorer in the league with three goals for San Rafael. He thus pulled off his second hat trick in two games, having scored all the goals in a 3-0 win over San Marin last Friday.

Terra Linda and San Rafael each have three wins.

High Scoring Start In Prep Water Polo

The defences didn't exactly dominate yesterday as the 1970 Marin County Athletic League water polo season got underway. Redwood routed Drake, 31-10, Terra Linda beat Tamalpais, 19-4 and San Rafael defeated Novato, 17-10.

High scorer for the day was Pat Ellington of Terra Linda with nine goals. Sean O'Connell of San Rafael and Doug Brockbank of Redwood led their teams to victory with eight and seven scores respectively.

Just about the only outstanding player on defense was Terra Linda's Burt Johansson, who gave by far the best performance among the league's goalies; he held Tam to four goals and blocked a pair of penalty shots.

Haywood-Rockets Feud Stalemated

DENVER (UPI) — The Fight between the Denver Rockets and Most Valuable Player Spencer Haywood is at a standstill.

Rockets' president Don Ringsby said Monday the American Basketball Association team will not trade Haywood "under any circumstances and have turned down a million dollar cash offer to do so." Ringsby also said that his attorneys are confident Haywood's current six-year contract is valid.

Meanwhile in Los Angeles, the suspended star center said that he would not play ball for the Rockets under the team's existing management. Haywood told a news conference earlier that he never had a firm guarantee of a new, $1.9 million contract from the Rockets as the club claimed in giving its version of the dispute.

Football

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI) — All-America middle guard Jim Stillwagon, anchor of the tough Ohio State defense, Monday night was voted the outstanding player on the Buckeyes' 1970 Big Ten championship football team.

Sillwagon, a senior from Mt. Vernon, Ohio, was an easy winner in the balloting by his teammates.

CHICAGO (UPI) — The Chicago Bears, who thought Sunday they'd found their quarterback of the future, were back in a quandary Tuesday.

Sunday's discovery, Bobby Douglass, the sturdy blond from Kansas, suffered a broken left wrist, on his throwing arm, in pitching four touchdown passes in the Bears' victory over the Buffalo Bills, and will sit out the rest of the season. Douglass threw three of his touchdown passes after the injury.

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (UPI) — Penn State's football team rejected a bid to the Liberty Bowl Monday, ending the efforts of promoters to match the Nittany Lions with the loser of the Texas-Arkansas game.

Coach Joe Paterno said the players, who turned down a bid to the Peach Bowl Saturday, were not interested in a post-season game.

Tennis

STOCKHOLM (UPI) — Determined Cliff Richey of San Angelo, Tex., Monday night overcame a strong challenge by the Spanish pro veteran Andres Gimeno in the first round of the $35,200 Stockholm Open indoor tennis championships.

Richey downed his opponent 23-21, 6-1 after a three and a half hour battle.

Bowling

DETROIT (UPI) — Dave Soutar, of Gilroy, Calif., staged a comeback victory Monday to successfully defend his championship in the $50,000 American Airlines Open bowling tournament.

Soutar took 14 of his 16 match games to come in first, despite losing the final game of the 40-game, three-day tournament. He held a lopsided 247-159 margin over runnerup Dave Davis, of Miami.

Auto Racing

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — Dodge driver Bobby Isaac finished the 1970 season with a 51-point margin over Bobby Allison in the NASCAR Grand National driver's championship race, the closest point spread in the history of the division.

Baseball

NEW YORK (UPI) — Cleon Jones, who slumped to .277 last year after batting .340 during the New York Mets' miracle pennant drive two seasons ago, Monday signed his 1971 contract estimated at $55,000.

Jones, who became the first Met regular to come to terms with General Manager Bob Scheffing, received the same amount as he did in 1969.

Golf

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Professional Golfers Association announced plans today for a four-tournament Caribbean tour and added three more satellite events to its 1971 schedule.

The tour includes two events in Venezuela, and one each in Colombia and Panama.

Skiing

NEW YORK (UPI) — A total of nine competitions for 1970-71, including six in the United States and three in Europe, was announced Monday by the International Ski Racers Association.

The first competition will be held in Buffalo, N.Y., Jan. 2-3. Bear Valley, Calif., will host the races March 5, 6 and 7.

JIM MURRAY

The Bravest Athlete Who Ever Lived

I think, if Chuck Champlin and Joyce Haber will forgive me, I'd like to turn movie critic today.

James Earl Jones was magnificent in the leading role and it's only half a pun to say the leading lady was pale by comparison.

Jones was "Jack Jefferson" in the screenplay but that's to preserve the fiction that it was fiction since all the characters (save one or two) portrayed in this film were non-fictional and every resemblance to persons living or dead was purely intentional.

A LITTLE JEALOUS

I am a little jealously possessive about Jack Johnson, whom I have studied for years. I was a little afraid Hollywood would turn him into Gary Cooper or a "guess Who's-Coming-To-Dinner-With-Boxing-Gloves?" type of thing.

James Jones' Johnson comes out a kind of sensitive, tormented, anxiety-ridden kind of man in places. Except that he had to knock people down, it would have been a good part for Montgomery Clift or Tab Hunter.

I always thought Jack Johnson was the bravest athlete who ever lived. To fight Jim Jeffries, the idol of the West, in the Nevada mountains in 1910 before an audience of most of the registered racist roughnecks of the Wild West, most of them armed, many of them drunk, and then to thrash and jeer at the white champion and all the while be married to a white woman amounts to a gesture of breathtaking defiance. For that day and age, "effrontery" would not begin to describe it.

IGNORED JIM CROW

Johnson didn't flout Jim Crow. He just ignored it. He married two other white women. The first one committed suicide, the second one was carted home by her mother — but about nine years after the honeymoon. The third was with him 'til his death in 1946. There was also a dalliance with an Irish girl named, infelicitously, "Hattie McLay." Her FATHER paid Johnson's (and her) way around the world when he went to Australia to win the championship.

ALL CLASS

Johnson's life style would draw gasps of admiration from Diamond Jim Brady. He travelled everywhere in his own railroad car. He made friends instantly. When he fought Jeffries, the governor of Nevada, no less, became a fan, even bet on Johnson and assigned five burly rangers to guard him.

Johnson stayed at the best hotels. He was in more auto accidents than a career bank robber. When he was sentenced to prison (unjustly) on the Mann Act, he blithely skipped the country and had a helluva time in Europe. When the champagne ran out, he came back and gave himself up with a grin at Tijuana and served eight months of a year's sentence, most of it dining on possum, chicken and fine wine.

FAR FROM ILLITERATE

He was far from illiterate (he had trouble with tenses because he learned language in the streets not from a blackboard and "Here I is!" is one of the great lines of the play). He was an incurable romantic (he set out for New York from Galveston at the age of 12 to hunt up Steve Brodie the bridge-jumper and young Jack's idol from the penny dreadfuls he read in the pool hall).

The movie is faithful to the man — except for a few annoying instances of "prolepsisms" (fastening today's argot and vocabulary on people of 60 years ago — I don't think "grabber" was in coinage and "mother" was not an adjective).

Also, a scene showing an FBI man or its equivalent using the majesty of the U.S. government to fix a prize fight is a little below the belt since even Johnson himself always said the promoter, Jack Curley, was the only guy who even hinted he might get charges squashed (they weren't) if Johnson agreed to turn over his title. And Curley spent most of his career fixing wrestling matches.

Johnson also is pictured as reluctant to either a) throw or b) even sign for the fight. The truth, in Johnson's own autobiography, is, he would have even mailed the title to somebody for cash.

RECKLESS TENDENCY

There is a reckless tendency to draw parallels between Cassius Clay and Jack Johnson, a trend Clay happily joins.

The similarities are a bit more than superficial — but not much. There are imporant differences. Like:

1. The public (or segments of it) in 1910 panicked and felt threatened when this black man became heavy-weight champion of the world. The public today is long used to the presence of black champions. Seven of the last eight heavyweight champions have been and almost every division has one.

2. Clay was cut of business for three years for refusing to accept induction. Johnson was out of the country nine years. Without going into the merits of Clay's contention he was a minister, Johnson was convicted on a law that was meant to stamp out white slavery, not weekend trysts between bosses and secretaries or other consenting adults.

3. Johnson moved easily among all people white and black without rancor and wrote "I have found no better way of avoiding racial prejudice than to act in my relations . . . as if prejudice did not exist." Clay is an avowed separatist. He proposes to fight prejudice with prejudice. He pours wind on troubled waters. What's that you say? Johnson was an Uncle Tom? Jack Johnson!' The Great Integrator? Bite your tongue!

Clay is brave. But Johnson showed 60 years ago that the brave have nothing to fear in the home of the brave. The coward is not safe anywhere.

New Charges Of Racism By 4 Huskies

SEATTLE (UPI) — The University of Washington football team, just finished with a successful 6-4 season, was rocked with new charges of racism and the resignations of four black football players Monday.

"I'm surprised; it's really weird," said Sonny Sixkiller, sensational Indian sophomore quarterback.

Mark Wheeler, Ira Hammond, Cal Jones and Charlie Evans presented a statement in which they said they have ended their careers as Huskies. They said the statement was endorsed by all blacks on this year's team including graduating seniors.

In part the statement charged:

"The racial practices of the University of Washington coaching staff have forced us to the point where we can no longer tolerae the playing conditions imposed upon us. We . . . have decided to terminate our football careers at the University of Washington.

"We, along with the other black football players at the University of Washington, will not encourage the recruitment of black football players in the future."

Jones, San Francisco, was a sophomore defensive back and played virtually every minute of every game and was a standout. Hammon, of Portland, Ore., started several games at split end and tight end Evans, of Chicago, was red-shirted.

Reaction from teammates and others ranged from shock to anger.

"I just don't believe it," said Larry Worley, sophomore defensive back. "Especially Calvin (Jones). He and Ira are great athletes. I don't think they were right in their judgment that things have not changed."

Mark Hannah, defensive stalwart who graduated in 1969 when the Huskies finished with a dismal 1-9 mark, upheld head coach Jim Owens.

"I just think the whole thing is ridiculous," he said. "They are just trying to hurt Jim Owens. But they are only hurting themselves.

"Cal Jones, especially. He is a real All-America candidate. Owens was out to win ball games and not please players."

donated his services to the league).

One of the reasons for Marin's success is the presence of an inordinately large number of foreign students who have played soccer all their lives. For, as Monti explains, "Soccer is a game you must play from early childhood. It requires a foot dexterity not unique among Americans."

Among the best in the league are San Marin's Urbano Boucsiequez, Redwood's Sharior Sarabi, and two players from Monti's club. Sean Serag-Eldin and Bill Mejia make the Bulldogs one of the favorites to win the championship. Mejia, from Guatamala, scored all three goals in a 3-0 win over San Marin last week.

BOWLING TIPS

By DON CARTER

As you begin your fourth step (in the recommended four-step delivery), the ball should also begin its forward journey. When these motions take place simultaneously, you will be in good rhythm. The most common error is beginning this step before starting the ball down, which usually causes a drop behind the foul line.

A PERSONAL REPORT

By JOHN G. WARNER

GAINESVILLE, Ga. (UPI)— The car comes only to your waist, bright yellow glistening in the misty rain, crouched like a tense waiting animal in the pit lane.

Blue-shirted mechanics let the Chevron's rear deck fall with a plastic thud over the engine and the fat deep-grooved rain tires.

Tools rattle in a steel box, someone yells for a roll of silver tape and laughter drifts up from another pit. Otherwise Road Atlanta is silent—waiting, like the Chevron.

There is no more waiting.

10-YEAR LOVE AFFAIR

For 10 years I have conducted a love affair with the fast cars, compounded equally of fear and admiration. To me there is no man-made object so lethally beautiful as a pure racing car, no sound so chilling as its baleful howl.

I have watched the world's great sports cars at Sebring and Daytona and finally, on the truly beautiful and difficult Road Atlanta course, I rode in one.

The Chevron bursts into life with an incredible bellow. Wrapped in an almost palpable wall of sound, you are utterly alone. The driver beside you, swathed in his flameproof suit and his helmet, is no longer human. He is part of the machine, lost in the hypnotic concentration that keeps him alive.

Carefully, vibrating tautly, the car trundles down the pit road like a jet to its runway. A pause, a wrenching slam of acceleration in your back and you are on the pit straight.

Reality is lost in shivering thunder, the driver's face blank and blurred in the trembling mirror. The world is a homemade movie in a berserk projector, too unreal to fear but instinctively your body stiffens.

You're into the first turn before you realize it still accelerating another blasting slam the angry roar pitching higher screaming into a climb toward turn two—a blind turn.

Climbing accelerating G-forces sliding you up the seat feet off the firewall we are not driving too fast we are flying too low the car will sail over the brow of the hill into the fallred treetops faraway. Turning right but the road goes straight bending hard no lean no lurch this is impossible jammed against the door still turning cresting the hill thank god the road turns with us.

Drained. Turn three slips past with a wrench downhill accelerating warning lights shrouded in drab plastic aluminum barriers green pines flash past up again and downhill there are the esses. Three weaving bends flickflick-flick using all the road yellow warning bumps on the verge like streaking suns. Halfway through the last one going wide sudden monumental acceleration sliding up the seat gearshifts whap and whap down a short undulating straight.

Braking hard sliding back down feet to firewall into a wide turn around a grassy cut through this and instantly hard right 98 degrees through on the inside running wide to the outside.

Now the straight. Accelerations whap-roar-whap-howl-whap-shriek pinned to the seat the engine running up the scale to a scream of agony. Jinking to the right down stomachsucking sickening steep and back up.

Shutting down now hurtling toward a concrete bridge abutment braking turning hard-right under the bridge blind again swooping plummeting eaglelike down and down sweeping right and onto the pit straight turn one coming up again.

That is a lap of Road Atlanta at speed, a surrealistic two-and-a-half mile roller coaster ride without rails.

I turned five laps, two in the Chevron with Bob Beatty, a quiet, curly-haired bank manager from Miami, and three in a Shelby GT350 with Charlie Kemp, a Jackson, Miss., stockbroker, two of the finest drivers in the South.

They are here for the American Road Race of Champions Saturday and Sunday, pitting 462 of the nation's best drivers for the Sports Car Club of America's national championships.

THE MOST EUROPEAN

Road Atlanta, which opened in the summer with the first southern stop on the Canadian-American Challenge Cup tour, has been called the most European of all United States road courses.

It is a demanding course to drive, with few good spots to pass in addition to the blind turns, but a beautiful, well-run track for spectators. There are no grandstands. Gently sloping hillsides serve instead, and in places heavy forest, with broad panoramas of the North Georgia mountains in the distance, serves as a backdrop for screaking cars.

Dartmouth Captures The Lambert Trophy

NEW YORK (UPI) —Dartmouth College struck a blow for the Ivy League Monday by being unanimously named winner of the 1970 Lambert Trophy as the "outstanding Eastern major college football team during the season."

Dartmouth was unbeaten and untied in nine games to gain the unanimous approval of the eight-man selection committee. Penn State, which finished with a 7-3 record, was runnerup with 72 points compared to 80 for Dartmouth. Following the leaders were Boston College (7-2) with 63 points, Syracuse (6-4) with 51, West Virginia (7-3) with 48, Villanova (7-2) with 33, Yale (7-2) with 25, Temple (7-2) with 24 and Cornell (6-3) with six.

Dartmouth Coach Bob Blackman said, "I'm extremely pleased for the college and the Ivy League."

Dartmouth, which also won the trophy in 1965 with a perfect record, is only the sixth Ivy League team to gain the honor in the 35-year existence of the award.

The Indians led the nation in defense against scoring, shutting out six opponents, including the last four, and giving up only six touchdowns all season.

Barry Brink of Mill Valley is a star defensive tackle for Dartmouth and will be playing in the Jan. 2 Shrine game in Oakland.

Cooper Wants To Win Big Tonight

OAKLAND (UPI) —George Cooper wants to win big so he can move to bigger things in the middleweight class and Jimmy Lester needs a victory just to redeem himself.

Those are the ingredients that go into tonight's 10-round fight at the Oakland Auditorium.

"If I get over Lester big, maybe somebody will give me the same chance that Nate Collins got, a shot at Emile Griffith," Cooper, the state middleweight titleholder, said Monday.

For Lester, he is at a crossroads. He has lost three straight—to Collins, Art Hernandez and Rafael Gutierrez—and another defeat could send him into retirement.

A NEW EXPERIENCE FOR HEALTH'S SAKE

Laird Silent About More Liberation Raids In North

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird declined today to indicate whether additional commando raids are being considered in an effort to liberate American prisoners in North Vietnam.

Laird, after testifying at a closed meeting of the Senate Armed Services Committee, told newsmen that U.S. military authorities know the location of other Communist POW camps but added they are located "in areas where it is difficult to make (helicopter) landings."

The first American liberation attempt was disclosed by Laird Monday. He reported that while the raid just outside Hanoi was successfully executed, no American prisoners were found at the site.

Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., chairman of the Armed Services committee, said the effort demonstrated U.S. ability to conduct such forays. Stennis did not rule out further raids.

"I don't rule them out in my mind but that's another matter for the determination of the secretary and the President," he commented. "We really didn't go into it much."

The White House pointedly warned North Vietnam against any retaliations against American prisoners in their hands.

Acrimonious debate flared anew today in the Senate over President Nixon's latest Vietnam war tactics—both the raid 20 miles west of Hanoi and bombing forays against the north last weekend.

Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield questioned the reliability of U.S. intelligence in

Ky Says Talks At Paris Are Senseless

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky., of South Vietnam said today the Paris peace talks were a waste of time because of Communist insincerity, but that Saigon would continue to attend.

Ky, describing himself as a dove, said that while the United States and South Vietnam "have made many, many concessions at the peace talks, the Communists are more intransigent."

Ky told members of the National Press club "the Communists are not sincere in the peace talks."

—Ky—a strong backer of the U.S. "win the war" movement —said the Communists had hoped to use the Paris peace

A Setback To Curbing Inflation

WASHINGTON (UPI)— President Nixon's hopes of curbing inflation took a heavy blow today when the government reported living costs jumped by six-tenths of 1 per cent in October.

The increase—due mainly to higher prices for cars, clothing, gasoline and consumer services —was the highest since April and put consumer prices 5.9 per cent higher than a year ago.

The October jump compared with a 0.4 increase in September and 0.2 per cent in August, cited by administration officials at that time as a sign that Nixon's anti-inflation policies were working.

On a seasonally adjusted basis, the consumer price rise in October was 0.5 per cent, the same as in September but larger than the 0.3 per cent increase in August.

The higher consumer prices combined with a drop in weekly earnings of rank and file production workers to drop their real earning power 0.8 per cent below the September level and 2.0 per cent under a year ago.

Gross weekly earnings dropped 33 cents to $121.03 because of a 0.1-hour reduction in the average work week. Real spendable earnings—takehome pay expressed in 1957-59 dollars to reflect consumer price changes—averaged 64 cents lower for a worker with three dependents, falling to $77.04.

The Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics said

Witness At Calley Trial Tells Of Viet Civilian Shot In Ditch

FT. BENNING, Ga. (UPI)—A U.S. Army aviator testified in the Calley murder court-martial today that he saw an American non-commissioned officer fire a rifle shot into the body of a Vietnamese civilian in a ditch during an infantry assault on the village of My Lai.

Lt. William L. Calley Jr., 27, leader of a platoon in that company-strength sweep on March 16, 1968, is charged with the premeditated murder of 102 civilians there.

The witness, Dan Richard Millians, 23, of Fort Worth, Tex., was the 20th witness in the sixth day of testimony in the trial. None has connected Calley with any shooting at My Lai.

Millians also testified that he fired at what appeared to be a Viet Cong with a weapon as he piloted his helicopter on reconnaissance over the village. Another helicopter fired at "a couple of young males" on a highway south of the village, Millians recalled.

Millians said one of the features that "stands out in my mind" in the village terrain "was a north-south drainage ditch southeast of the village with 50 to 75 bodies in it. The bodies appeared to be non-combatants," he said.

The government charges Cal-

Turn-Of-Century Plan For Transit Revealed

Would Link Marin To San Francisco

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

Rapid transit linking Marin and San Francisco would cost at least $495 million just for a system of buses running on an exclusive right-of-way from Novato to downtown Market Street.

Rail rapid transit would cost up to $987 million.

These price tags were unveiled today by Golden Gate Bridge District consultants in a $690,000 plan for transit through the year 2015.

Paying for rapid transit, they said, even with the federal government kicking in two-thirds of the capital, would require a bond issue up to $277 million to be approved by the voters in the six-county district.

The property tax take to finance the bonds would go up from 2 to 5 per cent, depending on the system selected, the consultants told district directors as they presented the results of their 10-month study.

Kaiser Engineers of Oakland did the engineering and economic work on the plan, and its impact on the environment was analyzed by Okamoto-Liskamm of San Francisco. Their report today was distilled from a mass of material they compiled, but copies of this material will not be available until next month.

The consultants detailed five possible systems of rapid transit, with varying combinations of an underwater tube between Sausalito and Aquatic Park, a second deck on the bridge for transit and a new bridge to carry rail rapid transit from San Rafael to Richmond. All five generally depend on using existing railroad rights-of-way within Marin.

None goes farther north than Novato, on the ground that patronage north into Sonoma County will be too low during the 45-year planning period to justify anything more elaborate than a system of feeder buses to the Novato terminal.

The length of the planning period was determined by the assumptions that 1975 was the earliest year in which bonds could be sold, and that 40 years was the normal bond repayment period for such mammoth projects.

The district has scheduled 20 public hearings on the five choices, after which the directors will select one, or a combination of elements from several of them, for submission to the Legislature by the end of March.

The plan was ordered by the 1969 Legislature when it empowered the district to get into all forms of transit. The 1969 law did not require that the plan be approved by the 1971 Legislature, but the implied threat was that the district would be dissolved unless its plan met with general favor among the state legislators.

Gifford Randall, who headed the work by Kaiser Engineers, said that the cost estimates

Payroll Records Of Thurber Introduced

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — The defense for Frank J. Thurber, on trial for the murder of Independent-Journal employee Allan W. Daly, introduced payroll records today to show that Thurber had worked later than the prosecution contends on the night Daly was fatally wounded.

The payroll records of the San Francisco Newspaper Printing Co., employer of the accused Mailers Union member, had been filled in by someone else to show Thurber working until 5:15 p.m.

The records conflicted with testimony by a 17-year-old San Bruno youth, who has confessed his part in the fatal shooting of Daly and been sentenced to the California Youth Authority. The youth, Richard A. Wamsley, has testified that he and another 17-year-old youth, who actually pulled the trigger, met Thurber about 4 p.m. that night at the latter's home, where the attack on Daly was planned.

The payroll records, subpoenaed by defense attorney Nathan Cohn, were explained to the jury of eight women and four men by Lee Lynch of Mill Valley, accountant in charge of payroll with the Newspaper Printing Co.

Three other employees of the Newspaper Printing Co. testified today that they worked July 4, but none could say that he remembered Thurber being at work that day.

Under cross examination by Asst. Dist Atty. Pierre F. V. Merle, Lynch said the times in-

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Gold Situation Spurs Interest

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I am interested in investing in a gold stock and can afford considerable risk. Can you suggest a stock? — C. G.

A. The spurt in London gold prices to $39.19 an ounce in late October has focused speculative attention on the group once again. Although the price of gold has now receded from that level, the advance is, according to industry analysts, the most solidly based rise in the last five years.

Supply/demand conditions and the increase in the U.S. balance-of-payments deficit are thought to be major factors behind the strength in the precious metal. Reflecting this, most Canadian and South African gold shares are trading close to yearly highs.

A less expensive way of speculating in the group is through Webb Resources, an oil and gas exploration firm with a 19 per cent stake in America's third-largest gold mine — Cortez. In addition, leasehold interests are held in over one million acres in the Rocky Mountains. Now selling at 22x fiscal 1970 earnings, shares have speculative potential.

Q. On a friend's recommendation, we purchased Revlon at 65 as a hedge against inflation. Was this wise? — J. S.

A. Yes. You have chosen an excellent investment area, for the makers and suppliers of toiletries and cosmetics have thus far proved to be virtually recession-resistant. Revlon is an attractive holding in this field.

Company sales, for the initial half of 1970, rose 19.6 per cent year-to-year. Results include Mitchum Co., acquired in April, 1970. Although margins were under some pressure from less profitable acquisitions and rising costs, net income managed to show a healthy 16.8 per cent gain. Share profits totaled $1.22, up from 1969's $1.08.

Now a leading producer of cosmetics, Revlon is determined to become a major factor in the ethical drug area. Already, drug operations are expanding at an annual rate of about 20 per cent — twice that of their cosmetics line. Selling at approximately 26x projected 1970 earnings of $2.50 a share, stock should continue to be a sound inflation hedge.

$88 Million Deal

HONOLULU (UPI) — Dillingham Corp. has obtained $88 million in new construction contracts in recent weeks for work in Hawaii, California, Canada and Australia. The jobs range from power stations to timber mills, wharves and office buildings.

OTHER PEOPLE'S BUSINESS

By HARRY CRAFT

Foreign Auto Parts Firm, Economy Imports, To Open

Expected to open Dec. 1 at 509-B Francisco Boulevard, San Rafael is a new firm — Economy Imports of Marin.

This will be a wholesale and retail business in parts, accessories and tools for foreign automobiles. Owner Robert Palmer of Los Gatos, who has been operating three Economy Imports stores in Santa Clara County for the past six years, is moving to San Anselmo and will take charge here.

Economy Imports has been appointed distributor for Koni shock absorbers in Marin County and will also be a distributor for original Bosch and Lucas parts. Hours will be from 8:30 a.m. to 6 p.m. Mondays through Fridays and probably from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Saturdays.

A NEW USED CAR LOT under the name of Holiday Cars is being opened at the southwest corner of Fourth and Irwin Streets, San Rafael. This spot was formerly occupied by a Phillips 66 service station.

Owner Kent Taylor of Bel Marin Keys is confining his sales to imported cars of all makes. He was previously with Leon C. Felton, San Rafael Volkswagen distributor, and before that several years with the Nelson Buick-Opel agency in San Francisco.

He is getting his cars in now and expects to be fairly well stocked by the first of the month.

EXPANSION IS UNDER WAY for Isi-Wisnes, Inc., 623 Irwin Street, San Rafael, distributor for International automobiles and trucks.

The company has acquired the adjacent 4,000-square foot building behind it which faces on both Lincoln Avenue and Duffy Place through Herman Deitch, realtor. This is now being remodeled to provide added and improved service facilities for its sales and also its leasing business of all makes of automotive vehicles.

AUTOMOTIVE DEALERS in this area are being alerted by the Better Business Bureau of San Francisco to the receipt by dealers in some other states of unordered C.O.D. express packages from General Motv., Detroit, Mich., which are erroneously assumed to be from General Motors Corp. (Actual name of the company is General Motivation Co.) The C.O.D. charge is approximately $11.20.

The packages contain two small bearings and a letter from one C. L. Leaderbrand that if the recipient will constantly carry the bearings he will be reminded of the company's services. The return address in Detroit has been found to be that of an answering service.

The Better Business Bureau requests that it be notified immediately upon receipt of such unordered packages here.

ROBERT E. SAUNDERS of Novato is celebrating his 25th anniversary with Bank of America this month. He has served at various Northern California branches, becoming manager at Truckee in 1952 and assistant vice president in the credit department in 1962. He is now statewide head of the credit department. His brother Edward is manager of the Bank's Larkspur branch.

YIPPIE FACES THE ISSUE

Among the persons who demonstrated yesterday in Tacoma, Wash., in support of the "Seattle Eight" was this Yippie girl who painted an American flag on her face. Other demonstrators carried signs supporting the Seattle Eight defendants, who are on trial for conspiracy to incite a violent demonstration at the U.S. courthouse in Seattle last Feb. 17.

GOP Wins Stiff Battle For Veto

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate has upheld a presidential veto for the first time since 1965, in a victory for President Nixon that killed a proposed limit on political broadcast campaign spending.

Democrats fell four votes short of the needed two-thirds majority Monday as the move to override Nixon's veto lost 58 to 34. But there remained a possibility the Democrats might try to revive the proposal in another form before adjournment this year.

Assistant Senate Democratic Leader Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., said he suggested to Sen. John O. Pastore, D-R.I, floor manager of the bill, that the measure be attached as a rider to other legislation. Pastore was considering the move.

"The clear majority indicates it would have the support," Kennedy said. "That's one opportunity that exists."

Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott conceded the administration and Senate Republicans worked hard to kill the bill. He said the effort was even greater than the one to confirm the nominations of two Supreme Court nominees who were rejected.

As it turned out, the victory margin was larger than Scott anticipated. Nine Republicans broke ranks but their defections were offset by six Democrats, all but one from the South, who voted with Nixon.

The bill would have limited television and radio spending in general elections to seven cents per vote or $20,000 whichever was higher. Half that much could have been spent on primaries.

Presidential and vice presidential candidates would have been covered only in general elections. Candidates for Senate, House, governor and lieutenant governor would have been covered in the general elections and primaries.

Democratic National Chairman Lawrence O'Brien called the Senate's decision "a severe blow to reform of the incredibly expensive and exclusive campaign process in this country." But Vincent T. Wasilewski, president of the National Association of Broadcasters, applauded the vote and promised his organization's support for meaningful legislation in the future.

Fiery Debate Over Relief In Pakistan

DACCA (UPI)—Heated debates over whether the government was doing enough for survivors of a massive cyclone-tidal wave disaster overshadowed relief flights today by helicopters and cargo planes to remote areas of East Pakisan.

One militant leftist leader, Maulana Bashani, in a speech to 50,000 cheering Pakistanis lashed out at the government and called for the resignation of President Yahya Khan.

"Bengalis (East Pakistanis) should remember this until doomsday," he shouted to a crowd at the Dacca Sports Stadium. "President Yahya might be a good soldier but he is a total failure as an administrator."

Vice Adm. S. M. Ahsan, governor of East Pakistan, answered the charges by saying the President and the armed forces had done all that was possible in the wake of the tragedy which threatens to become history's greatest natural calamity.

The governor said the official death toll so far was more than 150,000 but "I emphasize that is not the final figure."

Israel In Second Thoughts To Talks

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Israeli officials said today new Egyptian violations of the cease-fire agreement were giving Israel second thoughts about resuming Middle East peace talks but the government hoped to make its decision within three weeks on whether to join the talks.

Israel said Monday there had been Egyptian reconnaissance flights over Israeli-held territory Sunday and Monday in violation of the agreement. Egypt denied the charges.

Israeli newspapers said today mounting concern that the new cease-fire may break down and American pressure on Israel to return to the conference table have speeded up Prime Minister Golda Meir's deliberations on the matter.

The semiofficial Cairo newspaper Al Ahram reported today that United Nations mediator Gunnar V. Jarring also had sent an appeal to Israeli Foreign Minister Abba Eban urging him to resume the talks.

Defense Minister Moshe Dayan, reported in a behind-the-scenes battle with Eban and deputy Prime Minister Yigal Allon over Israel's terms for resuming talks, called on his government Monday night to make a "supreme effort" to get the talks started before mounting tensions cause the cease-fire to collapse.

'67 Missile Takeover Plan Comes To Light

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Greek troops surrounded two U.S. nuclear missile sites in Greece at the time of the 1967 military coup in that country, and could have captured them, it has been learned.

Unofficial but reliable sources said Monday the colonels who overthrew the Greek government ordered troops loyal to the coup quietly to surround the sites using a NATO contingency plan — called "Operation Prometheus" — originally drawn up to protect the missiles against Communist subversion.

The apparent reason for the Greek move, however, was not protection but to deter he United States from opposing the military coup, the sources said.

The small band of American troops assigned to the missile site could not have prevented a takeover. However, the U.S. Embassy in Athens learned of the plan, eliminating the element of surprise for the Greek troops and raising the likelihood the sites could not be seized without a fight.

The coup was successful, and the Greek troops were removed from the missile sites without incident.

Elias P. Demetracopoulos, who was a newspaper editor in Greece at the time of the reported incident, confirmed that "extremely reliable reports" reached the U.S. Embassy that led military officials to believe the sites "could probably be overwhelmed by Greek troops without firing a shot if they moved fast enough."

Demetracopoulos, now a Greek exile leader living in Washington, said his information indicated their fears were "completely justified."

Long-Haired Cockney Squires Anne To Film

LONDON (UPI)—Squired by the long-haired Cockney son of a dockworker and a cleaning woman, Princess Anne went to the movies Monday night in the tough East End.

"She's just the same as any other bird (girl)—she's human, ain't she?" said her date, Sam Shepherd, 19. He quaffed two beers and a rum and coke in the nearby Pearly Queen pub before meeting his royal companion.

"Nah, of course I'm not nervous. What's a princess?"

Anne smiled. Her lady-in-waiting didn't.

"Thank you very much for coming," Sam said.

"Oh, you're welcome. Thank you for asking me," Anne replied.

They they took their 96-cent seats in the front row of the balcony to watch "Bronco Bullfrog."

Sam, an out-of-work furrier's assistant who is collecting unemployment, stars in the film about a bunch of young toughs in the East End.

Sam led a demonstration when the shoestring-budget movie he and friends scripted and filmed was dropped from a posh West End movie house to make way for the royal premier of Sir Laurence Olivier's film of Chekhov's "Three Sisters."

Anne attended that premier. Sam later wrote her a letter inviting her to see "Bronco Bullfrog" at his neighborhood theater. Anne accepted.

Economist For U.S. Sales Tax

DETROIT (UPI)—Economist Eliot Janeway said Monday the nation needs a 3-per-cent federal sales tax to help halt inflation.

"Our busted government needs a major new source of tax revenue," Janeway said during an address to the Economic Club of Detroit, "and there's only one source—out at the retail level."

Janeway said a 3-per-cent federal sales tax would raise $20 million annually. He said the money could be used to eliminate the need for federal borrowing, which he blamed for feeding inflation.

Buildings Dating To First Century Found

ROME (UPI)—Remains of a Roman street with buildings dating from the First to the Third Century after Christ have been discovered under an old convent off the central Via Del Tritone, city officials said today.

The street was found when contractors were digging to build an underground garage. Excavators have uncovered the remains of houses, shops and taverns, including marble columns, wall decorations and mosaics.

Cory Swings To Moretti

Cory, of Garden Grove, sent letters to 42 other Assembly Democrats Monday urging them also to support Moretti.

"The arithmetic of the situation is that the combined Cory votes and Moretti votes add up to the kind of clear majority which the next speaker will need," said Cory.

Moretti, of Van Nuys, predicted he would be victorious over the other four Democratic contenders when the caucus meets for a vote Wednesday.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Resignation Rumors

Cunningham's resignation, revealed in an unusual Sunday announcement by the exchange, had been rumored for some days. Although it followed the turmoil over the exchange president's speech advocating negotiated commission rates and other reforms, Haack said Cunningham actually submitted his resignation the day before the speech.

Spy In The Kitchen

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Soviet newspaper Izvestia stirred up a somewhat sticky metaphorical attack against the "Khrushchev Memoirs" today, claiming it was a propaganda dish cooked up in the kitchens of the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency (CIA).

The government newspaper described the memoirs as "another CIA fraud." The article also quoted former Premier Nikita Khrushchev as saying the memoirs were a "fraud."

"No matter how hard the cooks in foreign kitchens of ideological subversive activities and falsifications try to prepare such a memoir dish which would be credulously taken by the Western consumer without much thinking, their products, as a rule, give rise to great doubts even among those who themselves specialize on anti-Soviet concoctions," it said.

Third Invasion Try

ABIDJAN, Ivory Coast (UPI) —Guinea's "voice of the revolution" radio at Conakry said toray "Portuguese fascists and their mercenaries" tried a third invasion during the night but were "successfully beaten back."

The attempted landing on Guinean shores to try to overthrow President Ahmed Sekou Toure was the third in three successive nights reported by the radio of the left-leaning West African nations.

Portugal has denied naving anything to do with the coup attempt.

SALT Talks

HELSINKI (UPI)—The United States and Soviet Union today began the fourth week of the resumed Strategic Arms Limitation Talks (SALT) with no agreement in sight but hopeful their twice weekly meetings would lead to nearing of attitudes.

Conference sources said the two delegations, led by Gerard C. Smith for the United States and Vladimir S. Semenov for the Soviet Union, were prepared to continue the current third SALT round well into December and towards Christmas.

Chicago 7 Denial

CHICAGO (UPI—A deputy U.S. marshal has denied charges he told the jury deliberating the "Chicago Seven" case that the presiding judge could "keep you here as long as he wants" or otherwise pressured them to reach a verdict.

The testimony contradicted that given by several members of the jury.

The marshal, Ronald Dobroski, appeared Monday at a hearing to determine whether outside communication prompted the jury to reach a compromise verdict after it had deadlocked, as the defense has charged.

Dobroski told the hearing he took two notes from the jury to U.S. District Court Judge Julius J. Hoffman. Each time, he said, the judge told him to tell the jury to "continue deliberating."

FAA Testimony

OKLAHOMA CITY (UPI)—A Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) official testified Monday he advised Golden Eagle Aviation Co. not to associate its name with large aircraft—such as the Martin 404 that crashed in the Colorado Rockies Oct. 2, killing 31 persons—because Golden Eagle was not licensed to operate such aircraft.

Melvin R. Hanson, chief of the Oklahoma City regional office of the FAA, testified on the third day of a National Transportation Safety Board hearing on Golden Eagle's request for reinstatement of its air taxi license. The license was suspended following the Martin 404 crash, in which Wichita State University football players, coaches, and boosters were killed.

$220,000 Robbery Of Armored Car

MIAMI (UPI)—Two men posing as airline employees robbed a Wells Fargo armored truck of $220,000 today and fled through busy Miami International Airport carrying two suitcases filled with money.

The Dade County Sheriff's Office said the two armed men were wearing white coveralls, similar to those worn by airport workers, and took the money from two Wells Fargo guards.

Officers said the bandits stuffed bags of cash into the suitcases and dashed through the airline terminal, shedding the coveralls as they fled. No shots were fired.

Postman Bitten During Robbery

DAGENHAM, England (UPI) —A bandit bit a postman Monday during the robbery of a mail truck.

Police said the postman was bitten on the hands by one of four bandits who pounced on him as he unloaded registered mail from the truck.

The robbers fled with $26,000 worth of mail, police said.

Window Washer Falls 21 Stories

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — One end of a scaffold broke away from its cable Monday and a window-washer plunged 21 floors to his death while another managed to swing to an apartment building terrace.

The victim in the accident at 1200 California St. was Arnold Littlewolf, 31.

Orville Brown, 51, the survivor, told police they were riding the scaffold towards the top of the 28-story building when a motor winch at Littlewolf's side began to whir. Seconds later that end of the scaffold gave way.

Brown clutched the motor winch at his end and then managed to reach a balcony.

Import Of Whale Products Is Hit

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Interior Department has placed eight species of whales on the endangered species list, thereby banning the import of whale products into the United States.

Such whale products are used largely for cat food and as an oil base for numerous products such as soap, margerine, beauty cream and transmission fluids. Interior Secretary Walter J. Hickel said:

"I take this action because I feel it necessary to influence the whaling nations to review their outlook, rebuild whale breeding stocks and institute effective international control to save this priceless resource."

Police Arrest Man Wanted In Murder

A 24-year-old man, whom San Francisco police had traced to San Anselmo, was arrested yesterday at the San Anselmo Hotel on suspicion of murder.

San Anselmo police said four of their men and four from the San Rafael department converged on the hotel at about 5:30 p.m., arresting Jack Lee Bower, of no known address, when he answered an officers knock.

Bower, wanted on suspicion of killing a Vacaville man in San Francisco Friday, had been described as armed and extremely dangerous. He gave up yesterday without a struggle, police said.

A companion, Vickie Lynne Hamilton, 18, of no known address, also was arrested and later released by San Francisco police who said she was not involved in the crime.

According to San Anselmo police, about 20 knives were found in Bower's room but a pistol he allegedly had been carrying was not found.

San Francisco police said Bower was hunted since 2:30 p.m. Friday, following the shooting death of Steven Penrod at 585 Geary Street. Officers said Bowers and Penrod had been involved in an argument over money prior to the shooting.

Police later traced Bower to the El Camino Motel in San Rafael but when they searched the motel yesterday at 1:30 p.m. they discovered Bowers had already checked out. A tip led police to the San Anselmo Hotel.

Bowers, who police said has a "long rap sheet," was booked into Marin County Jail and later transferred to San Francisco. He is being held without bail and will appear tomorrow or Friday in San Francisco Municipal Court.

Applicants For Manager Down To Two

The Corte Madera Town Council, meeting in closed session, last night trimmed to two the list of prospective town managers.

Councilman Robert P. Simmons said today one of the two will be offered the job today and should he decline, the position will be offered to the second m mmons said the council interviewed four finalists at last night's meeting. A fifth man considered a finalist withdrew his application last week to accept another position.

Simmons said all the men considered were from Northern California.

Deadline for acceptance of the position is Friday, he said, but the council expects an answer in the "next couple days."

The position has been vacant since September when former town Mgr. Ronald L. Usher quit to take a similar job in Alaska.

Simmons said the town will pay the next manager between $19,000 and $20,000 per year. Usher was making about $21,500 when he left.

Chain Collision Snarls Traffic

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—A chain-reaction freeway accident involving perhaps as many as 40 cars snarled commuter traffic for about 90 minutes early today.

The Highway Patrol said thick fog on the Long Beach Freeway was the probable cause of the series of accidents.

One ambulance was called to the scene but it was not known how many persons were injured.

The patrol said at least 20 and possibily 40 cars were involved.

Dense fog also hampered traffic in other areas.

Car Loses Wheel, Flips, Injures Four

Four persons were injured yesterday at 2:40 p.m. when their car, westbound on Shoreline Highway two miles east of Muir Beach, lost a wheel, skidded into an embankment and overturned.

Three other persons received minor injuries in separate accidents and said they would see their own doctor, according to the California Highway Patrol.

In the first accident, Alan F. Peterson, 25, of Oakland, the driver of the car, was listed in serious condition today at Marin General Hospital with a fractured pelvis and internal injuries.

Three passengers were treated at the hospital for scrapes and bruises. The highway patrol identified them as Arthur Mattison, 22, and Shelley Mattison, 20, of Gate 6, and Phil Condon, 25, of Oakland.

A 15-year-old Terra Linda girl, Dawn Harrington, of 1012 Las Gamos Road, Apt. C, was to see her own doctor for a complaint of pain suffered when the car in which she was riding struck a parked car in front of 711 Los Colindas Road, Terra Linda.

Driver of the car, Tere L. Cey, 16, of 155 Nova Albion Way, Apt. 12, San Rafael, told officers she swerved to avoid a cat.

Peggy A. Williams, 31, of 141 Drake Avenue, Marin City, was to see her own doctor for minor injuries suffered when her car collided with one driven by Audre Hastings, 46, of San Francisco, officers reported.

The accident occurred in the northbound lanes of Highway 101 in San Rafael at 8:50 a.m., the patrol said.

Also to see her own doctor for minor injuries was Roseann Claverie, 19, of Benecia. Officers said she was a passenger in a car driven by her husband, Ronald J., 21, which collided with an auto driven by Joseph Mariani, 53, of 38 Sandalwood Court, San Rafael, at 4:45 p.m. on Highway 101 in San Rafael.

Bombing Follows Balaguer's Visit

SAN JUAN (UPI)—A bomb wrecked the Dominican Republic consulate Monday night shortly after Dominican President Joaquin Balaguer wound up a brief visit to Puerto Rico.

The explosion blasted out windows and left the inside of the four-room consulate a shambles. A nearby travel agency office was slightly damaged. There were no injuries.

Vice Consul Joaquin M. Arias said he closed the consulate at 1 p.m., an hour earlier than usual and nearly 10 hours before the blast. He said there was no one inside at the time of the explosion.

Two Named To Marin-Sonoma Sewer Planners

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — The Sonoma County Board of Supervisors yesterday named two representatives to the Marin-Sonoma subregional sewer plan study group.

Donald B. Head, public works department director, will represent the county and Talbert W. Bean, former Sonoma Mayor, was appointed for the Sonoma Valley Sanitation District.

The men will join with Petaluma City Engineer David A. Young and engineers from San Rafael, Novato, Hamilton Air Force Base and Las Gallinas Valley Sanitation District in preparing a subregional plan for waste disposal.

The subregional study was required by the regional water quality control board as part of the long range Bay Delta plan for sewage disposal.

dicated on the payroll records were filled in by another member of the Mailer's Union at the company and that Thurber could have signed the payroll sheet at any time July 4 and not necessarily when he allegedly left for the day at 5:15 p.m.

Thurber is a member of the Mailer's Union, an affiliate of the typographical union which has been on strike against the I-J since Jan. 7.

Thurber, 45, testified yesterday that he worked until 5:05 p.m. July 4, the day Daly was shot, and arrived at his San Bruno home by bus at about 6:45 or 6:50 p.m.

Daly, who died 12 days later, was attacked, according to Wamsley, by himself and Larry G. Rutherford on the instructions of Thurber.

Also testifying yesterday was Thurber's daughter, Patricia Ledbetter, who attacked other prosecution testimony.

Cohn placed Thurber and Mrs. Ledbetter on the stand yesterday to attack testimony by prosecution witnesses linking Thurber to Wamsley and Rutherford and the shooting of Daly.

He twice charged Merle with "complete misconduct," but Judge Moore overruled Cohn's objections.

The testimony of the slender, blonde Mrs. Ledbetter centered on the whereabouts of her brother, Michael Thurber, now 17, the night of the shooting.

The 21-year-old divorcee remained calm as Merle sought to find flaws in her story. She told the court that at about 6 p.m. July 4 she picked up her brother at their father's San Bruno home. They drove to Pacific, she said, where she and her 3-year-old son shared an apartment with another woman.

Wamsley testified last week that it was Michael Thurber who drove him, Rutherford and the elder Thurber to and from Daly's home the evening of July 4.

Mrs. Ledbetter said yesterday that when she and Michael arrived in Pacifica, he went to visit some friends and returned to her apartment between 7:30 and 8 p.m. and stayed until about 9 p.m. He then went back to his friend's apartment, telling Mrs. Ledbetter that another friend would drive him back to San Bruno.

By the time Michael returned to Mrs. Ledbetter's apartment, she testified the woman with whom she shared the apartment had left for her job as a cocktail waitress and thus did not see Michael in Pacifica that night.

Nor, apparently, did anyone else, Mrs. Ledbetter said.

She said she telephoned the friend Michael allegedly visited, a girl she knew only as Gail, and that Gail replied that she, herself, hadn't been home the evening of July 4, but that her roommate, Valerie, had been.

The roommate, whom Mrs. Ledbetter knew only as Valerie, was not at home when she talked to Gail, Mrs. Ledbetter testified, and she had not been able to reach her.

Under questioning by Merle, and over the objection of Cohn, Mrs. Ledbetter said she had lived for four or five months in 1968 with Wayne Cavelli in Pacifica.

Cavelli, now serving time at Soledad Prison for a forgery conviction, testified Thursday that in May Thurber offered him $300 and paid $100 of it in advance to beat up Daly.

During Merle's cross-examination, Mrs. Ledbetter said she did not know a Steve Russell, although she said she understood he was a friend of Michael Thurber. She denied asking Russell for .45 caliber shells or that he gave them to her.

Daly was killed with a .45-caliber pistol, which Wamsley testified had been given by the elder Thurber to Rutherford the night Daly was fatally wounded.

Rutherford, who used the gun that killed Daly, testified before the San Francisco Grand Jury, according to a transcript introduced in court by the prosecution, that Thurber had given him the murder weapon.

Rutherford, however, has refused in the course of Thurber's trial to answer any questions linking the 45-year-old member of the Mailers Union with the crime.

In earlier testimony earlier, Thurber also denied knowing Steve Russell.

Cohn's examination of Thurber was interrupted several times by Merle's charges of Cohn "leading the witness." Judge Moor, more often than not, agreed with Merle.

Thurber testified that his Oldsmobile which Wamsley said was the vehicle used to drive to and from the Daly home the night of the attack was in poor condition. He said the top speed of the car was 25 miles per hour and that it overheated if driven more than seven or eight blocks. It was only used, he said, to drive to a supermarket several blocks from his home.

The license plates on the car, he told the jury, were never changed.

Lupe Mercado, a deaf mute who lives, as did Wamsley, at the home of Wamsley's girl friend's mother across the street from Thurber, had testified Friday that he saw Michael Thurber switch the plates on Thurber's car July 3.

Thurber said yesterday that Michael had put bolts on the license plates to replace wire that had been holding them to the car.

The defendant also said he had called his union chapel chairman, Bob Ryan, at the San Francisco Newspaper Printing Co. one night in the presence of Wamsley.

Wamsley was at the Thurber home visiting Michael, Thurber said, when he telephoned Ryan to say he had a sore throat and would not be at work the next day.

Wamsley testified last week that after he and another San Bruno youth, Walter Peterson, had firebombed Daly's home June 15 and 16 at Thurber's request, Thurber telephoned a man, whom Wamsley identified only as Bob, and asked Bob to have the firebombings checked out.

Wamsley had further testified that following the shooting, Thurber did not pay him and Rutherford the $300 they had been promised. "He had to talk to the boss, Bob," Wamsley said.

Under corss-examination by Merle yesterday, Thurber said he didn't remember if he called Bob Ryan June 15 or 16, but it would not have been unusual if he had since "we were good friends," he said.

Ryan's position as chairman, Thurber said, is similar to a union shop steward.

Thurber said he had called Ryan, both at work and at home, often because he was trying to get a dog from Ryan to give to his two younger sons who live with Thurber's divorced wife in South San Francisco.

Merle named five specific times and dates, including 11 a.m., June 16, and asked Thurber if he had called Ryan at those times. Thurber said he didn't know, that he had no specific reason to remember any of them.

Mrs. Ledbetter admitted during Merle's cross-examination that following the arrest of her father July 6, she had gone to talk with Ryan.

Thurber denied, under Merle's cross-examination, telling a prisoners at San Francisco County Jail that "Rick Wamsley would never meet his 21st birthday" or that if he didn't get Wamsley, he'd get his girl.

During further questioning by Cohn, Thurber said he smoked Camel cigarettes. A clerk at a liquor store a block-and-a-half away from Daly's home testified last Wednesday that Thurber bought beer and two packs of Pall Malls at the store the night of the fatal shooting.

Patrolman Tells Of Being Jumped

I-J Special Report

FAIRFIELD — A California Highway Patrol officer testified today he was jumped by one demonstrator, then jabbed in the face with a picket sign by another during the Valentine's Day violence outside the Independent-Journal.

Officer John Campion identified Joe Earl Reese, one of seven defendants on trial here in Solano County Superior Court, as the man who wielded the picket sign.

Reese, 32, of Hayward is charged with assaulting Officer Campion and other counts growing out of a demonstration called in support of San Francisco Typographical Union 21's strike against the I-J.

Campion, the 14th prosecution witness in the five-week-old trial, said he was jabbed in the nose and mouth by Reese after being knocked to the ground on Julia Street during a confrontation between pickets and police.

Reese, one of two deaf mutes on trial, sat impassively with a hand to his chin as Campion pointed out his assailant.

Campion said Reese ran after striking him, but that he caught the demonstrator after a short chase.

The officer said he was part of an arrest team ordered to Julia Street the afternoon of Feb. 14. The team, he said, was confronted by a crowd of chanting demonstrators which refused to disperse after several arrest warnings.

Yesterday, three prosecution witnesses — Inspector Gerald Green of the San Rafael police and officers Allan Barnes and George Gallegos of the California Highway Patrol — said they confiscated a lead-filled hose, a high-powered slingshot and 14 steel nuts from Nimmes H. Shelton, 41, of San Francisco, after they stopped him at B and Julia streets to tell him to leave the scene.

Shelton is another of the seven on trial. The objects taken from him were introduced into evidence.

Pot Case Rejected By Juvenile Court

It was reported yesterday in Marin Municipal Court that the case of Neil George Cuzner, 18, of Novato, was not acceptable to Marin Juvenile Court because he is now living as an adult.

A preliminary hearing was set in municipal court for Dec. 8 for the youth, who is charged with possessing marijuana on Oct. 30.

11-Year-Old Bike Rider Hurt In Crash

An 11-year-old Belvedere boy was listed in good condition today with a compound fracture of his right leg suffered yesterday when he was involved in a car-bicycle accident on Lagoon Road in Belvedere.

Police said Harvey Posert III, of 48 Lagoon Road, was riding his bicycle near the intersection of Maybridge Road at 4:21 p.m. when he collided with a car driven by Wallace E. Scott, 80, of 23 Teal Road, Belvedere.

Truck Drivers Claim Deliveries Thwarted

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Two truck drivers testified yesterday they didn't make furniture and meat deliveries in San Rafael because their vehicles were stopped by men claiming to be Teamsters out to "shut the town down."

The drivers, both members of the Teamsters Union, took the stand at the start of the fifth week of a contempt of court case involving several unions accused of harassing Independent-Journal advertisers.

The National Labor Relations Board has accused Teamster, Longshoremen and Typographer union locals of criminal and civil contempt for blocking deliveries to San Rafael stores during mid-October. The NLRB charges the actions violated a federal court order issued earlier in the lengthy labor dispute.

Members of San Francisco Typographical Union 21 have been on strike at the paper since January 7.

NLRB attorney Milo Price called the drivers and the manager of a furniture store to testify before U.S. District Judge William T. Sweigert. So far, 34 witnesses and 173 pieces of evidence have been introduced by the prosecution.

Ernest Zito of South San Francisco, a driver for Lachmann Brothers Furniture, said he was sotpped by three men as he drove into San Rafael and was told "85 and 70 are not unloading in this town." He said he refused to deliver the furniture at the firm's San Rafael store. Teamsters Local 70 and 85 are two of the defendants.

George T. Lawrence of Larkspur, manager of the store, testified he went out and talked to three men parked near Lachmann Brothers' outlet. He said one of them told him no deliveries would be allowed at the store as long as the firm advertised in the I-J.

Sam Cohn of San Francisco, a driver for Rath Packing Co., said he was stopped by two men while trying to deliver meat to United Market in San Rafael. He said one man told him they were from Local 85 and that the union would cite him if he delivered the meat to the market or to the store manager outside of town.

Judge Sweigert denied defense motions to strike as hearsay all the testimony involving the unions, but said it would be admitted only as evidence to show what was said by the men blocking the deliveries and not to indicate the truth or falsity of their statements.

The case is expected to continue for several more days.

No Wood To Carve

Items Are Taken From Pool Table

San Rafael police reported today that a jacket, ring, neckerchief and wallet were taken about 8 p.m. Thursday from a pool table in the Funny Farm bar, 813 Fourth Street.

The property belonging to Clark E. Jacobson of 6 Farvue Street, Novato, was valued at $252, police said.

No Charges Filed In Burglary Probe

No charge was filed yesterday in Marin Municipal Court against three Richmond men arrested Friday on suspicion of attempting to burglarize a storage room at the Edgewater Inn in Corte Madera.

Released were Joe D. Lowe, 37; Elishes Cavness, 24, and Robert B. Hassell, 33.

Costs Vary On Survey Of Attitudes

Cost estimates for an attitude survey ranging from $2,100 to $2,800 were presented last night to the Personnel Commission of the Marin County Schools Office.

Towers, Perin, Forester and Crosby and Touche, Roth and Co., both of San Francisco, each estimated the cost of the survey of 140 employees at $2,800, according to Byron Mauzy, assistant superintendent of county schools.

Low estimate was $2,100 by Stever Co. of San Francisco, but that estimate was $600 over the amount budgeted for the study, which is "just to giev all the classified employees a chance to express their opinions" about working conditions.

Since the county school board must approve the additional funds, the commission set a special meeting to polish a proposal to be presented Dec. 2 to the board, Mauzy said.

The group is also planning to ask the board to extend the survey to teachers and to ask for a full-time rather than a half-time personnel director, Mauzy said.

Burglars Rob Cotati Firm

A rear door was pried open to gain entry. The amount of coins taken from the machine owned by the Santa Rosa Cigarette Co. was undetermined.

Public Hearings Soon On Rapid Transit Plan

were based on completion of a transit system by 1980, and assumed an average inflation of 8 per cent a year.

The impact of inflation was clear in the $495 million estimate for bus rapid transit. The bridge district's engineers last year figured the cost then at $313 million.

The consultants, by the terms of their contracts, did not recommend which set of solutions they favored, but they did provide a benefit-cost ratio that strongly favored bus rapid transit over a "fixed guideway transit." The latter, unless there were a marked new development in exotic hardware, translates into rail transit. Benefit in the ratio (the higher the ratio number, the better) was determined by economic development that would result, and by time saved by riders.

The five choices, their total capital cost and benefit-cost ratios were:

ALTERNATIVE 1 — Fixed guideway by subway under Geary and Post to Park Presidio, and north under the Presidio to a transit lower transit deck on the bridge. At the north end of the bridge, it goes underground again, emerging at Marinship to follow the railroad right-of-way to Novato. Cost: $987 million. Ratio: 1.05.

ALTERNATIVE 2 — Fixed guideway by subway under Kearny and Columbus to Aquatic Park, where it enters an underwater tube to Sausalito Point. From the point, the line proceeds north, first in subway, then at grade to Marinship where it joins the alignment of alternative 1 to Novato. Cost: $932 million. Ratio: 1.12.

ALTERNATIVE 3 — Bus rapid transit by subway under Kearny and Columbus, then west under Beach Street, Fort Mason and Marina Boulevard to the Presidio, where it surfaces onto a lower transit deck on the bridge. At the north end of the bridge, it uses an aerial structure up the middle of Highway 101 and a third Waldo tunnel. At the foot of the Waldo Grade, it joins the railroad right-of-way to Novato, with addition of some new tunnels and aerial structures. Cost: $495 million. Ratio: 1.42.

ALTERNATIVE 4 — Fixed guideway following the same alignment from Market Street to Mill Valley as in alternative 2. But between Mill Valley and the Civic Center, the line swings west generally along the old railroad right-of-way through Corte Madera, Larkspur, Kentfield, Ross and San Anselmo. North of San Anselmo, it enters a tunnel to the Civic Center area, then goes north to Novato. Cost: $944 million. Ratio: .86.

ALTERNATIVE 5 — Bus rapid transit from San Rafael to San Francisco, as in alternative 3, but the Bay Area Rapid Transit District line would be extended from Richmond across the bay to Point San Quentin by a new bridge. From San Rafael, the BART line would go north to Novato. Cost: $944 million. Ratio: .72.

Alternative 4 and a variation of alternative 2 assumed addition of a second deck to the bridge for vehicular traffic and expansion of Highway 101 to four lanes in each direction The other alternatives assumed that any second deck would be reserved for transit.

San Francisco adamantly opposes a second deck for vehicular traffic, objecting it would create pressure for another freeway in San Francisco.

The number of stations in the five alternatives varied from 12 to 18, and the lengths of the trunk lines varied from 27 to 30 miles, except for alternative 5, which was 41 miles.

Travel times from San Rafael to downtown San Francisco ranged from 25 to 35 minutes, with one-way fares at $1.20, including 25 cents for a feeder bus connection to the trunk line.

Total weekday patronage forecasts by the year 2015 ranged from 300,700 with alternative 1 to 205,100 with alternative 5.

The federal share of funding ranged from $610 million to $658 million, except for $330 million for alternative 3, the bus rapid transit system. The bridge district's own share in all five was figured at $52 million the maximum amount it can finance from current tolls.

If tolls were doubled — and the consultants did not suggest this— the district's share would go to $102 million.

At current tolls, however, and assuming federal sharing, the balance to be financed from bonds or other sources ranged from $253 million to $277 million, except for bus rapid transit, which left a balance of $113 million to be financed.

The summary of the consultants' reports also detailed annual net operating surpluses, cumulative net operating surpluses, annual debt service charges, travel times and fares from major stations, peak period passenger loads and a host of other infomration.

The consultants warned that without a transit system, the Golden Gate corridor faced an inevitable "automobile stranglehold." The bridge, they said, already was "just about as crowded as it can get."

They praised the district for instituting reversible lanes, a one-way toll system and a joint bus-ferry system, but concluded nevertheless that "it is obvious that population and traffic growth will outpace even the most imaginative part-way measures."

Okamoto-Liskamm, in its analysis of the impact of the various choices, cautioned that all but alternative 4, which looped into the Ross Valley, would create new pressure for development in open space along the bay shoreline and would bypass most present commercial centers.

Alterantive 4, however, would bypass San Rafael and create strong pressures for higher densities and residential and station areas in the Ross Valley.

Alternative 4, however, would enthusiastic support from Okamoto-Liskamm, would relieve Southern Marin in development pressure, focusing this pressure north of San Rafael. Growth in Northern Marin, however, would be slowest with this alternative, the consultants said.

Sonoma County, under alternative 5, would see an improved residential potential and be more attractive to industry, Okamoto-Liskamm said.

Finally, the consultants reported, they had tested — and rejected — the alternative of sticking with the conventional bus and ferry system now being planned for the immediate future. They predicted that this would lead to a "Los Angelesation" of the region, with development and parking facilities sprawling into open spaces. "In short, an expanding kingdom of the automobile with all that implies," they warned.

The public hearings on the plan will open on Dec. 3 in Ukiah, with the first in Marin set for Dec. 10 in San Rafael. A detailed schedule of the 11 hearings to be held in Marin and Sonoma will be released by the district this week.

CALLEY

ley, or the men under his command at his behest, murdered more than 70 persons in a ditch.

Millians located the ditch area considerably to the southeast of where other eyewitnesses to the bodies have placed it.

Millians said he saw "one colored NCO (non commissioned officer) in the immediate area of the ditch fire into the ditch one time."

It appeared to be only one round, he said.

"I saw the round impact into one body," he told the chief prosecutor, Capt. Aubrey M. Daniel. He could not describe the body, nor did he make clear whether the victim was alive or dead.

On cross-examination, Millians told defense counsel George W. Latimer he could see the stripes designating rank on the clothing of the NCO. He said the man was stocky, well-built, of average height, and had an M-16 rifle.

Spec. 4 Calvin D. Hodde, 22, a helicopter crew chief in Vietnam, and Brian W. Livingston, 26, a Killeen, Tex. investment management company employee who was in a helicopter at My Lai, preceded Millians to the stand Tuesday and told of seeing bodies so shot up that the area was bathed in brightly, glistening blood.

Hodde was one of many witnesses who said he saw bodies lying on a north-south trail. "Most of them were women and kids, of the ones you could recognize," he said.

The bodies throughout the village, Hodde said, "just looked like a bunch of people lying out in the open with paint or something poured on them— a bright red color."

Hodde said he also saw at least 30 bodies along a ditch.

LAIRD

Vietnam inasmuch as the American prisoners had been removed from the Communist camp prior to the raid.

In a Senate speech, Mansfield said: "I admire the courage of the commandos ... It was a bold stroke. But I raise questions as to the reliability of our intelligence."

Laird said the raid "caught the North Vietnamese completely by surprise."

"Their entire air defense system was caught completely off guard," he told reporters at the Capitol.

Stennis termed the operation "a brilliant military maneuver —the getting in, the getting out, the planning, the exactness of time. It was an amazing performance.

Sen .George D. Aiken, R-Vt., urged both the Senate and the administration to exercise restraint in their discussion of the new events but he questioned Nixon's failure to consult key members of Congress prior to his actions.

"No President in these times can ever hope to fashion foreign policy in the inner sanctum of the White House without risking grave repercussions at home and abroad," the senior Senate Republican said in a speech.

Mansfield said it would have been in the national interest for the President to have briefed congressional leaders in advance of the prison camp raid but added: "I can see reasons why the commando attempt had to be kept under strict secrecy."

Senate Republical leader Hugh Scott rapped back at the President's critics. "All the doves immediately fluttered their feathers and took a nose dive at the President, screaming bloody murder," said Scott.

In disclosing the raid by a combined force of soldiers and airmen, Laird said he proposed the action to the President after receiving reports that some Americans had been dying in prison camps.

A Pentagon spokesman said today that unofficial reports were received early this month that six more U.S. prisoners of war had died.

The spokesman refused to describe the nature of the unofficial sources.

Although the prison camp at San Tay was found to have been vacated, Friedheim refused to acknowledge there had been a "miscalculation."

He said there was "a reasonable expectation that a sizeable number of prisoners" were held there and that the camp had been vacated "was extremely unfortunate."

Herbert R. Rainwater, commander-in-chief of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, said today he was convinced the Vietnamese Communists had "deliberately murdered" some American prisoners.

Rainwater, 51, of San Bernardino, Calif., returned from a 17-nation trip to seek help for the prisoners. He told a news conference in Washington that intelligence sources in Cambodia and Hong Kong told him some Americans had died of beatings and mistreatment in Communist prison camps.

Others, have been allowed to die from wounds through lack of medical treatment, he said.

The weekend air raids had been disclosed soon after they took place. The report of the prisoner rescue effort was not made until three days after it took place.

The daring raid, pulled off by a small band of helicopter-borne volunteers, took place at 2 a.m. Hanoi time Saturday as U.S. warplanes peppered the coastline with diversionary flares.

The Pentagon announced the action Monday, apparently to refute Hanoi's claims that the United States carried out raids on Hanoi and Haiphong 24 hours before the weekend bombing of missile bases began farther South. Laird said the attempted prison camp liberation, which had the backing of President Nixon, was the only action in the Hanoi area during the weekend.

After the raiders shot their way into the camp 20 miles outside Hanoi and broke the locks on cell doors, they found the prisoners were gone. Laird said the camp "had recently been vacated," but one of the raid's leaders, Brig. Gen. Leroy J. Manor, said the deteriorating camp may have been empty for "several weeks."

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., said the attempt jeopardized the prisoners' lives because the Communists "wouldn't have hesitated at shooting them" when the raiders landed. He said the best way to help the prisoners would be to get out of Vietnam, "lock, stock and barrel."

Ky Says Talks At Paris Are Senseless

talks "for their own propaganda."

"They hoped that they could use Paris to impose upon us their law," he said. "But today after two years of wasting time they can see we are stronger, stronger, and they are weaker, weaker. They see they cannot win."

Discussing an earlier breakfast meeting with President Nixon, Ky said: "I told the President that the military situation in Vietnam now is better than in the past, that our armed forces are stronger today and the enemy is weaker."

Ky spent an hour and a half with Nixon.

The meeting took place in a small dining room of the White House. As Ky left, he was not available for questioning by reporters prior to a later speech and question-and-answer session at the National Press Club.

With Nixon at his first meeting with Ky since visiting South Vietnam in July 1969, were the President's national security adviser, Henry A. Kissinger, Undersecretary of State John N. Irwin II and two other Vietnam specialists.

Ky was accompanied by South Vietnam's ambassador to the United States, Bui Diem.

Ky, who canceled a scheduled Oct. 3 appearance at a victory-in-Vietnam rally here at the urging of the White House, arrived in Washington Monday at about the time the Pentagon was disclosing the unsuccessful U.S. attempt to rescue American prisoners in North Vietnam last weekend.

East Berlin: It's Colorless, Completely Different World

(Toronto Telegram News Service)

WEST BERLIN — "Lift your head. I want to see your face." The volks-polizei (people's police) corporal looked at me and my passport, correct but unfriendly, and after a moment of comparing the passport picture with the face he saw before him he waved me on through the Berlin wall at the Heinrich Heine Strasse checkpoint.

I entered another country, another world, even though I was still in Germany. The rigid and time-consuming controls are accepted as normal.

Posters and billboards tell the visitor he just entered the capital of the GDR (German Democratic Republic), the state of workers and farmers. A new world, separated from ours not only by different political and economical systems and ideological barriers, but also exemplified by the people. Though German, the ones in the east are totally different.

"Say, you must be from the West." A Western visitor can be spotted quite easily. He won't be alone for long. On the street, in streetcars, or in restaurants, East Berliners or visitors from Saxonia or Thuringia seek contact with him.

They are friendly, very frank, outspoken, and very critical of their system. Buut all display almost breath-taking pessimism.

Could it be that I only contacted what the Communists would call "saboteurs, enemies of the state, and subversionsts," that I met no one who would praise the virtues and success of the workers' state?

At any rate, no one expects great progress of the political future. And even my purposely optimistic remarks, like "the Bonn-Moscow non-aggression treaty will help improve our relations," or "the beginning inter-German dialogue is bound to bring improvements," could not lift their spirits.

"You don't believe that yourself," was the often-repeated answer. Our generation will not see an end to the division, perhaps our children ... and a man next to me at an Alexanderplatz bar said:

"The only ones to profit from this so-called relaxation will be you in the West — as usual. We here won't get to see any improvement."

On the spectator platform of Berlin's highest building, the newly-constructed television tower, East Germans only looked West into West Berlin — which was just switching on its lights. "How bright it is there," a woman from Erfurt remarked. And another said: "You see over there, behind the church: That is the Wall."

No one would use the Communists's terminology of The Wall being the "GRD's bulwark against fascist aggression, a barrier of peace and security."

The crowded department stores are drab. No eye-catching displays, no attractive decorations, just merchandise thrown carelessly into shelves and display stands. Sales personnel are unattentive and disinterested.

A blaring loudspeaker system repeats perodically what a great state these people live in; it appeals to the national feelings and quotes from speeches by their leaders.

Western advertising methods are taboo. Socialist spots sound like this: "In our modern state, a household without a refrigerator is impossible. Get one now for only 150 marks down."

Not far from the Brandenburg gate is one of the so-called intershops filled with Western luxuries. But they can be obtained only for hard currencies. Since last May, East Germans can buy there, too, and they try hard to get dollars or pounds, marks or francs, at the black-market exchange rate of one mark (West) for four marks (East).

East Berliners won't accept Western praise for the undeniable progress that has been made in the eastern half of this divided city. The relative luxuries, the construction sites, the increasing private traffic, all that is done away with a wave of the hand. "You had that for years and we'll never catch up," they say.

Two Newspapers Raise Prices

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— The San Francisco Chronicle and the San Francisco Examiner announced today that effective Nov. 30 they would increase the price of newsstand and street sales for its daily editions to 15 cents.

The newspaper said the increase from 10 cents was the first in 18 years and was made necessary by rising production and distribution costs.

(Wishard A. Brown, publisher of the Independent-Journal, said there is no plan to increase the newsstand price of the I-J.)

Rock Dance Is Tomorrow Night

A rock dance to benefit San Rafael High School is scheduled for tomorrow from 7:30 p.m. to midnight at the San Rafael High School, according to the manager of one of the groups which will play.

Robert Wilson, manager of Early Morning Fog, said his group and the Geeks, Dog Breath and Coats and Hardings will play.

The admission take is to go to the school, Wilson said.

Drug Case Set For Next Week

Only misdemeanor charges of being under the influence of drugs and having narcotics paraphernalia were filed yesterday in Marin Municipal Court against Michael T. Martin, 24, of Santa Rosa, who was arrested Sunday in Corte Madera.

His case was continued to next Monday for entry of plea.

OBITUARIES

Putnam A. Bates Dies At 63

Putnam Ashbury Bates, former president of the Marin Builders Association, died today after being bedridden by a long illness. He was 63.

Bates came to the Bay Area during World War II to work on defense projects, and settled in Marin County in 1942. In 1946 he became a contractor in Marin and built many homes throughout the county. His offices were in Mill Valley.

He was a member of the Mill Valley Lodge, Free and Accepted Masons, and formerly was active in flying, hunting and fishing.

He is survived by his wife, Katherine, of the family home at Apt. 402, 108 Professional Center Parkway, San Rafael; and three sisters, Mrs. Philip Foster, Mrs. Thomas Emory and Miss Emmaline Bates. He was a native of New Jersey.

Private funeral and inurnment were held today.

ELEANOR ROBINSON

Private funeral has been held for Marion Eleanor Robinson, 63, daughter of Carrie Meyer and sister of Jerome N. Brill of San Rafael, in Orangevale, Sacramento County.

Mrs. Robinson was a native of Iowa. She was a member of the Cancer Research Survey. She died Nov. 15 in Orangevale.

She also is survived by a daughter, Marilyn Sevilla of South Lake Tahoe; another brother, George E. Brill of Oakland, and two grandchildren.

LOUIS ONESTI

Funeral for Louis Onesti of Mill Valley will be tomorrow at 10 a.m. at Russell and Gooch Mortuary, Mill Valley. Onesti, 75, collapsed at his home and died Sunday in a local hospital.

A native of Tavernelle, Italy, he had lived in California 62 years and in Marin County seven years, residing at 5 Plymouth Avenue.He was a retired baker and former owner of the Onesti Bakery in San Francisco.

Onesti is survived by his wife, Edith Onesti of Mill Valley; a son, Roy L. Onesti of Yountville, Napa County, and a grandson, Roy L. Onesti Jr., also of Yountville.

Burial will be in St. Helena Public Cemetery, Napa County.

Onesti's name was misspelled in an obituary in yesterday's Independent-Journal as a result of misinformation furnished by the coroner's office.

LESLIE KINDT

She was found dead at her home Friday, but cause was undetermined pending autopsy, according to Deputy Coroner Richard W. Madigan. Mrs. Kindt was 52.

Born in San Mateo, she lived in the Bay Area most of her life and was a boarder at Dominican Convent in San Rafael from 1923 to 1935.

After four years in Salt Lake City waiting for her husband, James, to return from the war, she moved to San Rafael in 1945 and lived most recently at 37 Palm Avenue.

She was a parishioner of Saint Raphael's Church.

Also surviving are her mother, Mrs. L. B. C. Jones of San Rafael; a brother, Gordon C. Jones of San Rafael; three sons, James Kindt Jr., Jeff Kindt and Jon Kindt, all of San Rafael; two daughters, Kathy Juarez of Santa Rosa and Candy Ehresmann of Los Angeles; and two grandsons.

Burial was to be at Mount Olivet Cemetery in San Rafael.

MARTHA SEIFERT

Private funeral for Mrs. Martha Emily Seifert of Fairfax has been in San Anselmo. Burial was in Mount Tamalpais Cemetery, San Rafael.

Mrs. Seifert, 89, died Saturday in a local hospital after a long illness.

A native of Germany, she had lived in Marin for the past 25 years. She resided with a daughter, Mrs. Dorothy Arena, at 12 Madrone Avenue.

ADA SMITH

Funeral for Ada D. Smith, a Marin resident since 1942, will be Saturday at 1 p.m. at the McFarlane Mortuary, South Lake Tahoe. Burial will follow at the Happy Homestead Cemetery.

Mrs. Smith died Friday in a local hospital after a long illness. She was 73.

Born in Hilex, Ore., she moved to California in 1933. She and her husband, Fred D. Smith, lived at 2000 Redwood Highway, Corte Madera.

CRYSTAL BRIER

A memorial service for Crystal Brier of San Anselmo will be held Friday at 2 p.m. in the Family Church of Marin, 91 Hawthorne Avenue, San Anselmo.

Mrs. Brier, wife of San Francisco Chroncicle columnist Royce Brier, died at a local hospital at the age of 58.

GUS TORRELL

Funeral for Gus Torrell, 85, of Petaluma, will be held at 10 a.m. tomorrow at Parent Funeral Chapel, Petaluma. Private inurnment will be at Cypress Hill Memorial Park.

Torrell died Sunday at a local convalescent hospital after a long illness. A native of Sweden, he served in the Swedish Navy before moving to the United States 50 years ago.

Torrell lived in Petaluma for 30 years and was a retired saw sharpener.

prices of commodities other than food rose 0.6 per cent in October, twice the usual rate for that month, but food prices declined 0.2 per cent including a 0.3 per cent decline for food in supermarkets. However, the price of the Thanksgiving Day turkey is up more than nine per cent.

The cost of consumer services went up 0.5 per cent, slightly less than in September and about in line with the monthly average for the last six months.

But the cost of transportation shot up 1.9 per cent during the month. This included a 5.4 per cent increase in new car prices, a 2.3 per cent advance in used car prices and a 1.3 per cent increase in gasoline prices.

The cost of clothing and its upkeep went up 0.9 per cent, including a 1.3 per cent advance for women's and girls' apparel.

The decline in food prices was paced by a 5 per cent decline in egg prices and a 1.3 per cent decrease in prices of fruits and vegetables. Prices for meats, poultry and fish went down 0.8 per cent but dairy products went up 0.5 per cent due mainly to higher prices for fresh milk.

Despite the lower food costs at supermarkets, the cost of eating food at restaurants went up 0.4 per cent.

The problem with flying is getting to a flight.

From Marin County, there's a Freeway, a Bridge, a Freeway, a City and another Freeway between you and that airport on the west side of the Bay. Between you and Oakland Airport on the east side of the Bay, there's a Bridge and a Freeway. Period. So maybe you ought to start thinking of Oakland as your local, neighborhood International Airport. And flights? Just call the Fly Oakland Girl, ENterprise 1-2422. She'll tell you all about them. She'll even book a reservation.

War Protesters Smash 68 Windows

STANFORD, Calif. (UPI)—Youths protesting the renewal of U.S. bombing in North Vietnam stormed through Stanford University's science complex Monday, breaking at least 68 windows in six buildings.

"The whole thing was lightning-like," a university spokesman said while describing the foray.

The group of about 100 walked from an anti-war rally in the old student Union building and then broke up into smaller groups which ran through the science complex throwing railroad spikes, rocks and steel ball-bearings at the glass.

Within five or seven minutes, it was all over, the spokesman added. Because of the speed, there was no arrest made.

Berkeley police said that after a "war crimes trial" a group of 250 youths marched chanting toward the home of Dr. Edward Teller, so-called "Father of the H Bomb."

Of the 250, police said, about 100 reached a corner near the house where they burned a dummy.

Police were on hand as the group broke up.

Probation, Jail Given Youth, 18

Judge E. Warren McGuire of Marin Superior Court yesterday placed William James Hayes, 18, on probation for three years and sentenced him to jail for nine months.

He did order, however, that Hayes be given credit for the time he has already spent in jail since his arrest.

Hayes, described in court as a California Youth Authority parolee with an extensive juvenile record, was also ordered to submit to periodic testing to determine if he is using narcotics.

Hayes had earlier pleaded guilty to charge of concealing stolen property on June 30. At the time of the guilty plea to the felony, a charge of carrying a concealed weapon was dismissed.

Hayes was arrested in the Country Club area near San Rafael with articles reported stolen in a burglary there.

Throw-The-Egg Winner Calls Project Flippant

STANFORD (UPI) — A professor who devised a throw-the-egg contest and a student member of the winning team have differing ideas on the subject.

Richard Martin, associate professor of mechanical engineering, said Monday he was anxious that the contest not be regarded flippantly.

John Bodine, winning team member, declared: "This event today has no relevance to anything and it is typical of Stanford education and it is typical of engineering here at Stanford in particular."

"This is purely just a proliferation of gadgetry. To continue the tinker-toying around that we all did as boys doesn't help. As engineers we should be trained to make socially useful things."

The contest?

Catapult a raw egg some 60 feet in the air and land it on the earth between 50 and 100 feet away without breaking it.

How was it won?

Bodine's team strung rubber tubing in the center of a bicycle rim, attached a frozen egg to the middle of the tubing and a small umbrella to the rim.

When catapulted, the umbrella acted as an air brake and spun out string which induced the rim to roll when it hit the ground.

Superior Court Marijuana Case

The case of Richard Thomas Berry, 18, of Novato, was not acceptable to juvenile court, it was reported yesterday in Marin Superior Court.

A jury trial was set for the week of Jan. 4 in superior court for the youth, who is accused of selling marijuana on Sept. 10.

Probation In Marijuana Case

Judge E. Warren McGuire of Marin Superior Court yesterday placed James William Thomas, 23, former Fairfax resident, on probation for two years and ordered him to pay a $150 fine for a marijuana conviction.

Thomas, who was described win court as now working in a drug rehabilitation center in Sacramento, had earlier pleaded guilty to possessing marijuana, a charge reduced from the original sale count.

He had been accused of selling a small amount of marijuana on May 12, 1969, apparently in exchange for car repairs.

San Rafael Seniors Attend Class In Law And Community

A symposium on "Law and the Community" replaced regular classes for seniors at San Rafael High School yesterday from 9 a.m. to 12:20 p.m.

Sponsored by the Police-Community Relations Project of Marin County, the symposium included sections on "Police and the Community," "Juvenile Law," and "Search, Seizure and Preliminary Court Action."

Students moderated the panel discussions. Attorneys and law enforcement officers were speakers.

Speaking on "Police and the Community" were Chief Joseph J. Brusatori, Sgt. Lewis E. Foster, Lt. James Carlton and Inspector Gerald Green, all of the San Rafael Police Department.

Discussing "Juvenile Law" were Barney Griswold and Frederick M. Latty of the Marin County Probation Department and attorneys James A. Duckworth and Beverly B. Savitt.

Speakers on "Search, Seizure and Preliminary Court Action" were Vernon F. Smith Jr., deputy district attorney; Edward Briggs, deputy public defender, Richard Timan, former deputy public defender, and attorneys John H. Coteaux and Thomas T. Storer.

Student moderators were Paul Oesterman, Michele Hensley, Bob Roumiguiere, Chuck Johnson, George Scott, and Lori Schwartz.

The Police-Community Relations Project hopes to conduct another such seminar next spring, said Mrs. Carroll Leach, its co-ordinator for the public schools.

No Program

The Tamalpais High School Saturday morning recreation program will not be held Saturday because of the Thanksgiving holiday, according to director Edward J. Chavez. The program will resume Dec. 5.

Reagan Plans Industry Aide

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Gov. Ronald Reagan announced today the state soon will hire an economist to advise his administration on problems in the construction industry.

The governor made the announcement in a speech prepared for delivery to his newly appointed "labor-management task force," a group of contractors, labor leaders and other construction industry executives.

"During the months to come, we are going to add an economist to the staff of the director of public works to help us stay abreast of the economic problems in the construction industry," Reagan said.

About $8 Million In Pakistan Aid

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The State Department said Monday the United States has spent almost $8 million so far to aid Pakistan flood victims and considerable additional material has been donated by private American agencies.

Department spokesman John F. King said the tenth commercial transport plane chartered by the U.S. government to carry relief goods to Pakistan will have arrived in Dacca today.

A College Night For New Parents

The College of Marin will hold a "college night" tonight for parents of current and incoming freshmen students.

Slated for 7:45 o'clock at the Fine Arts Building, the college night will allow parents to meet with student counselors to discuss student problems and college programs.

NOTICE TO TELEPHONE CUSTOMERS

For the first time since 1953 we are planning increases in the rates for many out-of-state calls.

AT&T has filed a new schedule of rates with the Federal Communications Commission which increases charges for customer-dialed interstate calls during weekday business hours and for all operator-assisted interstate calls.

All rates for calls you dial yourself without operator assistance in the evenings, at night, on weekends or on holidays will remain unchanged or be reduced.

The new rates are filed to become effective on January 19, 1971.

Here are the specific provisions of the new rates for out-of-state calls:

1. Rates for station-to-station calls you dial yourself without operator assistance from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday, will be increased—up to 10 cents for the first three minutes.
2. Rates for all operator-assisted calls (including person-to-person, credit-card, collect, and coin telephone calls) will be increased in amounts ranging from 5 cents to 30 cents for the first three minutes.
3. Where rates for the first three minutes of a call are increased, the rates for each additional minute will be increased in a range of one cent to five cents.
4. Rates for station-to-station calls you dial yourself without operator assistance during evenings, nights, or weekends will remain the same—or, in a few cases, actually be reduced. For example, the rate for calls dialed coast-to-coast from 8 a.m. to 11 p.m. Saturday, or 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Sunday, will still be 70 cents for the first three minutes.

This will be the first general increase in interstate Long Distance rates in 17 years. During that period, in spite of continuing inflation, interstate Long Distance rates have been reduced repeatedly. Even with the increase, the level of these rates will still be about 14 percent below the 1953 level. Yet in those 17 intervening years, the cost of living has gone up 47 percent.

The new rates recognize the higher labor and equipment costs associated with operator-assisted calls, and are designed to increase total revenues from interstate service by about six percent.

We have filed for the increase so that we can assure adequate earnings to attract investors in a money market which, like everything else, has felt the impact of inflation. This ability to attract new capital is essential if we are to continue to provide high-quality telecommunications service and meet the growing demands for communications services in this country.

Today is Tuesday, Nov. 24, the 328th day of 1970.

The moon is between its last quarter and new phase. The morning stars are Venus, Mars and Jupiter. The evening stars are Mercury and Saturn.

Those born on this date are under the sign of Sagittarius.

On this day in history:

In 1869 women from 21 states met in Cleveland to draw up plans for the organization of the American Women Suffrage Association.

In 1944 superfortresses of the American Air Force took off from Saipan for the first raids on Tokyo.

In 1961 the U.N. Security Council gave Secretary General Thant permission to use force to settle the Belgium Congo crisis.

In 1963 Lee Harvey Oswald, the accused assassin of President Kennedy, was shot to death by Jack Ruby in a Dallas jail. Millions of people witnessed the shooting on television.

A thought for today: Scottish poet Robert Gilfillan once said, "There's a hope for every woe and a balm for every pain, but the first joys of our heart come never back again."

Jury Trial Is Set In Home Burglary

A jury trial was set yesterday in Marin Superior Court for the week of Jan. 11 for John Martin Green, 20, of San Anselmo, who is accused of burglarizing the home of County Administrator Alan Bruce on Oct. 16.

Green was arrested after a policeman saw him walking down the driveway of the Bruce residence in San Anselmo, carrying stereo equipment and an accordion.

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Optimists Have More Fun, But Pessimists Win Championships

An optimist is a bridge player who hasn'e had much experience. A pessimist knows that finesses aren't going to succeed; that suits aren't going to break favorably; and that the opponents are just as nasty as he would be in their place. The optimist may have more fun, but the pessimist rakes in the shekels and the championships, all of which should warn you to play today's hand pessimistically.

OPTIMIST'S PLAY

The optimist would play dummy's king of spades at the first trick and would be delighted to find it winning the trick. He would get to his hand with the king of clubs to lead the queen of diamonds for a finesse.

End of optimist.

East would take the king of diamonds and return a spade, whereupon West would rattle off five spade tricks. Down two.

Our hero would be downcast for only a few seconds. Then he would remark cheerfully to his partner: "If the finesse had worked we'd have made a million!"

DON'T GRUMBLE

Don't grumble if you have an optimist as a partner. It won't help to point out that he should have made his contract even though the finesse did not work. As one who has played with optimistic partners for over a hundred years (it certainly seems that long), I can assure you that nothing at all will help. Just take two or three deep breaths and go on to the next hand.

PESSIMIST'S PLAY

We pessimists know that South should have played a low spade from each hand at the first trick, allowing West to win the first trick with the jack of spades.

This simple maneuver kills the spades. If West continues with the ace and another spade, South can safely take the diamond finesse. East will win with the king of diamonds but will be unable to get the lead to his partner. The pessimist makes five diamonds, two clubs, one spade and one heart.

But the pessimist also knows that when this kind of hand comes along he will be the dummy — watching his optimistic partner go down.

Dealer, at your right, bids one club.

You hold:

♣ J 9 4.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid two spades if you use pre-emptive jump overcalls.

Otherwise bid one spade. (The hand was passed when this deal was actually played, but the pass with a strong six card spade suit is a waste of good material.)

Park Landscape Plan Splits City Council

Proposed landscaping plans for Fairfax Park were presented to the Fairfax City Council last night.

The council immediately disagreed on what to do with them.

Eventually, the council accepted the plans in principle but withheld authorization for drawing working plans pending priority recommendations from the city's park and recreation commission.

The commission accepted the plans in principle last June and recommended priority be given to a proposed fountain and plaza in the east corner of the park. But that recommendation was not sent in writing to the council.

The plans were presented to the council by Alan Ribera of the Oakland landscape architecture firm of Ribera and Sue. In addition to the fountain and plaza, his proposal calls for installation of picnic tables, restrooms, a multiuse deck straddling Manor Creek, a spray pool adjacent to another section of the creek, children's playground apparatus, a tennis practice backstop, improved parking area and a turfed area suitable, Ribera said, for an art festival.

Councilman Frank J. O'Connell's reaction to Ribera's presentation was to say that except for the restrooms "you haven't changed a thing."

Ribera estimated the total cost of the proposal at $121,025. O'Connell said the city would never be able to afford that without a bond issue.

Following discussion of the possibility of federal funds to help finance the park renewal, the council voted 4-1, with Mayor Frank J. Egger dissenting, to take the plan under advisement.

Egger then said that $1,500 was budgeted this year for working plans and he asked the council what should Ribera do next?

While the council pondered whether to accept the park and recreation commission's unofficial priority recommendation or whether to select a new priority area or whether to ask the commission for a new and official recommendation, Ribera said he would give the city a 10 per cent discount on working plans for the plaza and fountain area.

Those plans "are virtually complete," he said, explaining that he had assumed the commission's unofficial recommendation was, or would be, official, and had gone ahead on working plans for the plaza and fountain.

Councilman Robert R. Souza balked at the discount offer, saying that was a poor way to do business with the taxpayers' money.

Following more discussion, the council ignored its first vote to take the plans under advisement and voted unanimously to accept the plans in principle and ask the commission for three priority recommendations.

Only two commissioners, chairman Louis A. Soldavini and Noel Cimino, attended the meeting which was to have been a joint meeting of the commission and council.

Commissioner Leonard J. Wilgenbush arrived later, in time for a discussion of vandalism and security at the Fairfax Pavilion.

The council appointed a committee to come up with recommendations for increased security and to report back to the council Dec. 14.

The Fairfax City Council Also:

MEMORIAL — Agreed to restore plaques, damaged by vandals, in Honor Grove at Fairfax Park. The plaques list the names of Fairfax men who lost their lives during the two world wars. The council voted to try to determine the names and add them to the plaques of men who've died serving during the Korean and Vietnam wars.

EMPLOYEES — Voted not to waive personnel regulations to allow a park and recreation commissioner and a man who falsified information on his application to compete for a job opening for a street maintenance man.

MEETING — Adjourned to a Dec. 10 meeting with the Fairfax Design Review Board to discuss a proposed sign ordinance.

Controversial City Clerk Resigns

By C. P. McCARTHY

Frances R. Lestanguet stunned the Fairfax City Council last night by submitting her resignation as city clerk effective Dec. 31.

Mrs. Lestanguet, city clerk since being appointed to the position in 1965, also had served as city administrator since February 1969 when the Council named her to the position to replace David J. Sumbardo who resigned under pressure.

Last August, the council fired her as city administrator effective next Jan. 1 and voted to hire a "full-time professional" administrator by the beginning of the year.

Mrs. Lestanguet's term as city clerk, to which she won election in 1968, expires in 1972.

Her prepared resignation, which she handed silently to each of the five councilmen, followed almost an hour of council discussion on how to screen applications for the position of city administrator.

The council delayed acting on the resignation until its Dec. 14 meeting, but their comments, after a long silence, indicated it would be accepted.

"I wouldn't ask her to stay on, simply because of the abuse we've given her," said Frank J. O'Connell, adding "I think this is a real sad thing. I think we deserve it."

"I don't blame her," Robert R. Souza said. Lee Nelder said his only complaint with Mrs. Lestanguet was "she is too nice a person."

Between the council's vote Aug. 7 to hire a new administrator and its official firing of Mrs. Lestanguet Aug. 29, she was a central figure in angry charges exchanged by O'Connell and Souza.

O'Connell charged the move to fire her began after she placed a proposed allocation for Souza's telephone credit card —paid at city expense —as a separate item in the proposed budget. O'Connell said the firing was "vindictively schemed and maneuvered."

Souza denied the allegation at a meeting two days later. He said that one reason Mrs. Lestanguet wasn't "working out as city administrator is because Frank O'Connell and company won't let her; and she has let them draw her into their partisanship."

The resignation last night was preceded by prolonged discussion of what to do with the 70 applications, and 40 to 50 more expected, for the post of city administrator.

The council rejected various proposals and voted to meet in closed session to screen the applications.

O'Connell and van Vliet voted against that motion, and the council postponed deciding when they will hold the closed session.

Liberal Element Wins Blessing

BUDAPEst (UPI)—Leonid I. Brezhnev, leader of the Soviet Communist Party, laid an effusive blessing today on Hungary's liberal-minded Communist leaders and the forms they are carryying out.

"The Hungarian party consistently follows the line of developing Socialist democracy," Brezhnev told the Hungarian Party's congress. "This principled attitude . . . meets with the complete understanding and appreciation of the Soviet Communists."

Dlegates to the congress applauded as Brezhnev, reading through gold-rimmed spectacles with a glass of tea at his side, hailed Hungarian party leader Janos Kadar as "the loyal son of the Hungarian people, the outstanding and respected personality of the international Communist movement."

SENTIMENTAL HOBBY

Century-Old Train Depot Taking On Youthful Look

Restoring the youthful appearance of a centenarian country train station has become the sentimental hobby of a group from the San Geronimo Valley Presbyterian Church.

The antiquated station, once the commercial center of the San Geronimo Valley survived the Great Depression only because the church bought it for its sanctuary in 1935.

However, a new church was constructed nearby in 1964 and the historic building became an aging shack in the way of church expansion.

The church governing board doomed it last year because it had been ruled unsound and was crowding the new church social wing.

However, sentimental church members catalyzed by Eldon Halseth of Woodacre and George Shand of San Geronimo promised to move the building to a more convenient site and restore it for a museum.

"I was married in it myself 12 years ago and I had sentimental feelings about it," Halseth said as he prepared to work on the building's new foundaiton Saturday. "George felt the same way I did about it," Halseth said.

Sentiment was blended with a pinch of pity. "Like George says, 'Anything that has stood for 100 years and gone through what this has gone through deserves to be saved."

The brown, shingled structure was a yellow, frame hub of activity when the first North Pacific Coast train steamed over the narrow guage tracks from Sausalito to Tamales in 1875.

The station at the crossroads of Sir Francis Drake Boulevard and San Geronimo-Nicasio Road was also a post office and Western Union telegraph office.

In its days as a depot first for the Pacific and then for the standard gague trains of the Northwestern Pacific Railroad, the two-story building had a combination waiting room and post office with an adjoining baggage room. The station master lived on the second story.

The station was extensively rebuilt for church purposes, Halseth said, but the part-time restorers will return it to its original condition complete with pot-belly stove after moving the building.

Although they saved the San Geronimo landmark a year ago, they only began working in earnest in September, Halseth said.

A concrete foundation has been constructed adjoining the building and it will be slid over on greased boards in December.

All of the materials plus $150 have been donated by businesses and organizations, Halseth said. "The only thing that cost us was $12 for the permit," Shand said.

Moving the building is the easier part of the job. Halseth said the second phase is to learn the original layout of the building and reproduce it complete with the wooden trim and antique furnishings.

"Most of the stuff is going to have to be made. You can't buy any of that stuff," Halseth said.

The group is also looking for original trappings from the station and is raising money for a vintage caboose.

When the museum will be completed is anybody's guess, Halseth said. The group of volunteers has been working Tuesday and Thursday evenings and Saturdays, but, Shand cautioned, "We decided when we started we'd take time off when it stopped being fun."

"However, when the coccoon of shingles is finally removed and the interior restored, the workers envision a significant historical site.

"There are a lot of people who don't even know a railroad used to go through here," Halseth said.

Petaluman Enters Plea To Charge

Lewis Edward Meyers, 59, of Petaluma, pleaded innocent yesterday in Southern Sonoma Municipal Court to felony drunken driving.

Judge Alexander J. McMahon set bail at $6,000 after receiving a recommendation from the probation department that Meyers not be released on his own recognizance because of a long record of offenses linked to drinking.

McMahon said a preliminary hearing date will be set next Monday at 1.30 p.m. Meyers was arrested last Tuesday after Petaluma police said his car struck Dennis Stankalis, 17, of 26 Huntington Drive, Petaluma, severing Stankalis's legs.

McMahon said the hearing may be held at the bedside of Stankalis at Hillcrest Hospital if he is not well enough to be brough. to the courtroom.

Defendant Gives Rightwing Salute

BERLIN (UPI)—An alleged Nazi sympathizer gave the extreme rightwing salute today at the opening of British military government proceedings against him on charges he shot and wounded a Soviet war memorial sentry.

Ekkehard Weil, 24-year-old hospital orderly, held up three fingers of his right hand to form the letter "W" for "widerstand" — the German word for "resistance" — as he stood in the dock in a courtrom in West Berlin's Moabit courthouse

The "W" has become the salute of extreme rightwingers who contend that German interests have been sold out since the war, particularly by the new Eastern policy of the government of Chancellor Willy Brandt.

Four Drivers Are Sentenced

Four persons have been sentenced in Marin Municipal Court by Judge Alvin H. Goldstein Jr. for drunken driving.

Hayward Lee Barcus, 47, of Santa Rosa, arrested Sept. 20 on Highway 101, was placed on probation for one year and fined $150.

James Rudolph Pacheco, 21, of Hayward, arrested April 12 in Sausalito, was placed on probation for three years and sent to jail for 30 days.

Rosario Anita McSweeney, 42, of 2065 Carolyn Way, Novato, arrested Aug. 2 on Highway 101, was placed on probation for one year and fined $200.

John Joseph Anderson, 41, of 118 Mabry Way, Santa Venetia, arrested Sept. 5 on Highway 101, was placed on probation for six months and sent to jail for two days.

To Juvenile Court

The case of Thomas Neil Marrett, 18, of Novato, yesterday was transferred to juvenile court from Marin Superior Court. The youth is accused of selling marijuana on Sept. 16 and 22 and was indicted recently by the grand jury.

Death Sentence In CHP Slayings

VAN NUYS, Calif. (UPI)— Bobby Augusta Davis, 29, an ex-convict, was sentenced Monday to die in the gas chamber for the murders of four California Highway patrolmen in April.

The death verdict was returned by the same five-man, seven-woman jury which convicted Davis Nov. 13 of shooting the officers in front of a Saugus, Calif., coffee shop.

Davis' partner in the crime, Jack Twinning, 35, shot himself to death when he was trapped by officers in a home in nearby Newhall. Davis was arrested while driving a stolen camper truck.

Fine, Probation In Pot Possession

Robert Gerald Benson, 19, of Novato, has been placed on probation for one year and fined $50 by Judge Alvin H. Goldstein Jr. of Marin Municipal Court for possessing marijuana. He was also given a suspended 30-day jail sentence.

Benson had earlier pleaded guilty to a misdemeanor count of having pot when he was arrested Aug. 1 in a Novato apartment.

Russian Acrobat Defects To Sweden

STOCKHOLM (UPI)—A Russian acrobat with the Moscow State Circus has defected in Sweden, police sources said today.

Michail Suponitsky, 26, a member of a nine-man acrobatic group, left the circus as it was winding up a three-month tour of Sweden last weekend.

Nobody else gives you a seat like this in coach.[1]

Then, in our 707's and 747's, we put together a menu featuring a choice of three international meals. Surrounded by champagnes, wines, liqueurs, cheeses and desserts from around the world.[2]

Nobody else gives you food like this in coach.

After dinner, settle back, and we bring on the entertainment.

Eight channels of stereo music, humor and news. And not one, but a choice of two movies on every movie flight.[2]

No other airline does that either.

Next time you're flying to Chicago, New York, Boston, Washington, Philadelphia or Baltimore, take a TWA 707 or 747 Ambassador Flight.

You'll find it's a whole new way to fly.

At TWA we're putting a big chunk of our money back where it came from.

A Middle Eastern Tour For Champes

By MOLLY MARIN

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Champe recently returned to Tiburon after three weeks in Lebanon, Syria and Greece. Beirut and Damascus, capitals of the Arab countries, were exciting to the Champes because of military build-up.

In Beirut, they saw deserted hotels and no other tourists. Commandos wearing rifles and tanks were in the streets. Cholera and hepatitis were threats.

"We could not have eaten the food," reports Sally. They stayed in the home of Richard's sister, whose husband is with the American Embassy.

Arab hospitality took the form of friendly children, a barber who noticed them waiting in the square and brought them his chairs and a citizen who insisted on getting in their car to direct them to their far-off destination.

But traveling south toward Israel they passed through several check points where cameras and passports were confiscated.

More pleasant was their two weeks in Greece. On a cruise of Greek islands, a freak storm caused seasickness and prevented them from docking at two of the five islands.

The Champes drove a rented car north from Athens to ancient Orthodox monasteries built on cliffs the height of El Capitan. Until recently tourists were hoisted up the cliffs in baskets, but the Champes were able to drive up the harrowing road.

"I wasn't allowed to go into two of the monasteries," reports Sally, "because my skirt was too short."

They drove to Delphi and made one-day trips out of Athens into the countryside. English-speaking Athenians, proud of their history, courteously gave directions to ruins. In the country, where no English was spoken, friendly people made sign language to direct the tourists to beautiful views.

"They were poor but very willing to share what they had. We were invited to meals. We would like to take the children next time," says Sally, who found Athens anxious for tourism, very clean with good food and transportation. Women can walk there at night unescorted and be safe. She was told by an American resident that a Greek who commits a crime against a tourist receives a punishment twice as severe as if his crime had been against a Greek.

A WEDDING shower and luncheon for Elizabeth Adams Sims, daughter of Justice and Mrs. Richard M. Sims Jr. of Belvedere, will be held at the Belvedere Lagoon home of Mrs. John Hoefer on Dec. 5. Co-hostess is Mrs. Ralph Noah of Tiburon.

LEANNE J. Ceccotti, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Ceccotti of Larkspur, is in Italy, where she is spending her junior year with the California State International Programs.

A student at the University of Florence, Leanne writes, "I find myself most captivated by the beauty and antiquity of my surrounding environment. A walk through the streets of Florence, is like walking through history that still exists; such an experience cannot be felt by reading a history book. The Duomo, the open markets, the cobblestone streets are all part of the Flor-

Why She's A 'Non-Engineer'

By JOAN LISETOR

Why would a person with a master's degree in engineering work in a restaurant and smoke shop as a bookkeeper and parttime seller of cigars?

"Because I need the money," says 25-year-old Mary Gilbert of Sausalito, who has bachelor of science and a master of engineering degrees from Cornell University.

Mary decided to settle in the Bay Area after attending Stanford University for one quarter. Her family lives in New York, where she was reared in suburbia.

"I SPENT two months going on interviews, mostly on the Peninsula and in the East Bay," she says. "There were few openings, but if I had been a man I am certain it would have been different."

The only job she could find was with an insurance company in a position similar to an efficiency expert. She was bored with the work, having been trained in industrial engineering to work for a heavy manufacturing company.

"My superiors admitted that my advancement was slow because I am a woman, in spite of being well qualified as an engineer," she says.

Finally after two years of working in the financial district, Mary decided she hated the straight business world.

A friend of a friend worked for the State Department of Human Resources Development, so she asked him about using her engineering to work for a group, possibly charitable, doing something she considered worthwhile.

THE EMPLOYMENT counselor told her, "If you want to do something like that you will have to start at the bottom as a clerk and work your way up."

MARY GILBERT sells cigars and works as a bookkeeper in a Sausalito restaurant and smoke shop. Holder of a master of engineering degree from Cornell University, the 25-year-old Sausalitan has found the industrial engineering field impossible to get into. "You will have to start at the bottom as a clerk and work your way up," she was told before she decided to abandon the 9 to 5 business world. (I-J photo)

She found that women were not hired for jobs like that, she says. But women are hired as assistant managers of gift shops, doing some buying and book work, so Mary went to work in a Sausalito gift shop for about six months. Then she took her present job, also in Sausalito. It allows her certain freedoms — to wear what she wants to work and to work the hours she wants.

"I got tired of doing things just for the sake of money," she says.

Mary applied to Cornell as an undergraduate after reading in the engineer school brochure that the school was coeducational. She received a rejection almost immediately from the dean of admissions.

"It said that from the biography that I sent with my application, he did not think I was interested in the profession, but I felt I was being rejected because I was a woman. So I wrote back asking for an interview, which was granted. I pleaded my case and got in," she says.

Cornell's undergraduate engineering school has a quota of 600 men and four women.

"THE REASON for the quota, I was told, is that the university has four beds set aside in the women's dorm for the engineering school," Mary says.

Graduate school, where she was one of three women, was easier to get into, Mary explains, since she already had a foot in the door.

In school, Mary says, she was admired for her "guts in studying for a profession in the male world."

"It got bad when I went through sorority rush," she says. "Everyone asked the same two questions, 'Where are you from?' and 'What are you majoring in?' Engineering surprised everyone so much, at first I was proud, then I got a little sick of it."

She did pledge Kappa Alpha Theta sorority.

"I liked the girls so much, and after being in classes with only men all day, felt a need for female companionship," she says.

"I AM on a physical fitness kick now," Mary says. "It will be my big thing for the next few months."

Mary says she doesn't want to look too far into the future, except for an Hawaiian vacation she has planned for after the first of the year.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

How Can A Young Citizen Make Sure He Chooses The Right Man?

DEAR HELEN:

I voted for the first time this year and I still don't know if I voted right or not. How is an ordinary person to tell, what with all the stuff that comes out for and against every darn candidate?

I read one newspaper, or hear one paid ad on television, and I think "This is the one." Then there's the rebuttal, with nasty slams and I wonder, "Can this be so?"

Most of the candidates supported some of my ideas, and most of them didn't measure up in other areas. Then, after they're elected, they don't measure up at all sometimes.

How can we get unbiased opinions and true facts, especially if we're new at voting? — YOUNG U.S. CITIZEN

DEAR CITIZEN:

Enrolling in a political science class helps, for there you get the history of politics, study philosophies of the various parties, and learn about behind-the-scenes ploys.

We vote wisely or unwisely in proportion to how much time we're willing to spend on research. We aren't always right in our assessments, but we'll come closer if we listen to (and read) all sides, weed out as much puff-stuff as possible, and choose candidates for their integrity as well as their aim. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

Most girls wouldn't think this is a problem, but it is to us. My friend and I are too popular with boys. Both of us have gone steady about seven times since July. So the girls are jealous of us.

We aren't boy crazy, but we don't have any friends except boys. No matter what we do, the guys cheer us on, and that turns the girls off. Neither of us has gone farther than "first base," but rumors are started about us being pregnant, etc.

We aren't pretty, at least we don't think so. We even try to discourage boys but they keep coming back. Helen, what's your advice about getting rid of boy friends and gaining girl friends? — TWO EIGHTH GRADERS

DEAR TWO:

Your biggest problem is — you're eighth graders. I mean you've reached the Age-13 Plateau when most girls are very unsure of themselves, therefore liable to resent those who succeed where they fail.

Perhaps you've matured faster than others. At any rate, you've learned the secret of attracting those cagey junior hi males and, naturally, the girls will be jealous. (And you can't help lording it over them a bit — especially when they put you down.)

Try sharing. When the boys flock around, call a few girls over to join the crowd. Give a party, asking girls who haven't been too snobby. Get the word out that you aren't scalp hunters, but would like to share.

And cheer up. Next year things will be better — or maybe worse, because you'll have lots more competition then. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I was another one who wrote to "The Tigers" and "met" a very fine guy, serving in Vietnam. But I haven't heard fom him in months, though I've written several letters. How can I find out if he's alive? — ANITA

DEAR ANITA:

If your letters weren't returned to you, then assume your Vietnam Tiger is alive and well and has probably found another pussycat. — H.

This column is dedicated to family living, so if you're having kid trouble or just plain trouble, let Helen help you. Address Helen Bottel in care of the Independent-Journal.

NEW X-RAY UNIT AT ROSS

Dr. J. J. Parkers positions X-ray technician Judy Alt through use of a television monitoring system during a demonstration of Ross General Hospital's new General Electric Telegem X-ray unit. The unit, installed a week ago at a cost of $85,000, permits exact patient positioning, thus eliminating needless repeat filming because of incorrect positioning. It is the first remote control unit installed in Marin County.

TEACHER SPEAKS OUT

Junior First Grade Needed For Reading

By PAT ANGLE

A veteran teacher in the Sausalito School District last night discussed the dilemma of children who can't read, then pointed out some problems and possible solutions to district trustees.

The teacher, Frances Evergettis, who has taught reading in Sausalito since 1963, warned, however, that no simple, miraculous improvement is possible.

One problem, according to Mrs. Evergettis, is that colleges cannot show teachers how to teach children to read. "Most teachers are not prepared for this; they have to dig and find the ability," she said, "and, if they are not motivated, they may never find it."

She urged the board to provide materials and textbooks on the teaching of reading, coupled with intensive in-service training programs for teachers.

Last year, Mrs. Evergettis began a reading skills development program at Central School in which children are tested extensively, then placed in classes where their particular problems can be dealt with. "By the end of last year, we had not gotten very far," she admitted, "but we did notice many children were attacking words for the first time. it's going to take a lot more grinding, a lot more digging."

A recent discovery which Mrs. Evergettis made was the inadequacies in the state's basic reader, which she said teaches youngsters to read by sight, rather than by sound of words.

By using the state books, the teacher said children learn the 44 sounds of the English language over a period of three years. "The children are reading words, but have not learned to put sounds together, so they can carry this ability over to any new words they want to read," she explained.

Mrs. Evergettis said she has found a set of books which show youngsters how to sound out words, but added such books are just beginning to come out and it will take some searching to find them for all grades.

"What this district needs is a junior first grade." she told the board, "because there are some children who could benefit by not going into first grade from kindergarten and you can spot them."

Board Chairman Nathaniel Johnson, who recently attended a national conference on the education of young children in Boston, agreed with Mrs. Evergettis' idea of an extra school year, between kindergarten and first grade. "The feeling among many educators is that all children are being pushed too far, that all could benefit from a junior first grade," Johnson said.

Black children have additional reading problems, according to Mrs. Evergettis, because the black community "has a language of its own and some of the sounds in that language are not quite like the sounds in business English."

She said many black children have the same difficulties in learning to read that an adult has in learning a foreign language where the sounds of words may be unfamiliar. She is preparing to begin a program to rectify this auditory problem and said "more time must be given to allow children to learn the new sounds."

Mrs. Evergettis called for a systematic, planned program of reading instruction, something, she said, the district has never had. "Over the years, my frustration and anger has grown," she said, "and there were times when I felt I could not go on in public school teaching."

She is convinced that reading can be taught; but it must be taught properly, from kindergarten on. "Two weeks ago the board was presented with a set of demands from a group of parents who were very concerned — and they were right," Mrs. Evergettis said.

"I think we're taking steps in the right direction," she conceded, "but I just wish we could move faster. I wish the necessary changes could take place overnight."

Plea Today In Burglary Case

David Thomas Kircher, 19, of 131½ Reservoir Road, San Rafael, was arraigned yesterday in Marin Municipal Court on a charge of burglarizing a Bolinas apartment Sunday.

His case was continued to today for entry of plea.

Kircher was arrested about 9 p.m. after Sheri Bradley, who lives in an apartment above Shiley's Tavern, said she discovered him opening her refrigerator.

She said Kircher ran downstairs and first mingled with a crowd in the bar and then ran outside where her husband, David, and attorney Thomas Barfield held him until police arrived.

An Offense To Courting Couples

ELLESMERE, England (UPI)—Councilman Levi Jones, a 71-year-old bachelor, told colleagues the town's plan to install a street lamp opposite a bus shelter would offend courting couples.

"I know my courting days are over," Jones said. "But I don't see why the youngsters should have theirs interfered with. I think the council are being spoilsports.

"When the youngsters hear their kissing and cuddling will have to stop, they will raise a howl of protest. I will support them."

Man Falls Into Vat, Rescued By Firemen

Quackenbush fell at noon into a grain vat and machinery at R. O. Shelling Co., Magnolia Avenue, where he is a foreman. A rescue team from the Petaluma Fire Department entered the vat to prevent him from being buried and lifted him out by basket.

New District

Establishment of an assessment district for the improvement of Woodward Avenue will be considered by the Sausalito City Council today at 8 p.m. in city hall. The council will meet to consider agenda items not completed at its regular meeting of Nov. 17.

Hearing Set For Preserve Cutback

Owners of land within Marin's agricultural preserve area, which is recommended for a big cutback, will get a public hearing before the Marin County Planning Commission on Dec. 7 at the Civic Center.

Commissioners yesterday set the public hearing by 4 to 2 vote, with Jack G. Nixon absent.

TWO DISSENTERS

The two dissenters, Walter F. Freitas and Eugene R. Trombley, said that a discussion on Dec. 7 would be sufficient because the county counsel has ruled that a formal "public hearing" would not be needed. They argued that a public hearing would require notices to be sent to each landowner within the agriculture preserve area, which covers two-thirds of the entire county.

On a motion by Hugh Dougherty and a second by Margaret B. Azevedo, the commissioners set the public hearing for Dec. 7, with notices to be sent to 49 landowners whose lands will be taken out of the agricultural preserve contract. The rest will be notified by advertisements in newspapers.

Of Marin's land mass of 333,440 acres, 213,264 acres are designated as agricultural preserve land which can qualify for lower taxes if the owners sign a preserve contract with the county. Only 92,000 acres are under agricultural preserve contract.

FOUR MONTH STUDY

After a four-month study, the Marin Land Conservation Advisory Committee recommended that the agricultural preserve area be cut back to 92,000 acres, the area already under preserve contract. The Land Conservation Advisory Committee also recommended that 49 smaller parcels (less than 100 acres each) that are under preserve contract should have their contracts revoked because they are not bona fide agricultural land.

Marin County Board of Supervisors will make the final decision.

Superior Court Due Theft Case

It was reported yesterday in Marin Superior Court that the case of Richard Anthony Alonzo, 18, of no known address, was not acceptable to juvenile court because of his long juvenile criminal record.

Alonzo is accused of burglarizing and possessing stolen property from the Planned Parenthood Association office in San Rafael on Aug. 30.

He pleaded innocent to the charges yesterday, and a jury trial was set for the week of Jan. 4 in Marin Superior Court.

Kentfield Objects To Toussin Development

Several Kentfield residents charged yesterday that traffic along Sir Francis Drake Boulevard near Ross General Hospital is already congested, and any dense apartment development on Toussin Avenue would make life unbearable.

A half-dozen residents appeared before the Marin County Planning Commission to oppose a planned apartment zoning sought by Gus Niederholzer of 30 Toussin Avenue on his three-acre property on the north side of Geary Avenue at Toussin.

County Planning Director Werner von Gundell said the area is now zoned for garden apartments with a density of 28 units per acre. "We are at a loss as to why it was zoned for such density in the first place because the hills are very steep and the streets narrow," said Von Gundell. He asked for a continuance until Dec. 21 so that his staff can study the area in more detail.

Planning Commissioners decided they would make a field trip to the area at noon on Dec. 7 and continue the discussion on Dec. 21.

Niederholzer's application for rezoning asked for a density of 30 units per acre, but his architect, Robert Goetz, said the 30 unit density is a mistake. "We're now allowed 28 units per acre, but we have no intent to get that type of density. We thought 15 to 20 units per acre would be feasible."

Residents protested that traffic is impossible now along Toussin and Geary Avenues, and any added apartment units would be tragic. Even now, cars trying to get onto Sir Francis Drake Boulevard must wait 10 minutes at a time to pull out, they declared.

The Marin County Planning Commission Also:

LAND DIVISION — Approved a lot split on 1.4 acres of land owned by the estate of Marie L. Silveira at the end of Manana Way north of Point Reyes Station. A portion of Manana Way must be paved. The planning director also recommended that a fire hydrant be installed, but planning commissioners tossed out that requirement.

ENGLISH PUB — Decided by a 4-to-3 vote that resort-commercial zoning is justified at the entrance to Muir Beach, where Charles R. Felix wants to build an English pub and inn. The motion, by Eugene R. Trombley, got support from Jack G. Nixon, Edward Hageman, and Walter F. Freitas. Dissenting were Margaret B. Azevedo, Hugh Dougherty, and John F. West. The majority finding will go to the county supervisors for rezoning approval.

SUBDIVISION — Unanimously approved the tentative map of a subdivision on four acres near the corner of Hicks Valley Road and Eucalyptus Avenue west of Novato for Marinways Inc.

Action Is Asked In Genocide Bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Foreign Relations Committee voted 10 to 2 Monday to recommend Senate ratification of a 21-year-old treaty to outlaw genocide.

However, Senate action this session appeared unlikely, and there was some doubt that the treaty against systematic extermination of races of people will be put to a vote next year.

President Nixon has called for ratification of the treaty but it is opposed by the American Bar Association and some other groups which contend it has legal flaws.

Brandt In Italy

ROME (UPI) —West German Chancellor Willy Brandt began a two-day official visit to Italy today and scheduled two long meetings with Premier Emilio Colombo for talks on European security and matters of mutual interest.

Jail Term For Rock Throwing

SAN JOSE (UPI)—Gregory Bloom, 30, a San Jose State College psychology major, was sentenced Monday to 60 days in jail for leading a rock-throwing demonstration against the invasion of Cambodia last May 30.

The student and his brother, Randall Bloom, 25, were identified as leaders of a demonstration march which became a rock-throwing melee in which a number of windows were smashed.

Randall Bloom has not been caught.

Influence Peddler Fined $10,000

NEW YORK (UPI)—Admitted influence peddler Nathan Voloshen, broken in health and in financial difficulty, was fined $10,000 today in federal court on his plea of guilty to a charge of misusing the office of House Speaker John McCormack for his personal gain.

U.S. District Judge Marvin Frankel suspended imposition of a jail sentence because of the 72-year-old Voloshen's ill health but placed him on probation for one year.

Future Use Of Buildings Is Outlined

A report on future use of School District was presented to school buildings in the Sausalito trustees last night by member Robert R. Lyon, chairman of the board's facilities committee.

Although Lyon stressed no final decision has been reached on which school's will remain in use and which will be closed, he said two plans are being considered at the present time.

One proposal calls for keeping Manzanita School in Marin City as a kindergarten and putting grades 1-3 at Bayside and grades 4-8 at Martin Luther King. The second plan would also leave kindergarten at Manzanita, but located all other grades at King, a plan similar to that proposed last year by former principal Sidney F. Walton Jr., who called for a one-campus school (at King) for all eight grades.

Making final determination of facilities, Lyon said the committee will consider how the use would affect the efficiency of school programs. Another important factor would be cost, he added.

The Sausalito School District board also:

ADVISORY COUNCIL — Authorized Supt. Lawrence A. Lindberg to select parents, teachers and students to form a superintendent's advisory council to meet regularly to hear concerns, ideas, suggestions and problems and to attempt to find solutions.

INTERDISTRICT TRANSFER — Postponed action until Dec. 14 on a request from Mrs. Hans A. Burg to allow her two children to attend school in another district.

DOCUMENTS — Authorized Lindberg to sign certain documents, including employment contracts, payroll and purchase orders, warrants and voucher requests, in behalf of the board.

YOUTH CORPS — Agreed to hire a clerical aide and maintenance aid from the Neighborhood Youth Corps which will pay the salaries of the two aides.

ADMINISTRATIVE ASSISTANT — Designated Robert Thompson as administrative assistant to the superintendent.

NEW AIDES — Authorized Lindberg to hire three new Title I aides, two for kindergarten and one for first grade and four playground supervisor aides. The Title I aides will work 20 hours a week at $2.80 an hour and the playground aides five hours a week at the same salary.

Lockup At Folsom Prison Is Ended

FOLSOM, Calif. (UPI) —The 19-day-old general lockup of more than 2,000 inmates at Folsom prison ended Monday with 80 to 90 per cent of the prisoners returning to their normal work assignments.

Huel Morphis, program administrator at the prison, said officials were "very optimistic" that all the convicts would be back on their jobs today.

Morphis said 10 inmates were locked up during work hours Monday for trying to urge other convicts to continue the work strike .But he said there were no incidents of violence.

Prof. Brainard (Fred MacMurray) and his attractive wife, Betsy (Nancy Olson) go for a ride in their flying flivver in this scene from Walt Disney's wacky comedy, "Son of Flubber," starring MacMurray, Miss Olson and Keenan Wynn. Robert Stevenson directed the Bill Walsh screen play. It opens Wednesday at the Rafael theater with daily matinee showings at 1:30 p.m. for the Thanksgiving school vacation. Cohit is "Elephants Walk Slowly."

Plans On Tiburon Trails Are Delayed

The Tiburon City Council, after holding a two-hour public hearing on the Tiburon trails plan last night, decided it did not have enough information to act.

Although all councilmen said they favored the plan, three wanted to delay its adoption so the council's lands and development committee could study other proposals.

Primary among these was a plan advanced last night by Neill Smith, of 3825 Paradise Drive, which would substitute a cross-peninsula trail system and extensive open land along Tiburon's Ridgeland for the ridge trail.

Smith, who said he spoke for five other persons owning about 240 acres of land in the trail's path, opposed adoption of the plan, which envisions a hiking path from the Keil Cove area on the southeastern tip of the Tiburon Peninsula to Highway 101 in the hills of Alto Grade.

He instead asked the council to consider a trail parallel to Paradise Drive on the northeastern side of the Peninsula. In exchange, he offered "scenic easements" on a large portion of the ridgeland.

Such easements, he explained, would be similar to agricultural preserves, and would run for a minimum of 10 years. During that time no development would be allowed, though the land would remain in private ownership and not be dedicated as a public park.

Robert H. Wayne, of 180 Hacienda Drive, one of the property owners Smith spoke of, complained that "nobody's asked the property owners what they think of the plan.

"Views from the proposed trail would be only toward the East Bay," he said. He contended that the need for a path along the Paradise Drive shoreline already exists and outweighs the need for a ridge trail.

He was disputed, however, by former Tiburon Mayor Gordon W. Strawbridge, who said that both trails are necessary.

Rupet Jernigan, of 25 North Terrace Court, urged the council to "stick with the subject at hand and not be distracted by alternate plans."

But councilmen clearly were interested in Smith's offer. "The first hearing on the trails plan was only held two weeks ago," said Mayor Denis T. Rice, "and I think we could afford to study this new proposal and any others."

Two councilmen, Anne L. Ellinwood and M. Carlisle Becker, said they wanted to see the plan approved last night, but when it became evident that the other three council members favored a delay, they agreed to a continuance.

The matter will come up again for possible adoption Dec. 7. The council's lands and development committee will in the meantime work with Smith and any other persons with alternate proposiitons.

The Tiburon City Council Also:

EOC — Ratified Rice's appointment of Edward Parnell, 8 Felipa Court, as Tiburon's representative to the Marin County Economic Opportunity Council.

ROSE — Voted a resolution of appreciation and presented a plaque to City Mgr. Lawrence D. Rose, who leaves Tiburon Dec. 1 to become city manager of Newport Beach in Orange County.

NUISANCE — Instructed its staff to prepare a resolution ordering Ralph C. Noah to abate a nuisance at 6 Rolling Hills Road, a house that the city contends violates the height restriction.

PARKS AND RECREATION — Approved on second reading an ordinance establishing the city's parks and recreation commission.

NEXT MEETING — Adjourned to Monday at 7:30 p.m. at city hall to finish items from last night's agenda.

Ferry Rate Hike Angers Councilmen

Harbor Carriers, which provides ferry service between Tiburon and San Francisco, better shape up or ship out, the Tiburon City Council warned last night.

Councilmen were angered by the company's recent rate increase, which raised commute fares from 50 to 67.5 cents per ride.

"I cannot in any way see that it (the increase) was justified," said Councilman Branwell D. Fanning.

Both he and Councilman Albert H. Sennett said the city was considering "overtures" to the Golden Gate Bridge District to run the service, although Fanning said the council and Harbor Carriers both knew that the district could not do so "at this time."

Mayor Denis T. Rice said the council would discuss the matter at its next meeting Monday.

3 Burglaries In San Rafael

Three burglaries of businesses in San Rafael were reported by police today.

Tools valued at $136 were taken from the auto shop at San Rafael High School between 12:30 p.m. Saturday and 8:25 a.m. Sunday, police said.

A thief who kicked in the rear door of Hyams-Dressling Insurance Company at 305 Mission Avenue, Apt. 1, took a $150 typewriter, according to police.

A gasoline motor valued at $205 was taken between Friday and yesterday from the Marin Sign Company, 350 Fourth Street, police said.

Ban On Soccer

CAIRO (UPI) — Cairo's youngsters will no longer be allowed to play soccer in the streets under a new city law.

Petaluma Discusses New Revenue Ideas

New sources of revenue through new taxes and fee increases were considered informally last night by the Petaluma City Council with an eye toward supporting a larger 1971-72 budget.

The council considered recommendations made by the city-wide finance committee and came up with a few proposals of its own, but said more study would be needed with no final decision to be made until early next year.

The finance committee had recommended that the monthly sewer charge of $2 by increased to $2.46 to cover both maintenance and operation of the sewer plant and debt service on outstanding bonds.

The council rounded off the proposed increase to $2.50 and agreed that sewer connection fees, recently doubled from $300 to $600 for residences, should be reserved for capital improvement rather than plant operation.

City Mgr. Robert H. Meyer said an alternative plan would be to increase the basic property tax rate of $1.50 per $100 assessed valuation by 20 cents. He said the increase would bring an additional $90,000.

The finance committee had recommended the property tax rate increase, saying it would be logical because property taxes are deductible from state and federal income taxes whereas other taxes would not be.

The council also considered a utility tax on telephone, cable television, gas and electricity. Meyer said a 5 per cent tax would bring a minimum of $190,760, based on population two years ago.

Meyer said he would also prepare a plan for a utility tax on the city water charges that may delay the necessity of taxing other utilities.

Councilman Robert A. Brunner asked Meyer to prepare a plan to institute a fee for annexations, using the theory that new developments should pay their share of additional city services required.

In finances, Meyer asked the council to give some thought to setting a policy on the number of policemen and firefighters needed. He suggested a ratio of one officer per 1,000 new residents.

Meyer also asked the council to consider setting a policy on methods of financing capital improvements. He said some might be placed on a pay-as-you-go basis, while others might be set for bond issues, including parks, new equipment, streets, civic buildings drainage, parking and special studies.

Girl Injured In Bike-Auto Mishap

An 18-year-old San Anselmo woman was injured at 11:20 a.m. yesterday in a bicycle-auto accident on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard and Lagunitas Drive, Ross, police reported.

Arilenne Grace Werbelow of 36 Sequoia Drive, was treated for multiple scrapes at Marin General Hospital.

She was riding a bicycle southbound on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard and collided with a car driven by Steven L. Blair of 752 of 752 Penny Royal Lane, San Rafael, police reported.

Philip Looks At Industrial Strife

LONDON (UPI)—Prince Philip thinks British workers who threaten to strike may be frustrated by their jobs rather than after more money.

Addressing an industrial society conference dinner Monday night, Queen Elizabeth's husband said more money and better employment conditions were not enough to satisfy men and women doing boring jobs.

ART REVIEW

A Closer Look At Two Artists' Work

By LAURA DEVENDORF

SAN FRANCISCO — Two Marin painters, Alton Raible and Martin Stoelzel, are among a small group exhibiting through Dec. 5 at the Jason Aver Gallery, 157 Maiden Lane. And while much of their work has been seen piecemeal in shows before, it helps seeing a group of their things all at once.

Otherwise, Raible might be thought to be four different people. He breaks up his product into four distinct things, bird paintings, portraits, drawings, and abstracts of enamel and water, all of which only loosely relate to each other.

His most familiar pieces are probably his bird paintings. It is hard to forget a thing which moves you to laughter. And these cynical satires show the gamut of human frailties through outrageous, expressive birds which are very, very funny. "The First, Most Enduring Love" is particularly choice. It shows a bird devotedly ogling his reflection in the water.

As unresolved as the bird messages are pointed, are the artist's abstract floats of color which happen through the admixture of enamel and water. As accidents, they pass. But there is little of the artist in them unlike his other very personal work including his wistful, innocent children's portraits.

But of all the things he tries, Raible's pencil drawings seem the most important. Precise and technically flawless, their concepts also seem the deepest and most clear. A gentle child "Adrift in Time," and the male-female conflict of the "Intimate Enemies" he so adroitly symbolizes, are his smoothest blend of idea and design, of the artist and art.

Stoelzel reaches this state in most of his paintings. A superb draughtsman, he combines elusive segments of the human form with hard shapes, with atmospheric drapery, with mist and stripes and color.

Sometimes the images burn white or furnace red. At others, figures seem bound in some dark, violent purgatory. And at others, they seem parts of dreams where things blend and bleed in and out of each other — where hair flows into streaks ending finally, in a zebra's stripes.

All Stoelzel's paintings are surreal as are his equally suggestive drawings. The drawings again combine parts of nudes with a sort of vaporous symbolism. And they underscore Eoelzel's exquisite draughtsmanship while emphasizing his special finesse in joining literal segments of reality with the deep subconscious, so that they have a heightened total reality about them.

Showing with Raible and Stoelzel are Tom Brittain, Martin Schmidt and Albert Dolmans. Brittain's handsome watercolors have the same structure and vastness as Eric Obach's. While his spattered grasses in winter-wet browns have Andrew Wyeth's touch.

Dolmans paints the rural scene with realistic warmth. While Schmidt selects still lifes and such, paints tiny pictures of them in an extraordinarily literal way and then blows it with colors so poisonous and so grossly overdone that an orange has the same shocked hue as those safety vests worn by highway workmen.

Pope To Stop In East Pakistan

VATICAN CITY (UPI)—Pope Paul VI will stop over for one hour in disaster-stricken East Pakistan Friday on his way to Manila, the Vatican announced today.

It said he will arrive in Dacca at 1:15 a.m. Friday and fly on to Manila after one hour.

The pope's scheduled departure from Rome Thursday was advanced two hours and 25 minutes to fit in the Decca stop. The arrival in Manila was set for 9 a.m. Friday.

Sentencing Set In Pot Possession

Bernardo Morales Sanchez, 27, of Sausalito, pleaded guilty yesterday in Marin Superior Court to a charge of possessing marijuana last December.

Sentencing was set for Dec. 18.

Sanchez was arrested when he was a passenger in a car driven by a man who had reportedly hit the manager of Disco in San Rafael with a gun butt.

Cigarette Health Warning Under Study

LONDON (UPI)—The House of Commons was told Monday the government is considering making a printed health warning compulsory on all cigarette packets in Britain.

Nicolas Ridley, social services parliamentary secretary, said the government was studying the idea.

Soviet Crewman's Defection Try

BOSTON (UPI)—A Soviet crewman tried to defect to the United States Monday by seeking political asylum aboard a U.S. Coast Guard cutter which was tied up to a Russian fishing "mothership" at sea.

However, at the request of the Soviet captain, the crewman was returned to his ship, a spokesman at Coast Guard Search and Rescue Headquarters here said today.

Details of the incident off Martha's Viney ard were sketchy but the try for asylum took place Monday afternoon as the cutter Vigilant, a 210-foot craft out of New Bedford, was tied to the mothership. U.S. and Russian officials were conferring on board the Soviet vessel about fishing rights in he North Atlantic.

Window Vandalized

A vandal shattered a $90 window in a door at the Marin Boat House, 115 Third Street, between 10 p.m. Friday and 8 a.m. yesterday, according to San Rafael police.

King Holiday Backers In Plea

NEW YORK (UPI)—A group that wants the birthday of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. recognized as a national holiday said Monday opposition to its goal would crumble if the slain Negro rights leader had been "of another hue."

Making King's birthday—Jan. 15—a holiday "is the least that the nation can do," the National Citizens Committee for Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. holiday said in a statement.

Robes To Monks

BANGKOK (UPI) — The government's religious affairs department plans to send 100 robes to buddhist monks living in East Pakistan areas damaged by the Nov. 12 cyclone and tidal waves. Officials said there are about 1,000 Buddhist temples in Pakistan, a predominantly Muslim country.

The Most Exciting Headache News In Years!

Doctors' Tests In Treating Nervous Tension Headaches Now Made Public

Non-Narcotic Tablet (that needs no prescription) Proves Just As Effective As The Expensive, Leading Pain-Relief Prescription Of Doctors.

In recent medical tests doctors proved a famous tablet that needs no prescription gives the same complete headache relief as the expensive, leading prescription of doctors.

These doctors' tests proved, beyond a doubt, that Anacin is just as effective to relieve tension headaches, yet Anacin needs no prescription and is far more economical.

With Anacin, headache pain and its nervous tension vanish in minutes. Despite its strength, Anacin is not narcotic. You can take it without getting dizzy or an upset stomach.

Next time take powerful, fast-acting Anacin®. Anacin Tablets give the same complete headache pain relief as the leading prescription product for which doctors wrote 21 million prescriptions last year.

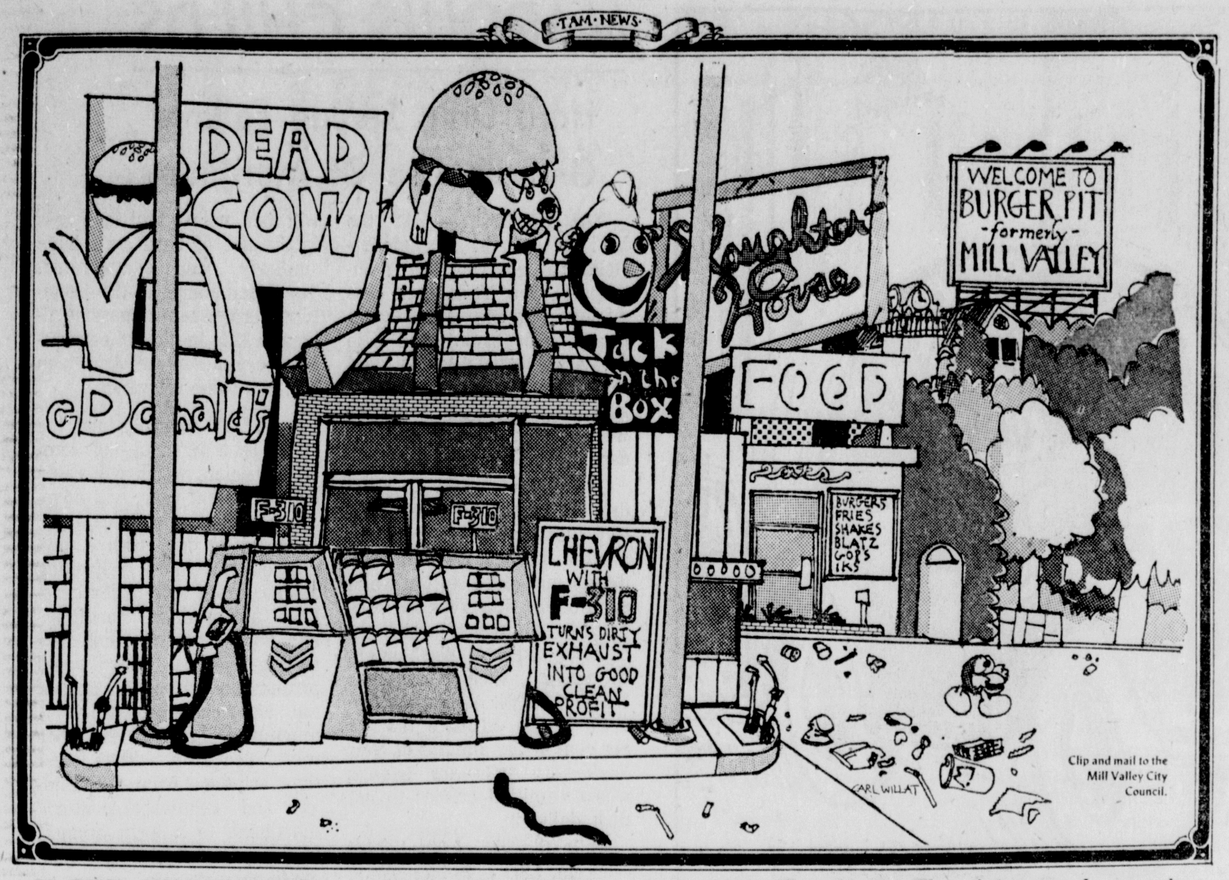
SERVING ALL OF MARIN COUNTY
THIRD SECTION SAN RAFAEL, CALIFORNIA, TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 24, 1970 17



IS THIS MILL VALLEY? — Burger Pit, a city crammed with service stations and chain hamburger stands is the gloomy vision of the future Mill Valley by Carl Willat, a junior at Tamalpais High School, whose work appears in this week's issue of the Tam News. The picture and a number of articles chastising the city for allowing more drive-in restaurants, were compiled for the issue by Tamalpais journalism students.

ODE TO ILL VALLEY

Students Chide Council On Development Policy

A group of Tamalpais High School students, concerned about the stampede of developers building hamburger stands and gas stations in Mill Valley, has chided the city fathers in the latest issue of the Tam News.

The special section devoted to "Burger Pit, formerly Mill Valley," makes satirical comments about the city's newest eat-and-run and fill-and-run establishment. It includes such articles as "Mill Valley Fights Back -- or -- Does This Ring a Taco Bell?", "Welcome to Los Angeles North," and "What's Your Beef — 100 Per Cent?"

Student writer Ben Alvord traces the reasons for the Mill Valley City Council's recent refusal to permit a restaurant-bar, with live entertainment, on Miller Avenue.

If Mill Valley residents pay high taxes so they do not have to put up with businesses they don't want in their town, why all the burger palaces and service stations, Alvord wants to know. "Is this what you pay for and is this what you want?" he asks. "If so, keep paying."

Carl Willat, another student, notes that Mill Valley will have 14 service stations when the new Gulf service station, at the corner of Camino Alto and East Blithedale Avenue, is completed and he complains of the resultant garishness.

Calling Miller Avenue, where the school is located, "Hamburger Alley," Willat blames the upsurge in hamburger stands on high school students who "seem to enjoy pretending that typical drive-in fare is food and gobble it up at every opportunity."

He also notes that "the smaller, less ostentatious ones (restaurants) that were here before Mill Valley became a mecca for developers are experiencing a decline in business."

A highlight of the special section as a parody of the city's official song, "Mill Valley," to be sung to the same tune. Written by Nathan Herrell, "Ill Valley," describes the plight of the town:

"It's really easy to be found
Because there's litter all around
And the neon lights shine just as bright as the sun
Ill Valley, talkin about Ill Valley, nausea's home.
. . . You can even have an imitation shake
Just remember that the burger meat is fake
And the french fries taste even worse than they look.
. . . So by the time you start to heave
You may think it's time to leave
But the traffic's so bad your stay has just begun . . ."

To insure that their complaints to Mill Valley's "new look" reach the right people, the section includes a small notice: clip and mail to the Mill Valley City Council.

Blaine Resigns Post As Juvenile Referee

Marin Juvenile Court referee Jack L. Blaine resigned yesterday and retired Superior Court Judge Jordan L. Martinelli has agreed to fill the position temporarily, Juvenile Court Judge Samuel W. Gardiner said today.

Judge Gardiner said that Blaine, who has heard juvenile cases for the past two years as a volunteer, gave business pressure and health problems as the reasons he was no longer able to serve as a referee.

Judge Gardiner said that Judge Martinelli agreed to serve for 90 days while Referee James D. Adams is on a vacation in the South Pacific.

The other juvenile court referee is Harold G. King, who was appointed about a month ago because of the heavy case load in juvenile court.

The referees serve without pay, handling juvenile criminal cases as appointed by Judge Gardiner, who is usually involved in adult trials.

Sanitary District To Join Study

Directors of the Sausalito-Marin City Saniatry District last night voted to enter into an improvement district being formed by the Marin Municipal Water District, chairman Cyril G. Hansen reported.

The improvement district, which the water district hopes will include all sanitary districts in southern Marin, will finance a study of sewage disposal in that area, Hensen said.

The board also agreed to hold its next meeting on Dec. 21, instead of Dec. 28, because of the Christmas holidays.

Meeting Postponed

A neighborhood study session on alignment of Tiburon Boulevard from the Belvedere Tennis Club to downtown Tiburon, scheduled for tomorrow, has been postponed to next Tuesday at 8 p.m. at city hall because of the Thanksgiving holiday, according to Planning Director Wayne E. Moody.

Sixth Army Summons Supervisors

The commanding general of the Sixth Army, who made a "gentleman's agreement" with Mayor Joseph L. Alioto to build housing in Marin rather than at the Presidio of San Francisco, has invited Marin County Board of Supervisors to discuss use of Army land on the Marin side of the bridge.

County Planning Director Werner Von Gundell announced late yesterday that Lt. General Stanley R. Larsen had invited Marin supervisors to a luncheon at the Presidio tomorrow from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. Von Gundell said he was also invited to sit in on the discussion.

He said the general wants to dsicuss "the use of Army lands in Marin." The planning director told the commissioners he believes the discussion will have to do with construction of housing units on Army land on the Marin side of Golden Gate Bridge.

Last week, General Larsen assured San Francisco that any housing needed for personnel working at the Presidio should be built at Fort Baker. This alarmed Marin conservationists, who fear that construction at Fort Baker would jeopardize the Golden Gate Headlands State Park along the Marin headlands.

Slim Summer School Funds Pose Threat

Mill Valley's summer school program, which last year cost the district $40,000, may not be held next year because of a lack of funds, the director of business services warned last night.

Carroll D. Killingsworth said he told the district board that a slim budget and rising costs may force cancellation of the program. Some 1,200 students enrolled in the four-week course last year.

The board referred the report to the Mill Valley Parent-Teacher Association council for its study and recommendation, Killingsworth said.

The Mill Valley School District Board also:

AUDIO-VISUAL — Confirmed Supt. James A. Collins' signing of a $6,300 contract with the Marin County Schools Department for audio-visual services.

HIRING — Employed Heidi Schmitz as an art teacher at Edna Maguire school at a $5,932 salary for the balance of the year.

CONSTRUCTION — Heard a report that construction of the Middle School is proceeding on schedule.

SKELTON — Expressed grief at the death of Dr. Glenn Skelton, Middle School principal, and adjourned the meeting in his memory.

Guilty Plea In Burglaries

Floyd Kermit Ware, 19, of San Francisco, pleaded guilty yesterday in Marin Superior Court to three charges stemming from burglary arrests.

He admitted burglaring a Tamalpais Valley house June 4, attempting to burglarize one in Belevedere on May 16 and possessing stolen property from a Kent Woodlands house on July 21.

The first two crimes were felonies and the third one a misdemeanor.

Rohnert Park Recreation Chief Named

The Rohnert Park Recreation Commission learned last night that James Pekkain of Newark has been hired as the city's first full-time recreation director.

City Mgr. Peter M. Callinan told the commission that Pekkain will start work on Jan. 4. Thomas West, who has been director on a part-time basis while attending Sonoma State College, will continue on the staff as head of the acquatics program.

Pekkain, 33, has been employed with the Newark Parks and Recreation Department since 1964. He has a degree in recreation from San Jose State College and also has recreation experience in Pacifica and Sunnyvale.

Pekkain, who was selected from a total of 115 applicants, is married and the father of three children. His starting salary will be $930 per month.

Judge Orders Examination

Judge E. Warren McGuire of Marin Superior Court yesterday appointed two doctors to examine Ronald Paul Rowell, 23, to determine if he is a mentally disordered sex offender.

Rowell had earlier, pleaded guilty to a charge of molesting several small girls in Novato in the period December 1969 and March 1970.

Head Sets Stolen

Four $12 head sets for deaf pupils were stolen from Gallinas School in Santa Venetia during the weekend, sheriff's officers said today.

Split Over Tree Cutting Ordinance

The Corte Madera Board of Design and the town staff split last night over interpretation of a town ordinance governing the cutting of trees.

Arthur N. Morrison, town engineer, said today the board told Albert E. Quinto of 9 Privateer Drive he did not need board approval to remove trees on private property.

Morrison said he earlier required Quinto to file an application since the ordinance states removal of trees over three inches in diameter requires board action.

"The town council will have to look into this one," Morrison said.

The design board also approved landscaping and additions to the building at 601 Tamalpais Drive which Nicholas Daphne of San Francisco proposes to use as a mortuary.

In its final action, the board set Friday at 9 a.m. at the town park for a special meeting to consider selection of a circular slide for the children's playground.

Tam High Board Selects Firm

The Tamalpais High School District board yesterday selected a Santa Rosa construction firm for storm drainage improvements at Sir Francis Drake High School.

Selected was Argonut Construction with a low bid of $29,684. Five other bids were received ranging to a high of $49,962 submitted by William R. Cole Co., of Berkeley.

In other action yesterday, the board approved the hiring of Myron Max Poppers as an instructor at the district's continuation school. He will be paid $10,200 per year.

Over 5,000 Rubella Shots Given So Far

The total stood at 4,942 after 774 were immunized at three schools yesterday, but 290 more were given shots at Henry C. Hall and St. Patrick's schools in Larkspur this morning, according to Dr. Carolyn Albrecht, the county health officer.

Dr. Albrecht said only a small number of those vaccinated this morning were pre-school children and urged that parents of pre-school youngsters bring their young to future clinics in the remaining three weeks of the campaign.

Dr. Albrecht said she hopes that 80 per cent of the county's 47,000 children between 1 and 11 will be vaccinated.

Rubella, when contracted by pregnant women, may cause crippling deformities and deaths to unborn babies. A major outbreak of the disease has been predicted for coming months.

The clinic was to move later today to Larkspur-Corte Madera School and Ross School.

The schedule the rest of this week is:

TOMORROW — Glenwood School at 9 a.m.; San Pedro School at 10:30 a.m., Santa Venetia School at 1 p.m.; 3-R School at 2 p.m.

No clinic is scheduled Thursday or Friday, but the schedule through Dec. 15 is as follows:

Nov. 30 — 9 a.m. John MacPhail, 10 a.m. Gallinas, 11 a.m. Blessed Sacrament, 1 p.m. West End, 2 p.m. Sun Valley.

Dec. 1 — 9 a.m. Oliver Hartnell, 10 a.m. Nova Albion, 11 a.m. Dca Timoteo, 1 p.m. St. Isabella, 2 p.m. Bernard Hoffman.

Dec. 2 — 9 a.m. Santa Margarita, 10:30 a.m. Oak View, 12:30 p.m. Dixie, 2 P.M. Lucas Valley.

Dec. 3 — 9:30 a.m. Tomales, 11 a.m. West Marin, 12:30 p.m. Inverness, 2 p.m. Bolinas.

Dec. 4 — 8:45 a.m. St. Anselms, 9:45 a.m. Wade Thomas, 10:45 a.m. Isabel Cook, 1 p.m. Yolansdale, 1:45 p.m. Sleepy Hollow.

Dec. 7 — 9 a.m. Brookside, 10:15 a.m. Deer Park, 11 a.m. Central, 1 p.m. Manor, 2 p.m. St. Rita's.

Dec. 8 — 9 a.m. Lagunitas, 10:30 a.m. Nicasio, 1:30 p.m. Mary Silveira.

Dec. 9 — 9 a.m. Central, 10:15 a.m. Manzanita, 11 a.m. Bayside, 12:15 p.m. Martin Luther King, 1:30 p.m. Loma Verde.

Dec. 10 — 8:45 a.m. Olive, 10:15 a.m. Marion, 11:30 a.m. Our Lady of Loretto, 1 p.m. Lu Sutton.

Dec. 11 — 8:45 a.m. Lynwood, 10:15 a.m. Rancho, 1 p.m. San Ramon.

Dec. 14 — 8:45 a.m. Pleasant Valley, 10:15 West Novato, 1:45 p.m. St. Hilary's.

Dec. 15 — 8:30 a.m. Meadow Park, 1 p.m. Pacheco.

Hearing Set For Snyder Lane District

The Rohnert Park City Council last night approved minor changes in the proposed Snyder Lane Assessment District and set a public hearing for Dec. 14 at 7 p.m.

The proposed district to widen and improve Snyder Lane was expanded to include an additional parcel and also split some large parcels into smaller assessment pieces.

The council also tentatively approved a proposal from Stern, Brenner and Co to purchase 88 per cent of the bonds. City Mgr. Peter M. Callinan said it had been expected the top offer would have been for 80 per cent of the bonds.

The Rohnert Park City Council also:

SOUTHWEST BOULEVARD — Heard that work on the new portion of Southwest Boulevard is complete with the exception of installation of street lights. Dedication ceremonies were set for Dec. 3 at 1 p.m.

SEWER PLANT — Approved a change order in construction of the waste water treatment plant that reduces the area to be paved.

Cascade Park Sewer Line Complaints

Complaints about construction of a sewer line through Mill Valley's Cascade Park were aired last night by the city's parks and recreation commission.

Members voted to notify the city council that they disapprove of the damage done to a pathway in the park as a result of the installation of the line, according to Don L. Dimitratos, parks and recreation director.

A list of recommendations on how the damage may be corrected also was sent to the city council, and the commission requested that any future work undertaken in city parks be subject to review by the panel.

The commission also heard that a newly initiated trial reservation program at the municipal tennis courts at Boyle Park appears not to be working.

Dimitratos said that players are ignoring the signup boards and playing on the courts without reserving them. Commissioner Robert Jenkins suggested placing a large sign on the courts listing the rules for the use, and commissioners agreed to discuss the proposal at their next meeting.

Corte Madera Firm Robbed

J and B Ford of Corte Madera yesterday reported two thefts of equipment including an air wrench and auto parts, police said today.

Officers said the air wrench, valued at $174 was taken Nov. 9 from the back of a pickup.

In a second report, J and B Ford said a battery, bracket and radiator cap were stolen sometime during the last three weeks from a new car parked behind the dealership at 5860 Paradise Drive.

Meet your Bell Savings Counselor

Mrs. Lila M. Haberman

What is a Bell Savings Counselor?

She's a person who represents Bell Savings and Loan Association here in Marin County. What's more she's a resident of Marin County and has been for 25 years. She's been deeply involved in the Savings and Loan business for 15 years. Before Marin County Savings and Loan merged to become Bell Savings, she was an important member of the Marin County Savings family.

What does a Bell Savings Counselor do?

Now, as a Bell Savings Counselor, she's in an important position to help you and your family. In private, she'll be happy to sit down, discuss your personal savings and financial goals -- confidentially -- and help you to establish a program of saving. She'll see that you receive the highest, guaranteed daily interest available on insured savings, and that's not all. After your account has been opened she and the rest of the members of the Bell Savings family will watch over your savings and when they reach a point where the amount you have saved is eligible for a higher rate, she'll help you convert your account to the higher yield. Call Mrs. Haberman now and set up an appointment, or just drop in at our office. There's no obligation, of course.

It's Important To Save Environment—Some Places

"Consistency, thou art a jewel," says an old proverb.

Mayor Joseph Alioto of San Francisco obviously is no believer in this proverb. He doubtless would subscribe instead to Ralph Waldo Emerson's: "A foolish consistency is the hobgoblin of little minds."

Last week, Mayor Alioto and Lt. Gen. Stanley R. Larsen, Sixth Army commander, ceremoniously signed a three-page memorandum in which the Army, via General Larsen, promised not to build more housing at the Presidio of San Francisco, and to provide the city with information on all "master planning, construction and real estate utilization" within the series of forts on the San Francisco side of the Golden Gate that make up the Presidio.

THE ARMY WAS agreeing to do this, said Mayor Alioto, to preserve the wooded beauty and open space of the Presidio. The Army and the city (as represented by its mayor) are sensitive to the necessity of preserving such open space as part of San Francisco's environment, he explained.

As to where the housing would be put if the Army needed any more, General Larsen took care of that very simply: Put it across the Golden Gate, at Fort Baker in Marin County.

There was no mention whatever of any agreement with Marin County to share master-planning for Forts Baker, Barry and Cronkite, which are under Presidio jurisdiction. Nobody even suggested such a thing.

It was quite a feather in the hatband of Mayor Alioto. He appeared in the role of preserver of San Francisco's beauty and environment — even at the cost of maybe playing hob with a planned scenic park in neighboring Marin County.

AT THE SAME TIME the mayor was taking his bows for signing up the Army to such an agreement, however, there was a lot of pulling and hauling going on in the San Francisco City Hall about another Alioto project: a proposed 550-foot building to be erected by United States Steel Co. on pilings to be driven into the Bay on city port property.

This is the port property, you may recall, which for many, many years was controlled by the state. The people in the statehouse over in Sacramento wouldn't let San Francisco control its own port because, quite frankly, they didn't trust the San Francisco politicians.

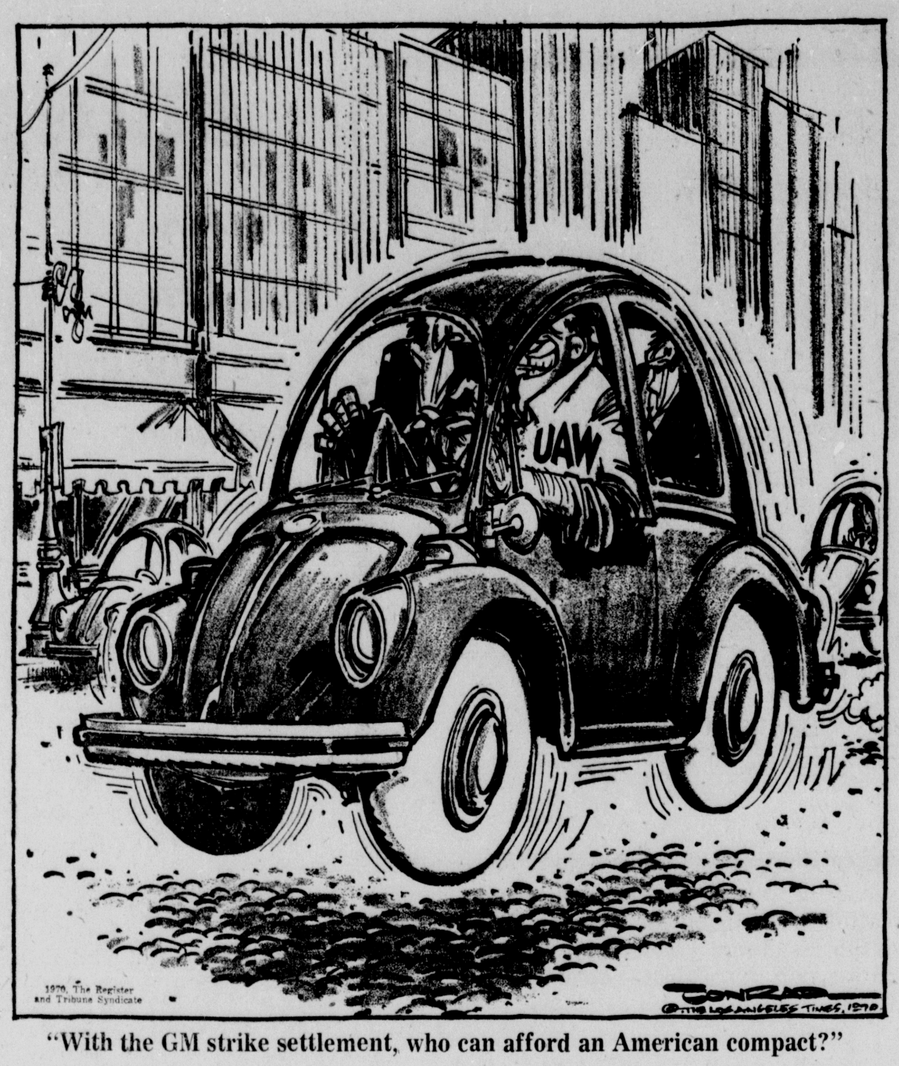
Last year, however, San Francisco legislators succeeded in getting a bill through to give the port back to the city. And not long after that, a series of proposals for development of port lands — not for shipping, but for real estate projects — started coming out of the San Francisco City Hall. Most controversial so far is the proposed U.S. Steel tower.

NOW, SOME MORE barracks or other housing on the Presidio would not make much difference to most San Franciscans. It could be concealed by all those trees that Mayor Alioto praised General Larsen for planting.

But a 550-foot tower on the waterfront — over the water itself, in fact — would wreck one of San Francisco's most prized vistas. It would, indeed, affect the environment — and not for the better.

But Mayor Alioto is all for the tower.

Yes, he obviously follows Emerson, who said also: "Speak what you think today in words as hard as cannon-balls, and tomorrow speak what tomorrow thinks in hard words again, though it contradict everything you said today."



"With the GM strike settlement, who can afford an American compact?"

Two New Signs 'Painful Display'

Two new signs now dwarf the old Greenbrae Co. building. The free-standing one is larger and more garish than any sign in the neighborhood during daylight hours, however, this unsightliness does not compare to the painful display of commercialism of both signs at night. The direct brightness and brightness contrast of these signs are tremendously distracting to drivers, and worse, they are disturbing to the residential environment.

Ordinance Study Committee Needed

I attended the San Anselmo City Council meeting on Oct. 27 when the abatement of two non-conforming units was to be acted upon.

I heard Mrs. Gay Cagy's plea for some answer to her situation: that of living in a residence that the city law determined illegal. When the council voted 4-1 to continue action on non-conforming units until a volunteer citizen advisory committe had studied the matter for 120 days, I was gratified to see San Anselmo taking into account the total concept of the law, both its legal and its human side.

On Nov. 10, the original decision of the council was reversed, apparently due to the city attorney's opinion on the illegality of delay in abatement proceedings on Mrs. Cagy.

In his statement to them, Mr. Buresh also questioned the advisibility of the council appointing a citizen advisory committee to study the nonconforming ordinance as it relates to single family zoning.

This committee has not been formed yet, but speaking as one who has applied to serve on it, my understanding of Councilman (Lewis W.) Stewart's motion was that this committee would be appointed to determine if there is a need to revise or supplement the existing law . . . I would suggest that Mr. Buresh stop giving political advice under the guise of legal opinion.

I would also hope that the San Anselmo City Council will take another look at this matter. . .

San Anselmo Council Defended

Many thanks for your very informative news article in the Nov. 17 I-J in regard to low and moderate income housing which was the subject of a public hearing at Marinwood Community Center. The reporter who covered the meeting did an excellent job concerning a topic of vital importance at this point in time.

In your article you state that Sarah Nome of San Anselmo "complained that the trend in San Anselmo is in the other direction with the city council ordering the abatement of about 200 or 300 second units that exist in one-family areas." As a former member of the San Anselmo City Council and presently as a member of the San Anselmo Planning Commission, I feel that Mrs. Nome's statement does our present city council an injustice and places the reputation and intent of our city government in jeopardy. In all fairness to our community I feel that Mrs. Nome should either (1) offer clearcut proof that our city council has, in fact, ordered the abatement of "about 200 or 300 second units" or (2) cease and desist from making such statements. I can assure your readers that our present city council is well aware of the critical housing problem and fully realizes that there is much hard work ahead before an intelligent and equitable solution is reached.

Brodnik Murder Acquittal Decried

The tragic news of the acquittal of the six Latinos accused of Officer (Joseph) Brodnik's murder was a sickening thing to read.

Officer Brodnik died in vain. I feel the judicial system is a disgrace. Officer Brodnik's partner saw him shot down by one of the six Latinos. I believe him when he said this. He himself was beaten up, his jaw broken and face bloodied. Yet the six Latinos went free!

I say abolish the jury system. I'll never have faith in it again.

(The jury heard much more testimony than what reader Jensen may have read in newspapers or seen on television. Also, the six did not go free, five of them facing other charges. — Editor.)

Those Rainbows Are Backwards

For whatever it may be worth, I should like the Highway Department painter to know that the very lovely rainbows painted around the twin Waldo tunnels are upside down. Red is the shortest color span in the spectrum and therefore should be at the inner curve and not at the top. However, any way they are painted, they brighten up my trip to Marin County.

Merrydale Road 'Speedway' Tragedy

Today it happened. The very thing that I have been anticipating would happen ever since I moved to Merrydale Road and wrote you a letter several years ago. As I was leaving for work this morning between 6:45 and 7 some idiot driver (that is the only nice name I can think of), speeding up Merrydale Road to Highway 101 hit a young deer on the side of the road and did not even stop. This could have been a child or someone's pet as well. Unfortunately, I was not able to catch the driver's license number but when he sees this he will realize who he is. This is a 25 mile per hour speed zone but most of the time you would think it is the warm-up track for the Indianapolis Speedway. Would the general public who uses Merrydale Road for an access road to Highway 101, please drive with a little caution and try to obey the speed laws and give all humans, and animals a chance to live?

Hard Drug Spread Follows Growing Use Of Marijuana

WASHINGTON — At the height of the Rockefeller-Goldberg governorship campaign in New York, each candidate made extravagant promises of money and help for heroin addicts. In the judgment of observers with expert knowledge, these promises were not only unrealistic but deceptive.

One thing is certain — the drug culture is spreading rapidly. It is spreading from the ghettos, where it has long been deeply embedded, to the white suburbs. In New York the estimate is 100,000 heroin addicts; in other cities — Washington, Cleveland, Chicago — from 10,000 to 20,000. A startling statistic is the estimate that 60 per cent of the inmates of New York City jails are addicts who committed crimes to get their daily fix.

While the use of hard stuff —heroin, LSD — is increasing, the big spread is in marijuana. Almost everyone concerned agrees that more and more young are smoking grass, which is readily available from pushers. This being true, a great many people — specialists, doctors, parents — are asking whether the present effort to punish those who sell and use marijuana is the correct one.

SO LITTLE is known from scientific research about the use of marijuana that authorities immediately concerned are flying blind.

A study two years ago by Drs. William McGlothlin and Jolvon West, psychiatrists at the University of Oklahoma, noted the hazards of continuing use of the drug, one being the role it plays in encouraging the hard stuff.

But they pointed to several reasons to believe that marijuana is less dangerous than alcohol. They said that "society is going ot have to take a more tolerant attitude toward marijuana."

Sensational reports turn the young smokers off when the dire consequences are not confirmed by their own experience. The danger is that they will then believe that the perils in the use of hard stuff have similarly been exaggerated. The resemblance to the prohibition era, when a massive illegal traffic in alcohol corrupted every aspect of American life, has some relevance.

A STUDY of drugs and the young by a distinguished woman physician, which will come out early next year, will advocate legalization of marijuana. It would be done with a government agency controlling the non-profit sale under carefully standardized conditions and with strict penalties protecting minors. This would presumably eliminate one of the worst abuses, which is marijuana laced with other more dangerous drugs, and the variations from the mildest and relatively nontoxic marijuana to a form brought in from Mexico close to hashish in potency.

The arguments on the other side are many. Even though marijuana may be proved hardly more harmful than alcohol, why legalize another drug when an estimated 7 per cent of present users of alcohol are alcoholics, sick human beings? That's several million people. And would not the legalization of marijuana open the way to, say, 7 per cent of more of all marijuana users becoming pot heads — a pot head being a chronic user as sodden with the stuff as an alcoholic with booze?

But the present situation, even with the federal law modified to make the use of marijuana a misdemeanor rather than a felony, is intolerable. A young college student who provided marijuana to his roommates at a small profit was sentenced recently to 25 years in prison. Laws vary in the 50 states, and conviction on a misdemeanor can mean a year in an overcrowded city jail or house of detention.

The facts, given all the rhetoric about "permissiveness," are hard to face up to. But they cannot be swept out of sight.

WINDOW ON THE WORLD

By PHIL NEWSOM, UPI Foreign News Analyst

As the United Nations completed its annual ritual of turning down Red China for U.N. membership and Red China's supporters retired from the field, they did so with that old rallying cry of sports, "wait 'til next year."

In Washington and at United Nations headquarters in New York, the United States took note and declared it a "new situation."

It was indeed, and it also was apparent that the United States, for 20 years Nationalist China's foremost supporter in the U.N., would have to review its position between the Nationalists on Formosa and the Reds on the mainland.

BY 51 TO 49, the U.N. General Assembly for the first time had given a majority vote to a resolution giving a seat for Red China in the world body. The same vote would have ousted the Nationalists.

That it did not happen was due to a U.S.-sponsored resolution which declared it an "important" question, thus requiring a two-thirds majority.

It was a situation which had more than its share of ridiculous aspects.

An important one was that although more than half the U.N. membership clearly supported Red China's membership, the admission of a nation advocating violent revolution just as clearly would violate the U.N. Charter limiting membership to those nations willing to support a peaceful solution to all disputes.

RED CHINA'S Ninth Party Congress in Peking in April, 1969, adopted a hard-line revolutionary action plan as its basic program at home and abroad.

However, this could be overlooked since, under the same conditions, approximately a third of the membership, including the United States, also could be denied U.N. membership.

There were these other details:

As a permanent member of the Security Council, Nationalist China presumably could veto any action threatening its seat.

This would leave Red China as a member of the General Assembly but not of the Security Council.

There also was the point that both Red China and Nationalist China have rejected the idea of a two-China possibility as advocated by the United States and many others.

The idea that 800 million mainland Chinese should be deprived of U.N. representation is in itself ridiculous. But, numbers aside, it seems equally ridiculous to oust 14 million others to reach such a goal. Some other solution should be possible.

AFFAIRS OF STATE

Signs Begin To Warn Citizens Of Bigger Tax Bite By State

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO (CNS)—One by one, almost unnoticed warning signs are coming up concerning the financial situation of the state for the next fiscal year.

Assembly Speaker Robert T. Monagan, R-Tracy, has announced there "probably will be a slight tax increase" at the next session of the legislature.

But more to the point, A. Alan Post, legislative analyst, has stated California is facing a serious financial crisis, which threatens to become worse.

Post's statement was made to the state Senate Finance Committee, which met earlier to go over the situation in a preliminary way. And the situation doesn't look good, from the taxpayer's standpoint.

This situation has repeated itself virtually annually for more years than we care to remember. The program will be to find ways of raising more money from an already imposed-upon public, which virtually for the past generation, or at least since World War II, has known no surcease from the need for more money to operate an expensive government.

Post points out that the state's fiscal picture is at about the same status as it was last May. This means about $300 million in added taxes will be required to maintain government in California in the plush style to which it is accustomed.

As a result, the tax experts will be working overtime to determine what they can do to increase the ante in the most vulnerable spots.

It's a good bet that the "sin" taxes, on liquor and tobacco, will escape increase, for the simple reason they are now so high as to be almost confiscatory.

This leaves the property tax as probably the best situated for increase, despite the hullabaloo over tax reform and the necessity for relieving the property taxpayer. This is because there just isn't any other place to go for increases.

Even with the admonition from analyst Post that "this is a bad year to talk about any cost-expanding programs" there will be plenty of talk about them, and effort will be made by liberal legislators to further commit taxpayers to unneeded programs.

Unfortunately, there has been no concerted effort to decrease expenditures, and probably won't be.

REMEMBER WHEN?

10 YEARS AGO

Nov. 24, 1960

Two hundred and twenty-two persons were killed in Thanksgiving Day accidents in the United States, according to an Associated Press compilation.

20 YEARS AGO

Nov. 24, 1950

A 100,000-man United Nations army launched an offensive which Gen. Douglas MacArthur said was geared to end the Korean War by Christmas.

San Rafael Chamber of Commerce announced it would send a delegation to endorse the proposed Richmond-San Rafael Bridge at a hearing at the Marin County Courthouse Dec. 14.

Want To Start Fight In Novato? Just Mention Diablo Triangle

If you want to start a fight in Novato, the magic words are "Diablo Triangle."

That's the tag that's been hung on a sleepy stretch of land that lends a semi-rural view to passersby, but gives the city council a headache.

Bounded by Center Road, South Novato Boulevard and Diablo Avenue, the triangular parcel represents a large chunk of downtown land, 213 acres, mostly vacant and largely undeveloped.

This open acreage, a rarity in a downtown area, has become a battleground for the traditional clash of property owners and planners.

SEDWAY AND COOKE, the city's planning consultants, recommended that the undeveloped area be developed into a "garden apartment complex clustered around a central open space focused on Warner Creek."

Triangle property owners, 14 in all, have battled to retain commercial zoning for their lands, and have called the consultant's recommendation a dream that isn't feasible.

They are facing public sentiment that Novato, with an ample supply of shopping centers, doesn't need another supermarket and chain drug store located at the site.

When debates heat up, there are charges that Sedway and Cooke designated the triangle area for apartments so commercial development could be channeled to the regional shopping center they have proposed for the Pinheiro Ranch property, north of the present downtown.

THE CITY planning staff has labeled the idea of having apartments close to the downtown area as sound, and feels it would enhance Warner Creek which runs through the triangle.

Property owners contended that the integrated plan for the proposed apartment development, requiring cooperation of all property owners, is impossible to achieve.

"It's hard enough to get two property owners together," Frank Perachiotti, a property owner, told the city council last week.

To achieve the apartment plan, the council would not only have to rezone property, but also revoke a use permit granted earlier this year for a supermarket and a drive-in restaurant, a situation loaded with legal problems and possibilities of law suits.

THE DECISION on the triangle undoubtedly will have an impact on the community and the entire downtown development.

There are many facets to the problem and the city council will need the wisdom of a Solomon, the heart of a lion and a couple of Superman capes to come out of the maze alive.

Small Infant Is 'Towed Away'

The mother found a note on the car saying her child was at the West End Central police station. Officers there told her traffic wardens had watched the car for 2-1-2 hours, then decided to remove the baby.

The mother got a parking ticket.

ART BUCHWALD

Answer To 'No Knock' Problem: Replace It With 'No Flush' Law

WASHINGTON — There was a shoot-out in Phoenixt last week which has national implications.

The police, taking advantage of a "no-knock" law, raided a house where they suspected hippies had narcotics. Unfortunately, at the time of the raid the hippies had moved out and a married couple had moved in. Since the raid took place at 1:30 in the morning, the husband refused to believe the men were police and shot one. He in turn was shot. The police sergeant said after the raid, "It was a misunderstanding. The couple probably felt they were defending their home against some hippies, and the officers thought they were fighting some criminals."

NOW, OPPONENTS of the "no knock" law have always claimed the big danger of it was that if the police enter someone's home without knocking they could get shot.

Since the Constitution permits you to defend your own home, it is possible that more policemen will be shot than narcotics will be found.

This will make the cops uptight, and so, to protect themselves, they'll start shooting first, and before you know it there will be blood baths all over the country.

The reason law enforcement officials say they need the "no knock" law is that, if they knock first, the suspects inside the house will flush narcotic evidence down the toilet. only a strong "no knock" law, they claim, can prevent anyone from dashing to the bathroom.

This sounds reasonable but, as we have seen in Phoenix, it can only lead to a shoot-out, because the people inside the house can never be certain that the people crashing into their home are policemen.

THERE IS a solution to this problem which we think could satisfy the law-and-order people, as well as the innocent home owner.

I am proposing that the "no knock" law be stricken from the books and replaced with a "no flush" law.

This is how it would work: The police would still have to get a warrant to enter someone's home. They would also have to knock before entering. But if it were a narcotics or gambling raid, they would have to shout at the top of their voices, "This is a raid. Anyone who flushes the toilet will be arrested."

One policeman would be stationed by the water meter nearest the house or apartment to monitor any fluctuation in water pressure during the raid.

WHEN THE POLICE enter the apartment, they will have the authority to check the bathrooms. If anyone flushes during the raid, he will be assumed to have committed a crime, and this evidence will be accepted by the court as prima-facie evidence of guilt.

The "no flush" law may be considered by civil libertarians as an invasion of privacy, but it is certainly more acceptable than a "no knock" law, and safer, too. I made this suggestion at the annual meeting of the American Bar Association in St. Louis in a speech last summer, but they only laughed at me.

So I've decided to take my case to the public. Would you rather have the police crash in on you at 1 o'clock in the morning without warning? Or would you rather first hear a knock on the door and give up your bathroom privileges while they're searching through your home?

Chiropractors Win Big Round

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Senate Finance Committee has voted to include chiropractors' services as among those medical services covered by Medicare.

The services will be offered under the voluntary portion of Medicare under which costs are shared by the government and those who take the insurance and pay a monthly fee for it.

Including chiropractic services would cost an estimated $65 million to $75 million a year. Only manipulation of body structures will be covered; other practices of chiropractors will not be insured.

The extended coverages was written into a social security-medicare bill which goes before the Senate next month.

Bead, Hamilton Are Bound Over In Robbery Case

Two Marin City men, Brian V. Beard and Richard Charles Hamilton, have been bound over to Marin Superior Court on a charge of robbing two men in Sausalito Oct. 22.

They are to be arraigned next Monday.

Beard and Hamilton were charged after two Ohio men said that the Marin City men had offered to drive them to a restaurant when they couldn't find a taxi.

One of the men said that Beard grabbed his walle when he took it out to pay him. The out-of-town men said they grabbed and held Hamilton until police came, but Beard fled and later was identified from pictures.

'Welfare' Teacher Hasn't Been Paid

OAKLAND (UPI) — An $11,000-a-year school teacher, who was approved for welfare payments for the two months she did not work, has not yet been paid.

Welfare officials have protested the ruling which granted the unidentified woman welfare rights.

Robert Martin, director of the state department of social welfare said he reluctantly ratified a hearing officer's recommendation in the case. Attorneys are attempting to get the decision overruled and meanwhile the woman has not been paid.

The hearing officer had said the woman qualified under welfare rules during the two months. She took her teacher's pay over a 10-month period as is permitted for most teachers.

The woman is a mother of two, separated from her husband.

Commenting on the affair, Gov. Ronald Reagan said it was "incredible" that the school teacher should get welfare.

"He will not stand for this kind of abuse which is the kind of thing he has been trying to prevent," a spokesman said.

Dutch elm tree disease was discovered in the U. S. in the early 1930s.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Lungs Have Remarkable System To Filter Pollution From Air

Van Dellen

Most of us probably feel almost helpless when it comes to doing something about air pollution. However, can't something be done about our polluted lungs? I understand there is a therapeutic procedure in which the lungs are cleansed by flushing with saline solutions. Is this advisable? If so, what is the procedure called, and what medical specialist is qualified to perform this technique?"

Several years ago we described an unusual remedy in which saline was used to wash out the bronchi. This method, called broncholavage, was designed to help victims of chronic asthma who continued to wheeze despite conventional treatment. The technique was done in a hospital by a chest specialist. It is a procedure that requires anesthesia.

IT INVOLVED passing a bronchoscope through the mouth and into the lungs. Saline solution was then injected into each main bronchus and aspirated immediately. Alternate injections and aspirations were continued until the fluid was clear.

Broncholavage was done in this piecemeal fashion to avoid drowning. The saline not only washed away large amounts of mucus but loosened the hardened crusts (casts) that obstructed the smaller bronchi. Not everyone was helped, but some respiratory cripples benefitted to the extent that they were able to lead a useful and active life.

BY THIS TIME L.H.H. realizes that washing out the lungs (broncholavage) is a time-consuming, major procedure that is serious and expensive. Furthermore, after two or three washings, the membranes of the throat would have "had it."

In addition, the bad effects of ordinary air pollution on the lungs are not serious enough to warrant broncholavage. The air passageways from the tip of the nose to the tiny air sacs do a good job of housecleaning. As a last resort we could wear masks.

TYPHOID CARRIERS

H. R. writes: I read that a man had been a typhoid carrier until his gallbladder was removed. Could this report have been based on scientific fact?

REPLY

Yes, in 90 per cent of the cases, removal of the gallbladder cures a carrier. Typhoid bacilli set up housekeeping in the organ and surgery is the only way to break their lease. Occassionally, ampicillin is used for this purpose.

ARTERIES AND STRAIN

H. E. writes: Does working under emotional pressure cause hardening of the arteries?

REPLY

This is a moot question, because we do not know the exact cause of hardening of the arteries. Emotional strain could contribute, however, if the added tension raises the blood pressure and blood cholesterol levels. Frequently these conditions coexist with arteriosclerosis. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for our leaflet on hardening of the arteries.

HIS TOES THROB

L.S. writes: I am 75 and my toes throb constantly. A doctor prescribed nerve pills but these have not helped. Please let me know what causes this condition.

REPLY

Aside from nervousness, a circulatory disorder and neuritis are also possibilities. But your physician has had the opportunity of examining your feet so why not ask him?

Today's Health Hint—Replace electric cords and appliances when they show signs of wear.

Big Suit Filed On Wrong Charge

SAN DIGEO, Calif. (UPI) — Roger G. Linder, 33, a carpenter wrongfully charged with murder and imprisoned for six days, Monday filed a $2.75 million damage suit against the county of San Diego.

Linder, of nearby Lakeside, said in the suit he was arrested, imprisoned falsely and defamed. Also named as defendants were Sheriff Joseph O'Connor, District Attorney Don Keller and other sheriff's personnel.

Linder was arrested Sept. 11 in connection with the Labor Day stabbing death of Mrs. Mary Bonaventura, 32, Lakeside.

Mrs. Schlesinger Gets Divorce

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (UPI)—Mrs. Marian C. Schlesinger, wife of historian and former presidential aide Arthur M. Schlesinger Jr., was granted a divorce Monday in Middlesex Probate Court on grounds of cruel and abusive treatment.

The decree was awarded by Probate Judge J. John Fox. Mrs. Schlesinger was awarded $4,700 a month in alimony.

Schlesinger, who lives in New York City, was an aide to President John F. Kennedy and won two Pulitzer prizes. He is a former professor at Harvard University and authored the book, "A Thousand Days: John F. Kennedy in the White House."

The couple was married Aug. 12, 1940 at Franklin, N.H., and had three children.

Plant Closed To Avoid Violence

MILAN, Italy (UPI)—Management officials closed the Alfa Romeo automobile manufacturing works for 48 hours today to protest acts of violence by strikers.

They said the strikers are endangering company property and threatening the safety of company officials and employes.

Workers have staged a series of strikes in the Alfa Romeo works at Milan and Arese in recent weeks to back demands for a new labor contract and revision of rules governing bonus payments and promotions.

50 Injured In Two Explosions

CHARLOTTE AMALIE, St. Thomas, V.I. (UPI)—At least 54 persons were injured in two major explosions at a natural gas company plant Monday. Flames shot 400 feet in the air.

The hospital was jammed with casualties of the blast that knocked out all electricity on the island and crippled communications.

Comic Book On The Adult Side

BRADFORD, England (UPI) —The department store Santa Claus gave Gerald Stockwell, 5, a gift package containing a yo-yo without a string and a comic book titled "Intimate Confessions."

Gerald's mother, who paid 12 cents for the package, complained. "I don't like children being robbed in this way," she said. "The book was quite unsuitable for little children."

It included comic strip love stories called "too young to love" and "two wayward girls."

Said the embarrassed department store manager: "This kind of thing should never happen."

Bike Registration Stickers At Store

Bicycle registration stickers for Mill Valley residents, formerly available only from the Mill Valley Police Department, now may be obtained at Mill Valley Cyclery, 369 Miller Avenue.

The stickers, which cost 75 cents, and are valid until the bicycle changes ownership, may be bought during store hours, 9 a.m.-6 p.m. Tuesday through Friday, 9 a.m.-5 p.m. Saturday. The store is closed Sunday and Monday.

White House Holiday

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon and his family plan to spend the Thanksgiving holiday weekend in the White House, with no plans for trips or visits elsewhere.

NOTICE OF HEARING
FOR CONSIDERATION OF PETITION FOR FORMATION OF THE PARADISE ESTATES PERMANENT ROAD DIVISION

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that on TUESDAY, the 8th day of DECEMBER 1970, at 1:45 PM in the Chambers of the Board of Supervisors of the County of Marin, the Board will consider a petition for the formation of the PARADISE ESTATES PERMANENT ROAD DIVISION.

The petition provides as follows:

WE, the undersigned, comprising a majority of the landowners within the proposed division and equal to more than 50% of the assessed valuation within such proposed division, propose the formation of a permanent road division to be known as Paradise Estates Road Division. The area to be included within said road division is more particularly described in EXHIBIT "A", which is attached hereto and included herein.

The boundaries of the proposed division are more particularly set forth in EXHIBIT "A" and contains approximately 315 Acres, with an assessed valuation of $362,634.00 or more.

The value of improvements on the real estate, and the personal property within the porposed division on the latest equalized assessment rolls is $201,541.00.

The number of inhabitants, as of now, has been ascertained to be ninety-seven (97).

The legal description of the highways and roads upon which construction, improvement, or maintenance is to be performed is more particularly set forth in EXHIBIT "B" and is included as though fully stated herein.

The proposed division contains 200 parcels averaging approximately one acre or more each.

I/WE Have read the petition and we agree to the proposals set forth therein:

Six Seeking Dismissal Of Attorneys

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Six convicts at racially-troubled Soledad State Prison asked the California Court of Appeal on Monday to drop attorneys appointed to defend them against charges of killing a guard.

Joining in the appeal were the six Monterey County lawyers appointed to defend them and six San Francisco lawyers who want to represent them.

Their petition also asked the appellate court to delay the start of their Dec. 7 trial.

Judge Gordon Campbell in Monterey County Superior Court had appointed attorneys for all seven Negro men accused of killing William Shull, a white guard, on July 23.

One of the convicts accepted the public defender as his lawyer. Those filing the petition for changes are O. C. Allen, Jesse Phillips, James Wagner, Walter Watson, Alfred Dunn and Roosevelt Williams Jr.

In arguing the petition, attorney Patrick Hallinan of San Francisco asserted that court-appointed lawyers who live and work in Salinas would be inhibited because of local prejudice against the convicts.

Shull was the second white guard to be slain at the prison this year. The three so-called "Soledad Brothers" are accused of murdering the other guard and are awaiting trial.

TELEVISION REVIEW

Networks' Prime Time Change Plan

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Notes to watch television by:

The headliners: Dick Van Dyke's new CBS-TV series which debuts next September, will offer him as the host of a local television variety-talk show . . . Hope Lange, formerly of "The Ghost and Mrs. Muir," will play his wife . . . Rock Hudson visits Dinah Shore's NBC-TV morning series next Tuesday and sings some Christmas songs with her.

Buck Henry, who wrote the scripts for the films "The Graduate," "Catch 22" and "The Owl and the Pussycat," will be the substitute host for ABC-TV's vacationing Dick Cavett the week of Dec. 8-11 . . . Bill Russell, former coach and star of pro basketball's Boston Celtics, is Cavett's sub Dec. 4.

Sir Ralph Richardson and Sir John Gielgud, of the recently-opened Broadway play "Home," discuss the theatre on CBS-TV's "Camera Three" Sunday . . . ABC-TV, which failed in its attempt to make video stars of Britain's Engelbert Humperdinck and Tom Jones, has gone back to the Isles for yet another singer—someone named Val Doonican—and will give him a variety series next summer.

The programs: NBC-TV's "First Tuesday" next week offers a feature on "The New Look at the University of Notre Dame," focusing on such matters as the life style of the students . . . an American Jewish family that moved to Israel—husband, wife and four daughters—is the subject of ABC-TV's "Directions" series Sunday.

With the evaporation of NBC-TV's "Prudential's on Stage" specials, the announced plans for Elizabeth Taylor to make her video drama debut this season in an original play have fallen through . . . same network's two-part, four-hour adaptation of the bestselling novel "Vanished," about the disappearance of the top advisor to the President of the United States, is expected to air around March or April.

Blueprint: All three commercial networks now have either announced or indicated how they will comply with an FCC ruling limiting each of them to three nightly hours of prime time as of Sept. 1, 1971 ... and unless plans change for competitive reasons, televiewers will be getting most of their prime time show starting at 8 p.m. EST next season—half an hour later than they do now . . . Here is the setup:

NBC-TV has announced it will broadcast shows from 8 to 11 p.m. EST each day but Sundays, when the hours will be 7:30 to 10:30 p.m. EST . . . ABC-TV, meanwhile, has indicated rather clearly it also will present its shows from 8 to 11 p.m. EST—every day—next fall . . . and CBS-TV has announced it will employ the 7:30 to 10:30 p.m. EST period nightly.

First Car, A Vega, Rolls Off G.M. Production Line

DETROIT (UPI)—A lime green 1971 Chevrolet Vega with an automatic transmission rolled off an assembly line at 7:40 a.m. today, signalling General Motors' return to he business of building cars following a 10-week strike by the United Auto Workers.

The minicar, purchased by Mrs. Ann DeSalvo, Bloomington, Ill., whose husband is a Chevrolet dealer, passed inspection at G.M.'s Lordstown, Ohio, facility without any trouble.

The new auto, however, may not have been the most fitting symbol of a return to production—it was one of the few G.M. models that will not cost more.

G.M. announced Monday it was increasing prices an average 6.9 per cent, of $232 per car, on its new models.

The nation's largest automobile manufacturer announced the price hike as 75,000 UAW members returned to their jobs Monday for the first time since Sept. 14. More were back at their posts today.

At the same time, UAW leaders took the contract G.M. signed Friday —a pact that will cost the company at least $2.4 billion in wages over a three-year period — to Ford Motor Co. and Chrysler Corp., which were not affected by the G.M. walkout.

A Dec. 7 strike deadline faced Ford, but both UAW President Leonard Woodcock and Ford Vice President Malcolm Denise expressed confidence an agreement could be reached before then.

But Denise also said there was "no guarantee we won't fall apart. We've got considerable work to do."

Chrysler, where no deadline was set, had a wildcat strike on its hands which idled 1,400 workers Monday at a forge plant in Detroit. But the strikers' grievances had nothing to do with the contract negotiations, a spokesman for UAW Local 47 said.

The G.M. list price increases —about $24 or .7 per cent higher than the $208 increase over 1970 models tentatively announced two months ago — went into effect immediately.

TEACHER OF THE WEEK

He Found A 'Home' In Fifth Grade

William Castelli started his career as a high school teacher, found a "home" in fifth and sixth grades, and is best known to many people as a musician.

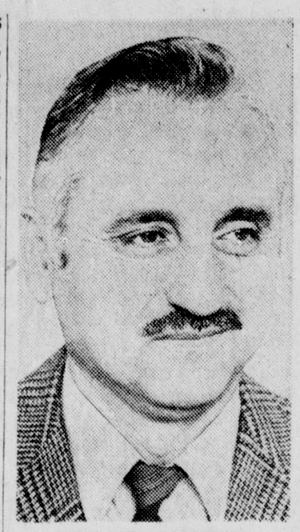
Castelli is starting his third year as fifth grade teacher at Park School in Mill Valley, the same school where he taught five years before transferring to Tamalpais Valley, Old Mill and Marin Terrace Schools in the Mill Valley district, teaching fifth and sixth grades. But before his first stint at Park — as sixth grade teacher — he taught for four years in both high school and elementary school in Tomales.

There, he followed what had been his career before becoming a teacher: music. He taught music and dramatics at Tomales High School and music at Tomales Elementary School, being employed by both high and elementary school districts.

He had been an Army Air Forces band leader during World War II, before returning to college to get his degree and teaching credential.

Becoming an elementary school teacher has not dimmed Castelli's interest in music. He plays violin in both the Marin Symphony and College of Marin Symphony.

He has found many other interests in the elementary grades, though. He taught remedial reading in Mill Valley schools when the district introduced its own program before the advent of the state-supported Miller-Unruh reading program — and at the same time conducted a special class for gifted pupils.



WILLIAM CASTELLI
Teacher of the week

And just to prove how wide a fifth grade teacher's interests can be, he also manages the fifth grade softball team.

Two Plead Guilty In Burglaries

Stephen Robert Carrino, 22, of San Rafael, pleaded guilty yesterday in Marin Superior Court to second degree burglaries of a San Anselmo house in July and one in San Rafael in September.

Judge E. Warren McGuire set sentencing for Dec. 28, and asked the probation department to make an investigation as to whether Carrino is a narcotics addict.

Also pleading guilty to the burglary of the San Anselmo residence on July 5 was Dolores Marie Burke, 27, of Fairfax.

Judge McGuire set sentencing for her on Dec. 28, also.

The pair was arrested after police found Mrs. Burke in a car outside a house at 37 Indian Rock Road and watched Carrino emerge from the second story.

Carrino's codefendant in the San Rafael burglary, where they were found under a bed inside a house at 90 Irwin Street, is being sought by authorities after failing to make court appearances.

He is Robert Dean Allen, 26, of Fairfax.

Noise From Jets Cut 90 Per Cent

ALAMEDA (UPI) —Noise from jet planes being repaired at Alameda Naval Air Station has been cut up to 90 per cent, the Navy declared Monday.

Because of new sound suppressor, engine noise will be almost inaudible except on the base, the service continued.

Hickel Firm: Won't Quit Cabinet Post

NEW YORK (UPI) — Walter J. Hickel says he won't quit his job as interior secretary, "But if I go away, I'm going away with an arrow in my heart, not a bullet in my back."

Hickel, the former governor of Alaska, admitted Monday, however, Attorney General John N. Mitchell, one of the more influential figures in the Nixon administration, spoke to him last week about his future in the cabinet.

"He never mentioned a resignation as such," Hickel said. "He didn't do that at all. He was conveying to me his thoughts, I think, probably from an administrnation standpoint. We talked about the problems of my going out and literally setting policy sometimes."

Hickel made his comments on the CBS-TV "60 Minutes" show with Mike Wallace. The show was titled, "What Have I Done Wrong?"

Hickel raised eyebrows last spring when he criticized Nixon for ignoring youthful dissent which reached a high point after the U.S. incursion into Cambodia and the slaying of four students by National Guardsmen at Kent State University.

Since then, there has been considerable speculation the interior secretary would resign or be replaced. The printed speculation about his leaving the cabinet one way or the other has grown intense since the Nov. 3 elections.

Hickel, who said he thought Nixon would be reelected in 1972, said he had "set policy" during oil spills at Santa Barbara, Calif., and in the Gulf of Mexico off Louisiana. Further, he said his decision to initiate grand jury proceedings was "unprecedented."

The secretary said he "didn't come here to change. I came here to change Washington." But asked if he thought Nixon got more than he bargained for when he appointed him, Hickel said, "I thought that was what they wanted and probably that was a mistake."

Johnny Carson's Brother To Rival

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Dick Carson, former director of his brother Johnny's "Tonight Show" on NBC, has been signed to direct the rival "Merv Griffin Show" on CBS.

CBS also announced Monday that the Griffin production picked up its option on producer Walter Kemply for the next 26 weeks. Kemply formerly was Johnny Carson's head writer for five years.

'Walk For Park' Pledges At $754

More than 100 Novato students participated in a "walk for parks" Saturday and gained pledges totaling $754, hiking eight miles to raise park funds.

Almost everyone completed the hike, according to Carol Childs, president of the San Marin High School Ecology Action Club, which sponsored the walk.

Sponsors pledged to contribute a certain amount for each mile a student walked, and $50 in pledge money was in by yesterday, Miss Childs reported.

The funds were to be used for purchase of city park land or to promote park acquisition.

Sacramento Firemen Win Pay Increase

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The City Council late Monday approved a $950-a-month pay package for city firemen who staged a two-week strike in October to back salary demands.

The pay scale was $25 less than the figure sought by Sacramento Fire Fighters Local 522, AFL-CIO. It was also $10 less than the amount recommended by the city civil service board.

Louisiana Tribunal Boots Clay Shaw Trial Judge

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) —The Louisiana Supreme Court accused Judge Edward Haggerty Jr. of heavy drinking, gambling, absenteeism and associating with underworld characters and ordered him removed from the Orleans Criminal District Court Bench Monday.

Haggerty presided at the conspiracy trial of Clay Shaw, the New Orleans businessman accused of taking part in a plot to kill President John F. Kennedy.

The high court voted 6-1 to remove Haggerty. The ruling said he engaged in "willful and intentional" misconduct which brought disgrace on the judiciary. Haggerty's attorneys have 13 days to apply for a rehearing on the order.

The judge was arrested Dec. 17 at a motel stag party and charged with obscenity, soliciting for prostitution and resisting arrest. Haggerty was acquitted of the charges.

49er Sees Silver Lining On Dark Cloud

By RALPH CHATOIAN

Very bad describes the play of the San Francisco 49ers last Sunday against the Detroit Lions, the Prospectors losing 28-7 in Detroit.

Kwalick, reserve tight end for the 49ers, told the members of the 49er Goal Rushers booster club yesterday:

"That loss probably did us good. Going into that game we were up in the clouds and some of us might have been looking ahead to the Rams or thinking about the playoffs. Now we'll have to take the games one at a time."

Kwalick, speaking at the Goal Rushers' luncheon meeting at Holiday Inn, Terra Linda, said he expected it to be "a long day" at the team's session with the films, going over the mistakes — and there were many — in the Lion game. He said there would be hard work ahead getting ready for the Los Angeles Rams game Sunday in Kezar Stadium. The 49ers, with a record of 7-2-1, are one game ahead of the Rams in the Western Division of the National Football Conference.

When one of the club members asked what he thought about other teams in the league, St. Louis Cardinals in particular (a possible foe in possible playoffs), Kwalick neatly said: "I don't want to look that far ahead. Right now I'm thinking about the Rams. We have to beat the Rams Sunday. That comes first."

The handsome, 219-pound Kwalick, a No. 1 draft pick by the 49ers two years ago out of Penn State, confided to the boosters group he was expecting to have a red face and $100 less in his wallet when the team spent a good part of today studying the horror films of Sunday's game in Detroit.

"When the Lions scored their last touchdown I was so mad I slammed my helmet down and just started walking up and down in front of the bench. It was only AFTER the extra point kick that I remembered I was supposed to be out on the field on the special team. For a mental error like that, it's an automatic $100 fine. Nobody noticed it, but when the coaches study the film and see that wide space on the line and only 10 players out there, well. . ."

One of the club members asked Kwalick what he thought about the idea that players be fined for fumbles.

"I would be strongly against it," he said. "Fines for mental errors are all right, they're excusable. But fumbles, missed blocks, things like that are physical errors. You just can't fine players for those things."

When someone asked how he managed to get stuck with the nickname "Bullwinkle," Kwalick explained that his father, when negotiating his contract, was quoted in papers saying his son was "fast as a deer and strong as a bull." When he reported to the 49ers, veteran Charley Krueger said, "So you're strong as a bull. We'll just have to call you Bullwinkle."

Another club member said he had seen Detroit's tough defensive tackle Alex Karras on television and noted his great sense of humor. "He's not a very humorous man during the game, I can tell you that" answered Kwalick.

Talking about the windy conditions of the game, Kwalick said that Sunday's contest in Detroit was the first NFL game this season in which no field goals were attempted. "With that wind, it would be sheer luck if a ball went through."

Like the 49ers before him at the meetings, Kwalick praised Bruce Taylor, the rookie cornerback for the San Francisco team. He also heaped praise on quarterback John Brodie, saying "he is one of the greatest competitors I have ever seen."

Married and the father of two daughters, 2 and 1, the 23-year-old Kwalick plans to keep his family in the Bay Area in the off season instead of going back to Pennsylvania and substitute teach as he did last year.

Stanford's Plunkett Wins Heisman Trophy

He Easily Beats Notre Dame Star

By FRED McMANE
UPI Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UPI) — Jim Plunkett, the Stanford quarterback who set NCAA marks in passing and total offense this season, was named winner of the 1970 Heisman Trophy as the nation's outstanding college football player.

Plunkett received 510 first-place votes and 2,229 points from the 1,059 electors to easily outdistance runnerup oe Theismann of Notre Dame. Theismann had 242 first-place votes and 1,410 points.

Archie Manning of Mississippi finished third in the balloting, followed by Steve Worster of Texas and Rex Kern of Ohio State. Pat Sullivan of Auburn was sixth, with Jack Tatum of Ohio State, Ernie Jennings of Air Force, Don McCauley of North Carolina and Lynn Dickey of Kansas State completing the top 10.

OTHER VOTES

Others receiving votes were, in order: Ed Marinaro of Cornell, Tom Gatewood of Notre Dame, Joe Spagnola of Arizona State and Dennis Dummitt of UCLA.

Plunkett has rewritten the NCAA passing and total offense record book during his three-year varsity career. He completed 530 of 962 passes for 7,544 yards and 52 touchdowns during the span from 1968-70. He completed better than 55 per cent of his passes during that time.

BEST EVER

The native of San Jose, Calif., also rushed 212 times, gaining 343 yards and scoring 10 touchdowns. His total offense figure of 7,887 yards eclipsed the former record held by Steve Ramsey of North Texas State and made him the first college player to surpass the 7,000-yard total offense figure.

He led Stanford to a Rose Bowl berth for the first time in 19 years this season and helped the club record upset victories over Arkansas and Southern California.

Sports

Tuesday, November 24, 1970
Independent-Journal, 29

Plunkett finished second in total offense this season behind Sullivan, compiling 2,898 yards, a national high, in 11 games for an average of 263.5 yards per game.

He ranked fifth in passing with 191 completions in 358 attempts for 2,715 yards and 18 touchdowns. Plunkett completed .534 of his passes last season and averaged 17.4 completions a game.

One of the secrets to Plunkett's success has been his durability. He hasn't missed a game in three years.

Plunkett was eligible for the pro football draft last season since he had "red-shirted" or sat out his sophomore year. But he decided to return to school to finish his degree requirements and help the team gain a Rose Bowl berth.

Plunkett is expected to be one of the first collegians taken in the pro draft in late January.

JIM GILMARTIN

It Sounds Like A Fun Trip To Miami

IF YOU'RE dreaming of a 49er-Raider Super Bowl meeting — hevvins, what a dream — I know a guy who has 25 ducats to the January classic in Miami. He's Mike Dolan of San Rafael's GTS Travel Service who annually conducts a tour to the Super Footballer with the side trips for funsies. This year the junket will include 40-yard-line Super Bowl seats, accommodations at resorts at Key Biscayne and Paradise Island for other fun and games, indoors and out. Even if the Niners and Raiders don't make it, the trip sounds like fun.

AND ON the subject of the 49ers, yes, they have fair weather fans. After Sunday's S.F. loss at Detroit, attendance at yesterday's 49er Goal Rushers luncheon at Terra Linda dropped about 25 per cent from previous weeks.

The son of Dr. and Mrs. Hazeltine of Kentfield retired from the Niners after the 1968 season but, like the old firehorse, came out roaring this year by joining the New York Giants and has played first team right linebacker for the surprisingly resurgent Giants.

Looked Better Than Cossell

JIM TROPPMANN, the former Redwood High School all-star quarterback now with the U.S. Marine Corps, helped coach the Quantico, Va. Leathernecks football team this season. One game, when all the squad's quarterbacks were on the injured list, Coach Troppmannn was activated and went out and played a whale of a game, just like the old days down at Redwood.

That's another good thing about the Marines: Even the coaches can practice what they preach.

Fastest Card In The West

IT'S NO wonder Mickey Thompson of Southern Cal holds so many auto speed records. Last week I received his annual Christmas card — first of the season and more than a month ahead of schedule.

As Master Mick's Christmissive noted: "Racing to be first to wish you a wonderful holiday season." Even the ZIP code was correct.

ALSO GETTING an early jump is my old pal Tom Rooney of Kenwood in Sonoma County, the managing director and originator of the San Francisco National Sports and Boat Show. Next Tuesday Tom — certainly you remember his famous boxing kangaroo — will hold a party in San Francisco to tell plans for the 29th annual Sports and Boat Show which is scheduled Jan. 8-17 at the old Moo Mansion or Gurnsey Gym, if you please. I'm just not in the moo'd to call it the Cow Palace anymore. (Oh, cud it out, Shamus!)

PRIDE AND POISE FOR THE COWBOYS

HIGH SCHOOL SOCCER

The Unheralded Sport

By DAVID EINSTEIN

In order to play soccer in the Marin County Athletic League, you have to be willing to undergo certain rigid tests of faith. First, you have to play only between the end of football season and the start of basketball, which makes your season about half as long as for either of those major sports.

Since it will undoubtedly be raining all season long, you'll have to play the majority of your games on fields that could pass for swamps. And you'll play dressed in a short sleeved shirt and shorts. The temperature at game time will be between 50 and 60 degrees.

Obviously, soccer players, at least in Marin, are a dedicated lot. They enjoy almost no publicity, and play to bus-stop sized crowds.

The lack of spectators is understandable. Few people know the rules, and almost everyone agrees that the most popular sport in the world outside the U.S. cannot compete in favor with the violence and sophistication of American sports.

Yet against all the odds, soccer is growing in this country, and in Marin. Four years ago aTmalpais High School in Mill Valley fielded the county's first team, and began encouraging other schools to take up soccer.

Last year, with five of eight schools competing, the MCAL officially embraced the sport. This year all schools have teams, and soccer is here to stay.

"The reason soccer came to Marin was student demand," says Bill Monti, coach of the San Rafael Bulldogs. "Because there was so much soccer in physical education, the students began to demand it on a higher level. It was a natural evolution."

As interest in the sport grows, there is a move underway to move the season back into the fall, and into direct competition with football. The advantages of playing in the early months of the school year are many. Not only would it mean a drier season, it would mean a longer one — a double round robin as opposed to the round and a half season. Under the current arrangement, four teams from the North-San Marin, Novato, Terra Linda and San Rafael, play each other twice and each team from the South once. The South consisting of Drake, Tam, Redwood and Marin Catholic, follows the same theme.

More importantly, an earlier season would give students an alternative to football, as participants — "We have some great soccer players who are 110 to 130 pounds," says Monti. "In many cases they are not successful in football. They can't compete with the big man." And as spectators — "There's more interest coming. I think the change in season will contribute to that. Wet weather discourages fans."

So far school administrations have done their best to discourage the sport. They made it a between-season orphan because they maintained there was a conflict of use of fields with the football program. But almost all the schools have facilities apart from their football fields that can be adapted to soccer. So that's a pointless issue.

And last summer the Novato school district temporarily got rid of soccer as a political pressure move to gain public support for a tax hike. That didn't help.

All this is unfortunate by itself, but far more so since Marin has some excellent players and teams (not to mention a World Cup referee, Henry Landauer of San Rafael, who has

NORM SNEAD IS HERO OF THE DAY

Eagles Snap Giant Victory Streak At Six

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—If Norm Snead can't remember, who can?

The Philadelphia quarterback, who has absorbed the jibes of Franklin Field fans these many years, found himself the hero of the hour Monday night when he scored two touchdowns, passed for another and wrecked the New York Giants six-game winning streak by leading the Eagles to a 23-20 victory.

He couldn't remember when, if ever, he scored two touchdowns in one game, but he put that vital statistic in the secondary category when he said, "we haven't lost in three weeks."

BALL CONTROL

The scoring was one thing, but his great exhibition of ball control gave Philadelphia the victory after his fourth period touchdown put the club in front.

Snead used Cyril Pinder on the ground seven times in a row after feeding him a pass to open the drive, and then tossed him another—Snead's seventh successful pass in a row—before the Eagles surrendered the ball on the New York 30 on a missed field goal attempt with 52 seconds left.

Those 9:24 minutes without the ball buried the Giants, and an illegal player downfield on a 10-yard pass which carried to the Eagles 42 nullified the gain and set the Giants back to their own 35.

'AIN'T NO PLAY'

As Giant quarterback Fran Tarkenton said, "There just ain't no play when you're 70 yards from home with two seconds left."

Coach Jerry Williams, voted the game ball by the Eagles, said this was the best he saw Snead in the two years Williams has been here. No one else, including Snead, of course, could remember a better show. He has had some other fine games—and lost.

Williams, in a salute to Snead, also paid justifiable tribute to rookie Billy Walik from Villanova who had two long punt returns to set up a field goal and the winning touchdown, and to the stout eagles defense which limited the Giants' Ron Johnson to 35 yards in 16 carries.

"Walik's returns (57 and 45 yards) were major factors, and our containing Johnson," Williams said. "We concentrated on the strong side where he runs most of his plays. It was a great job by the defense."

ONE-YARDER

Snead scored his first touchdown on a one-yard sneak over center in the first quarter after the Eagles recovered a fumble on the Giants' two-yard line on a bad pass from center. New York led 3-0 at the time on Pete Gogolak's first period 29-yard field goal.

But New York went ahead 10-6 after recovering an Eagles fumble on the 13, with Johnson scoring from the two, and Gogolak's second field goal made it 13-6 with 36 seconds left in the first half.

Walik's return of 57 yards on the kickoff set up a Mark Moseley field goal to cut the Giants lead to 13-9 at halftime.

The Eagles came back on a 64-yard drive with Snead passing one yard to Fred Hill for the touchdown and the Giants promptly got back the lead with a Tarkenton-led drive and his one-yard sneak for the score.

THE WINNER

The Eagles put together the winning touchdown scored by Snead after Walik returned the kickoff 45 yards to the Giants 46. Snead tossed a 31-yard pass to Ben Hawkins and Pinder lunged for two gains. Snead went over center from the one for the big score and after that, his ball control nailed it down.

There's Not Much Time For Raiders

OAKLAND (UPI) —A turn in the whirlpool, a rub down and some liniment are about all the time the Oakland Raiders have to prepare for their next encounter.

The Raiders, fresh from another George Blanda production victory over San Diego Sunday, travel to Detroit to meet the Lions on Thanksgiving Day.

"There's not a lot of time," said coach John Madden of the division-leading Raiders Monday. "We stayed up to about 1 a.m. this morning, studying films for Detroit.

"The basic problem in getting ready for a game on Thursday is a lack of time and preparation. You have to condense things.

FISH AND GAME

Pheasant Hunters Having Things Tough

By AL GIDDINGS

Pheasant hunting? The boys from the Woodacre Fire Dept. all returned completely beat Sunday afternoon after a two day hunt in the valley for pheasant. Ten of them went, returning with seven birds. They said it was tough going — few birds and ploughed fields. Norm and Tony Quadros of Tamalpais Valley got shooting at just one bird in the Vacaville area. If you hunted and got more than two birds for the weekend, you did better than the average. All of the hunters checked seemed to average about one third.

The duck hunters had it pretty rough too. Dick Clarke and Jim De La Montanya even had trouble taking birds skulling. They took just three birds and I heard they were Butterballs, working Tomales Bay. Things must have been tough!

I talked to some of the hunters in the Santa Venetia — San Pablo area. A few cans (canvasbacks) were taken, but generally thing were pretty slow.

DOWN AT LOCH LOMOND

Down at Loch Lomond, I checked 47 fishermen with 16 stripers. Most of the fish were between 12 and 18 pounds with some smaller, and one tipping the scales at 25 pounds. Generally bullheads were the best baits, using the sliding sinker method. The area fished was between the pumphouse and the S.P. buoy in the channel area. Three trollers took eight smaller fish using spreader leaders with a buckeye and a pet spoon at the Richmond Bridge area.

The anglers out of Buck's Landing seemed to average about the same, fishing the same pumphouse areas. I did not check any sturgeon. Some boats fishing out of Sausalito, Saturday took fish from the Red Rock area using live bait and drifting. The fish were smaller than those taken by the bullhead anglers, but the action and average was better. Ten fish for the twelve anglers checked.

Joe Mello, of Santa Venetia tookan eight-pound steelhead from the Austin Creek area above Brown's Pool on the Russian River this past week. Joe was all fired up because four king salmon were taken in the same area that day.

PAPERMILL NEEDS RAIN

Papermill has been reported slow all this week. This little creek located near Pt. Reyes Station can be exceptionally good at times, but I think a rain is badly needed here. Don Ameral, one of the rangers from Tomales Bay State Park, says he has tried trolling several times this week in Tomales Bay off Millerton Pt., but he hasn't even seen a fish roll! If the silvers are in the area, they usually advertise their presence with lots of jumping and rolling especially during the tide changes.

The tides all through this week are excellent moving tides. High in the morning with those five foot runouts. This should be an excellent fishing week for bass in San Pablo; and both salmon and bass in Tomales, though fishing Tomales at the low and incoming is most productive. So its San Pablo in the mornings and Tomales in the afternoons and evenings, for best results.

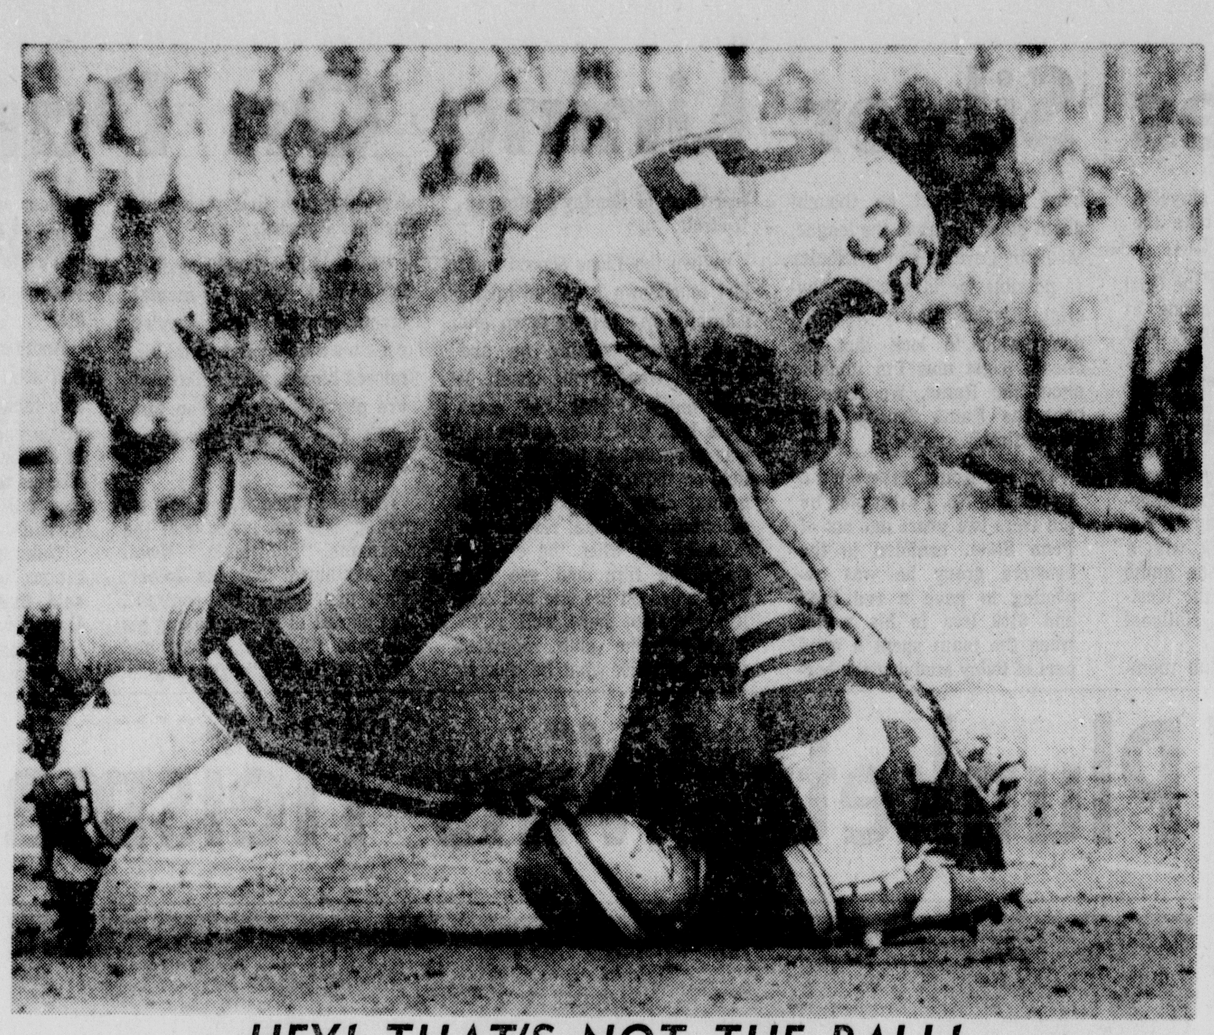
NEW STATION WAGON

A few columns ago I mentioned I was in the market for a four-wheel drive station wagon. Lou Robinette, who used to be one of Novato's finest and now sells cars there for Schuman Chevrolet, called me almost before the print was dry. He said he had what I wanted. So Mary and I went up to take a look. You know what we drove home?

Yep, a new Chevy Suburban, four-wheel drive, carpeted floors and a $600 air-conditioning unit. The whole deal cost more than the first house and lot I bought in Marin County 20 years ago.

In this column, I'll keep you posted on how it runs, and it better be good! It's strictly a fish and games car.

HEY! THAT'S NOT THE BALL!



Washington's Marlin McKeever (on ground) may think he's recovering a fumble but that's just a helmet, and not a ball. Dallas back Walt Garrison lost the headpiece in a rushing play during their Sunday National Football League game in Washington. Garrison lost his helmet and Dallas won the game, 45-21.

A Setback For Plans Of Merger

The truce between the two leagues was broken last Friday when NBA Commissioner Walter Kennedy, irritated that the ABA's Carolina team had signed Joe Caldwell away from the NBA's Atlanta team, said the NBA no longer wants a merger with the ABA.

However, ABA Commissioner Jack Dolph warned on Monday that Kennedy's statement was "ill advised and unnecessary."

Dolph added, "The ABA has offered to sit down with the NBA to resolve the common problems of the two leagues and we expect sensible men on both sides can and will ultimately agree. If they don't, we can go our mutually destructive ways until the survivors come to their senses."

He blamed the "misunderstandings" between the leagues on a "breakdown in communications."

The two leagues informally agreed to a merger earlier this year but the NBA Players Association filed a court suit to block it. A merger between the two leagues would need congressional approval, which pro football received four years ago when the NFL and AFL merged.

"The ABA reiterates its desire to discuss all pertinent subjects with the NBA at the earliest possible time so that the two leagues can proceed to seek enabling legislation from Congress," Dolph said.

'FOR MR. AVERAGE'

Clay Wants 90-Mile TV Blackout Lifted For Bout

MIAMI BEACH (UPI)—Cassius Clay wants the 90-mile television blackout lifted for his Dec. 7 fight with Oscar Bonavena so that "Mr. Average" who can't afford admission to Madison Square Garden still can see the bout.

"All of these people are waiting to see me fight," Clay told newsmen Monday. "This fight's going to be the greatest fight in the history of the world."

CLOSED CIRCUIT

Clay, flanked by manager Angelo Dundee, trainer Drew (Bundini) Brown, and his father, Cassius Clay Sr., said he wants the fight broadcast over closed circuit television and shown in New York theaters. Asked if he would refuse to fight if the usual blackout on closed circuit theater telecasts is not rescinded for the Bonavena bout, Clay replied, "I'm seriously thinking about it, I'm considering it."

He said the cheapest seats, $10 each, are already sold out and that most low-income New Yorkers will miss the fight unless it is shown in theaters for $3 to $4 per seat.

"The Bonavena fight's going to be a complete sellout, the $10 seats are already gone and they're the cheapest," said Clay. A victory in his bout with the Argentinian would undoubtedly set up a heavyweight title fight with champion Joe Frazier early next year.

The former champion, looking trim at about 213 pounds, called the news conference at his 5th St. gym training headquarters. He plans to leave for New York Sunday to finish training there.

"You know what I'm naming this fight, and the Frazier fight, too?" Clay asked. "I'm calling them the 'for Mr. Average' fights—the average fellow, the truck driver's helper, the guys who push carts in New York, the blacks and the Puerto Ricans, the just plain little guys who have 12 kids and don't have $10 to go to the Garden and see the fight—and there aren't any $10 seats left anyways."

Clay said about 1,500 persons had stopped him on New York streets during a recent visit, urging him to resist the blackout because they could not afford admission to the Garden. He said that if there is a legally binding reason for the 90-mile ban on television, "they're going to really have to show me that.

LETTERS

"We're getting letters and phone calls—my manager Angelo Dundee and trainer Brew Brown and me—from all over, from kids and old ladies, from the people who can't afford $10," said Clay. "They're asking us to help them see the fight in theaters where they live—in Harlem and Spanish Harlem and the Bronx."

Clay said the poor could afford admission if the fight is telecast "in the Manhattan Center, and in all the theaters available in New York."

"Man, when I was in New York not long ago, people were stopping me on the street and asking me to do something so they could see the fight—I mean little people, cart pushers and wineheads, guys on dope, all kinds of people who want to see me fight," said Clay.

Two Teams Undefeated In Soccer

San Rafael and Terra Linda high schools both remained undefeated yesterday as the Marin County Athletic League soccer season began its second week. The Bulldogs downed Redwood, 6-1, and Terra Linda shutout Drake, 2-0.

In other games, San Marin blanked Marin Catholic, 2-0, and Tamalpais downed Novato, 3-1.

Bill Mejia continued as the hottest scorer in the league with three goals for San Rafael. He thus pulled off his second hat trick in two games, having scored all the goals in a 3-0 win over San Marin last Friday.

Terra Linda and San Rafael each have three wins.

High Scoring Start In Prep Water Polo

The defences didn't exactly dominate yesterday as the 1970 Marin County Athletic League water polo season got underway. Redwood routed Drake, 31-10, Terra Linda beat Tamalpais, 19-4 and San Rafael defeated Novato, 17-10.

High scorer for the day was Pat Ellington of Terra Linda with nine goals. Sean O'Connell of San Rafael and Doug Brockbank of Redwood led their teams to victory with eight and seven scores respectively.

Just about the only outstanding player on defense was Terra Linda's Burt Johansson, who gave by far the best performance among the league's goalies; he held Tam to four goals and blocked a pair of penalty shots.

Small Colleges In Shrine Game

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Grambling College and Tennessee A&I, two small college powerhouses, will be represented for the first time in the annual Shrine East-West football game, Jan. 2

Willie Armstrong, a 6-3, 235-pound fullback, will represent Grambling and Tennessee A&I's choice will be Vernon Holland, a 275-pound tackle.

SPORTS SHORTS

Haywood-Rockets Feud Stalemated

DENVER (UPI) — The Fight between the Denver Rockets and Most Valuable Player Spencer Haywood is at a standstill.

Rockets' president Don Ringsby said Monday the American Basketball Association team will not trade Haywood "under any circumstances and have turned down a million dollar cash offer to do so." Ringsby also said that his attorneys are confident Haywood's current six-year contract is valid.

Meanwhile in Los Angeles, the suspended star center said that he would not play ball for the Rockets under the team's existing management. Haywood told a news conference earlier that he never had a firm guarantee of a new, $1.9 million contract from the Rockets as the club claimed in giving its version of the dispute.

Football

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI) — All-America middle guard Jim Sillwagen, anchor of the tough Ohio State defense, Monday night was voted the outstanding player on the Buckeyes' 1970 Big Ten championship football team.

Sillwagon, a senior from Mt. Vernon, Ohio, was an easy winner in the balloting by his teammates.

CHICAGO (UPI) — The Chicago Bears, who thought Sunday they'd found their quarterback of the future, were back in a quandary Tuesday.

Sunday's discovery, Bobby Douglass, the sturdy blond from Kansas, suffered a broken left wrist, on his throwing arm, in pitching four touchdown passes in the Bears' victory over the Buffalo Bills, and will sit out the rest of the season. Douglass threw three of his touchdown passes after the injury.

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (UPI) — Penn State's football team rejected a bid to the Liberty Bowl Monday, ending the efforts of promoters to match the Nittany Lions with the loser of the Texas-Arkansas game.

Coach Joe Paterno said the players, who turned down a bid to the Peach Bowl Saturday, were not interested in a post-season game.

Tennis

STOCKHOLM (UPI) — Determined Cliff Richey of San Angelo, Tex., Monday night overcame a strong challenge by the Spanish pro veteran Andres Gimeno in the first round of the $35,200 Stockholm Open indoor tennis championships.

Richey downed his opponent 23-21, 6-1 after a three and a half hour battle.

Bowling

DETROIT (UPI) — Dave Soutar, of Gilroy, Calif., staged a comeback victory Monday to successfully defend his championship in the $50,000 American Airlines Open bowling tournament.

Soutar took 14 of his 16 match games to come in first, despite losing the final game of the 40-game, three-day tournament. He held a lopsided 247-159 margin over runnerup Dave Davis, of Miami.

Auto Racing

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — Dodge driver Bobby Isaac finished the 1970 season with a 51-point margin over Bobby Allison in the NASCAR Grand National driver's championship race, the closest point spread in the history of the division.

Baseball

NEW YORK (UPI) — Cleon Jones, who slumped to .277 last year after batting .340 during the New York Mets' miracle pennant drive two seasons ago, Monday signed his 1971 contract estimated at $55,000.

Jones, who became the first Met regular to come to terms with General Manager Bob Scheffing, received the same amount as he did in 1969.

Golf

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Professional Golfers Association announced plans today for a four-tournament Caribbean tour and added three more satellite events to its 1971 schedule.

The tour includes two events in Venezuela, and one each in Colombia and Panama.

Skiing

NEW YORK (UPI) — A total of nine competitions for 1970-71, including six in the United States and three in Europe, was announced Monday by the International Ski Racers Association.

The first competition will be held in Buffalo, N.Y., Jan. 2-3. Bear Valley, Calif., will host the races March 5, 6 and 7.

JIM MURRAY

The Bravest Athlete Who Ever Lived

I think, if Chuck Champlin and Joyce Haber will forgive me, I'd like to turn movie critic today.

James Earl Jones was magnificent in the leading role and it's only half a pun to say the leading lady was pale by comparison.

Jones was "Jack Jefferson" in the screenplay but that's to preserve the fiction that it was fiction since all the characters (save one or two) portrayed in this film were non-fictional and every resemblance to persons living or dead was purely intentional.

A LITTLE JEALOUS

I am a little jealously possessive about Jack Johnson, whom I have studied for years. I was a little afraid Hollywood would turn him into Gary Cooper or a "guess Who's-Coming-To-Dinner-With-Boxing-Gloves?" type of thing.

James Jones' Johnson comes out a kind of sensitive, tormented, anxiety-ridden kind of man in places. Except that he had to knock people down, it would have been a good part for Montgomery Clift or Tab Hunter.

The REAL Jack Johnson wasn't much of a handkerchief-wringer. Every photo you see of him he looks as though he's trying real hard not to laugh. Hs went through life roaring with laughter at the foibles of man.

I always thought Jack Johnson was the bravest athlete who ever lived. To fight Jim Jeffries, the idol of the West, in the Nevada mountains in 1910 before an audience of most of the registered racist roughnecks of the Wild West, most of them armed, many of them drunk, and then to thrash and jeer at the white champion and all the while be married to a white woman amounts to a gesture of breathtaking defiance. For that day and age, "effrontery" would not begin to describe it.

IGNORED JIM CROW

Johnson didn't flout Jim Crow. He just ignored it. He married two other white women. The first one committed suicide, the second one was carted home by her mother — but about nine years after the honeymoon. The third was with him 'til his death in 1946. There was also a dalliance with an Irish girl named, infelicitously, "Hattie McLay." Her FATHER paid Johnson's (and her) way around the world when he went to Australia to win the championship.

ALL CLASS

Johnson's life style would draw gasps of admiration from Diamond Jim Brady. He travelled everywhere in his own railroad car. He made friends instantly. When he fought Jeffries, the governor of Nevada, no less, became a fan, even bet on Johnson and assigned five burly rangers to guard him.

Johnson stayed at the best hotels. He was in more auto accidents than a career bank robber. When he was sentenced to prison (unjustly) on the Mann Act, he blithely skipped the country and had a helluva time in Europe. When the champagne ran out, he came back and gave himself up with a grin at Tijuana and served eight months of a year's sentence, most of it dining on possum, chicken and fine wine.

FAR FROM ILLITERATE

He was far from illiterate (he had trouble with tenses because he learned language in the streets not from a blackboard and "Here I is!" is one of the great lines of the play). He was an incurable romantic (he set out for New York from Galveston at the age of 12 to hunt up Steve Brodie the bridge-jumper and young Jack's idol from the penny dreadfuls he read in the pool hall).

The movie is faithful to the man — except for a few annoying instances of "prolepsisms" (fastening today's argot and vocabulary on people of 60 years ago — I don't think "grabber" was in coinage and "mother" was not an adjective).

Also, a scene showing an FBI man or its equivalent using the majesty of the U.S. government to fix a prize fight is a little below the belt since even Johnson himself always said the promoter, Jack Curley, was the only guy who even hinted he might get charges squashed (they weren't) if Johnson agreed to turn over his title. And Curley spent most of his career fixing wrestling matches.

Johnson also is pictured as reluctant to either a) throw or b) even sign for the fight. The truth, in Johnson's own autobiography, is, he would have even mailed the title to somebody for cash.

RECKLESS TENDENCY

There is a reckless tendency to draw parallels between Cassius Clay and Jack Johnson, a trend Clay happily joins.

The similarities are a bit more than superficial — but not much. There are imporant differences. Like:

1. The public (or segments of it) in 1910 panicked and felt threatened when this black man became heavy-weight champion of the world. The public today is long used to the presence of black champions. Seven of the last eight heavyweight champions have been and almost every division has one.

2. Clay was out of business for three years for refusing to accept induction. Johnson was out of the country nine years. Without going into the merits of Clay's contention he was a minister, Johnson was convicted on a law that was meant to stamp out white slavery, not weekend trysts between bosses and secretaries or other consenting adults.

3. Johnson moved easily among all people white and black without rancor and wrote "I have found no better way of avoiding racial prejudice than to act in my relations . . . as if prejudice did not exist." Clay is an avowed separatist. He proposes to fight prejudice with prejudice. He pours wind on troubled waters. What's that you say? Johnson was an Uncle Tom? Jack Johnson!' The Great Integrator? Bite your tongue!

Clay is brave. But Johnson showed 60 years ago that the brave have nothing to fear in the home of the brave. The coward is not safe anywhere.

New Charges Of Racism By 4 Huskies

SEATTLE (UPI) — The University of Washington football team, just finished with a successful 6-4 season, was rocked with new charges of racism and the resignations of four black football players Monday.

"I'm surprised; it's really weird," said Sonny Sixkiller, sensational Indian sophomore quarterback.

Mark Wheeler, Ira Hammond, Cal Jones and Charlie Evans presented a statement in which they said they have ended their careers as Huskies. They said the statement was endorsed by all blacks on this year's team including graduating seniors.

In part the statement charged:

"The racial practices of the University of Washington coaching staff have forced us to the point where we can no longer tolerae the playing conditions imposed upon us. We . . . have decided to terminate our football careers at the University of Washington.

"We, along with the other black football players at the University of Washington, will not encourage the recruitment of black football players in the future."

Jones, San Francisco, was a sophomore defensive back and played virtually every minute of every game and was a standout. Hammon, of Portland, Ore., started several games at split end and tight end Evans, of Chicago, was red-shirted.

Reaction from teammates and others ranged from shock to anger.

"I just don't believe it," said Larry Worley, sophomore defensive back. "Especially Calvin (Jones). He and Ira are great athletes. I don't think they were right in their judgment that things have not changed."

Mark Hannah, defensive stalwart who graduated in 1969 when the Huskies finished with a dismal 1-9 mark, upheld head coach Jim Owens.

"I just think the whole thing is ridiculous," he said. "They are just trying to hurt Jim Owens. But they are only hurting themselves.

"Cal Jones, especially. He is a real All-America candidate. Owens was out to win ball games and not please players."

Charges of racism at the school were first raised four years ago. They resulted in the hiring of Carver Gayton, former black UW athlete to the squad to counsel minority members.

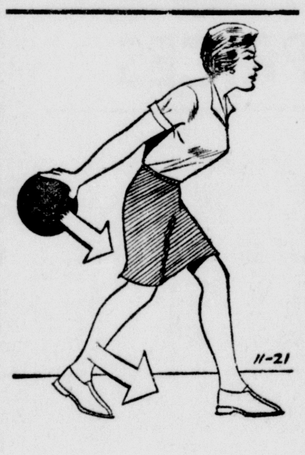
donated his services to the league).

One of the reasons for Marin's success is the presence of an inordinately large number of foreign students who have played soccer all their lives. For, as Monti explains, "Soccer is a game you must play from early childhood. It requires a foot dexterity not unique among Americans."

Among the best in the league are San Marin's Urbano Boucsiequez, Redwood's Sharior Sarabi, and two players from Monti's club. Sean Serag-Eldin and Bill Mejia make the Bulldogs one of the favorites to win the championship. Mejia, from Guatamala, scored all three goals in a 3-0 win over San Marin last week.

BOWLING TIPS

By DON CARTER



As you begin your fourth step (in the recommended four-step delivery), the ball should also begin its forward journey. When these motions take place simultaneously, you will be in good rhythm. The most common error is beginning this step before starting the ball down, which usually causes a drop behind the foul line.

A PERSONAL REPORT

By JOHN G. WARNER

GAINESVILLE, Ga. (UPI)—The car comes only to your waist, bright yellow glistening in the misty rain, crouched like a tense waiting animal in the pit lane.

Blue-shirted mechanics let the Chevron's rear deck fall with a plastic thud over the engine and the fat deep-grooved rain tires.

Tools rattle in a steel box, someone yells for a roll of silver tape and laughter drifts up from another pit. Otherwise Road Atlanta is silent—waiting, like the Chevron.

A mechanic slams shut the door, making a circle with his fingers. The glove hand twists the ignition.

There is no more waiting.

10-YEAR LOVE AFFAIR

For 10 years I have conducted a love affair with the fast cars, compounded equally of fear and admiration. To me there is no man-made object so lethally beautiful as a pure racing car, no sound so chilling as its baleful howl.

I have watched the world's great sports cars at Sebring and Daytona and finally, on the truly beautiful and difficult Road Atlanta course, I rode in one.

The Chevron bursts into life with an incredible bellow. Wrapped in an almost palpable wall of sound, you are utterly alone. The driver beside you, swathed in his flameproof suit and his helmet, is no longer human. He is part of the machine, lost in the hypnotic concentration that keeps him alive.

Carefully, vibrating tautly, the car trundles down the pit road like a jet to its runway. A pause, a wrenching slam of acceleration in your back and you are on the pit straight.

Reality is lost in shivering thunder, the driver's face blank and blurred in the trembling mirror. The world is a homemade movie in a berserk projector, too unreal to fear but instinctively your body stiffens.

You're into the first turn before you realize it still accelerating another blasting slam the angry roar pitching higher screaming into a climb toward turn two—a blind turn.

Climbing accelerating G-forces sliding you up the seat feet off the firewall we are not driving too fast we are flying too low the car will sail over the brow of the hill into the fallred treetops faraway. Turning right but the road goes straight bending hard no lean no lurch this is impossible jammed against the door still turning cresting the hill thank god the road turns with us.

Drained. Turn three slips past with a wrench downhill accelerating warning lights shrouded in drab plastic aluminum barriers green pines flash past up again and downhill there are the esses. Three weaving bends flickflick-flick using all the road yellow warning bumps on the verge like streaking suns. Halfway through the last one going wide sudden monumental acceleration sliding up the seat gearshifts whap and whap down a short undulating straight.

Braking hard sliding back down feet to firewall into a wide turn around a grassy cut through this and instantly hard right 98 degrees through on the inside running wide to the outside.

Now the straight. Accelerations whap-roar-whap-howl-whap-shriek pinned to the seat the engine running up the scale to a scream of agony. Jinking to the right down stomachsucking sickening steep and back up.

Shutting down now hurtling toward a concrete bridge abutment braking turning hard-right under the bridge blind again swooping plummeting eaglelike down and down sweeping right and onto the pit straight turn one coming up again.

That is a lap of Road Atlanta at speed, a surrealistic two-and-a-half mile roller coaster ride without rails.

I turned five laps, two in the Chevron with Bob Beatty, a quiet, curly-haired bank manager from Miami, and three in a Shelby GT350 with Charlie Kemp, a Jackson, Miss., stockbroker, two of the finest drivers in the South.

They are here for the American Road Race of Champions Saturday and Sunday, pitting 462 of the nation's best drivers for the Sports Car Club of America's national championships.

THE MOST EUROPEAN

Road Atlanta, which opened in the summer with the first southern stop on the Canadian-American Challenge Cup tour, has been called the most European of all United States road courses.

It is a demanding course to drive, with few good spots to pass in addition to the blind turns, but a beautiful, well-run track for spectators. There are no grandstands. Gently sloping hillsides serve instead, and in places heavy forest, with broad panoramas of the North Georgia mountains in the distance, serves as a backdrop for streaking cars.

Dartmouth Captures The Lambert Trophy

NEW YORK (UPI) —Dartmouth College struck a blow for the Ivy League Monday by being unanimously named winner of the 1970 Lambert Trophy as the "outstanding Eastern major college football team during the season."

Dartmouth was unbeaten and untied in nine games to gain the unanimous approval of the eight-man selection committee. Penn State, which finished with a 7-3 record, was runnerup with 72 points compared to 80 for Dartmouth. Following the leaders were Boston College (7-2) with 63 points, Syracuse (6-4) with 51, West Virginia (7-3) with 48, Villanova (7-2) with 33, Yale (7-2) with 25, Temple (7-2) with 24 and Cornell (6-3) with six.

Dartmouth Coach Bob Blackman said, "I'm extremely pleased for the college and the Ivy League."

Dartmouth, which also won the trophy in 1965 with a perfect record, is only the sixth Ivy League team to gain the honor in the 35-year existence of the award.

The Indians led the nation in defense against scoring, shutting out six opponents, including the last four, and giving up only six touchdowns all season.

Barry Brink of Mill Valley is a star defensive tackle for Dartmouth and will be playing in the Jan. 2 Shrine game in Oakland.

Cooper Wants To Win Big Tonight

OAKLAND (UPI) —George Cooper wants to win big so he can move to bigger things in the middleweight class and Jimmy Lester needs a victory just to redeem himself.

Those are the ingredients that go into tonight's 10-round fight at the Oakland Auditorium.

"If I get over Lester big, maybe somebody will give me the same chance that Nate Collins got, a shot at Emile Griffith," Cooper, the state middleweight titleholder, said Monday.

For Lester, he is at a crossroads. He has lost three straight—to Collins, Art Hernandez and Rafael Gutierrez—and another defeat could send him into retirement.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Gold Situation Spurs Interest

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I am interested in investing in a gold stock and can afford considerable risk. Can you suggest a stock? — C. G.

A. The spurt in London gold prices to $39.19 an ounce in late October has focused speculative attention on the group once again. Although the price of gold has now receded from that level, the advance is, according to industry analysts, the most solidly based rise in the last five years.

Supply/demand conditions and the increase in the U.S. balance-of-payments deficit are thought to be major factors behind the strength in the precious metal. Reflecting this, most Canadian and South African gold shares are trading close to yearly highs.

A less expensive way of speculating in the group is through Webb Resources, an oil and gas exploration firm with a 19 per cent stake in America's third-largest gold mine — Cortez. In addition, leasehold interests are held in over one million acres in the Rocky Mountains. Now selling at 22x fiscal 1970 earnings, shares have speculative potential.

Q. On a friend's recommendation, we purchased Revlon at 65 as a hedge against inflation. Was this wise? — J. S.

A. Yes. You have chosen an excellent investment area, for the makers and suppliers of toiletries and cosmetics have thus far proved to be virtually recession-resistant. Revlon is an attractive holding in this field.

Company sales, for the initial half of 1970, rose 19.6 per cent year-to-year. Results include Mitchum Co., acquired in April, 1970. Although margins were under some pressure from less profitable acquisitions and rising costs, net income managed to show a healthy 16.8 per cent gain. Share profits totaled $1.22, up from 1969's $1.08.

Now a leading producer of cosmetics, Revlon is determined to become a major factor in the ethical drug area. Already, drug operations are expanding at an annual rate of about 20 per cent — twice that of their cosmetics line. Selling at approximately 26x projected 1970 earnings of $2.50 a share, stock should continue to be a sound inflation hedge.

OTHER PEOPLE'S BUSINESS

By HARRY CRAFT

Expected to open Dec. 1 at 509-B Francisco Boulevard, San Rafael is a new firm — Economy Imports of Marin.

This will be a wholesale and retail business in parts, accessories and tools for foreign automobiles. Owner Robert Palmer of Los Gatos, who has been operating three Economy Imports stores in Santa Clara County for the past six years, is moving to San Anselmo and will take charge here.

Economy Imports has been appointed distributor for Koni shock absorbers in Marin County and will also be a distributor for original Bosch and Lucas parts. Hours will be from 8:30 a.m. to 6 p.m. Mondays through Fridays and probably from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Saturdays.

A NEW USED CAR LOT under the name of Holiday Cars is being opened at the southwest corner of Fourth and Irwin Streets, San Rafael. This spot was formerly occupied by a Phillips 66 service station.

Owner Kent Taylor of Bel Marin Keys is confining his sales to imported cars of all makes. He was previously with Leon C. Felton, San Rafael Volkswagen distributor, and before that several years with the Nelson Buick-Opel agency in San Francisco.

He is getting his cars in now and expects to be fairly well stocked by the first of the month.

EXPANSION IS UNDER WAY for Isi-Wisnes, Inc., 623 Irwin Street, San Rafael, distributor for International automobiles and trucks.

The company has acquired the adjacent 4,000-square foot building behind it which faces on both Lincoln Avenue and Duffy Place through Herman Deitch, realtor. This is now being remodeled to provide added and improved service facilities for its sales and also its leasing business of all makes of automotive vehicles.

AUTOMOTIVE DEALERS in this area are being alerted by the Better Business Bureau of San Francisco to the receipt by dealers in some other states of unordered C.O.D. express packages from General Motv., Detroit, Mich., which are erroneously assumed to be from General Motors Corp. (Actual name of the company is General Motivation Co.) The C.O.D. charge is approximately $11.20.

The packages contain two small bearings and a letter from one C. L. Leaderbrand that if the recipient will constantly carry the bearings he will be reminded of the company's services. The return address in Detroit has been found to be that of an answering service.

The Better Business Bureau requests that it be notified immediately upon receipt of such unordered packages here.

ROBERT E. SAUNDERS of Novato is celebrating his 25th anniversary with Bank of America this month. He has served at various Northern California branches, becoming manager at Truckee in 1952 and assistant vice president in the credit department in 1962. He is now statewide head of the credit department. His brother Edward is manager of the Bank's Larkspur branch.
